THE POST SCHOOL AGAIN GOING

Fort Douglas Gazette—Two Recruits—Twenty-eight Years in the Service—The New Theatre.

The war is over. Lessons at the canteen. Muster and inspection on Saturday, the last day of the month. Snow fell on the 30th. The parade ground covered with snow, consequently no parades.

Subscribe for the best daily paper in Salt Lake—The Herald—keep posted on the world's doings.

First Lieutenant Walter A. Thurston, Sixteenth infantry, depot quartermaster at Ogden, was at the post recently.

Captain Clapp, Sixteenth infantry, who has been at Hot Springs, Arkansas, for treatment for rheumatism, has been granted a six months' extension of leave.

Work on the new fort theatre has not been resumed as yet, the carpenters having discontinued the same when we received our New Year's gift, i. e., our bad land trip.

Corporal Murray, company G, Sixteenth infantry, escorted the remains of Lieutenant Casey, Twenty-second infantry, who was killed in the bad lands, to Pawtucket, Rhode Island.

Two recruits arrived at the post on the evening of the 5th and left for Fort Duchesne on the morning of the 27th, having been assigned to company F, Sixteenth infantry, at that post.

During our absence the ice houses were well nigh filled—one more good freeze will complete the work of storing away the frigid blocks which will cool our water during the heated months.

The post school was resumed on the 26th instant. Our schoolboys will now have their daily instructions as of yore under the careful supervision of Prof. Spieldi, of company G, Sixteenth infantry.

Sergeant Russell, company B, Sixteenth infantry, is detailed on special duty now. He is an excellent gentleman and during our absence in the field performed the duties of canteen steward in a most creditable manner.

The old chestnut of our (Sixteenth infantry) contemplated move to California is now laid eternally to rest, a recent telegram tells us that the First Infantry has been ordered to its home in the Golden State. My opinion is, we are here for some years as yet.

I acknowledge the receipt of the Democrat, published at Chadron, Dawes Co., Nebraska. The editor, Mr. C. W. Allen, represented the New York Herald at Pine Ridge agency during the Sioux campaign, and did most excellent work. His paper is a good one and is authority on Indian matters.

The San Francisco War Cry, the Salvation army organ of the Pacific coast, in its last weekly issue presents pictorially the death of Lieutenant Casey in South Dakota whilst scouting. This paper is quite enterprising and the issue speaks commendably of its editor, if I am competent to pass judgment.

My friend, Tom Hayes, of company F, Twenty-first infantry, has completed over twenty-eight years in Uncle Sam's army. "Skip," as he is familiarly called, re-enlisted at Fort Robinson in his old company and when his thirty year period for retirement is completed, he will have completed twenty years in company F. Here's to you, "Skip."

First Lieutenant Warren Cowles is now regimental quartermaster, Sixteenth infantry, vice First Lieutenant Woodbury promoted to a captaincy. Colonel Blunt is to be congratulated on his selection of so worthy an officer for the duty of acting staff, whilst the newly made captain is likewise entitled to much praise for his excellent work as quartermaster.

The paragraph under the head "Abatement of Sentence" of the prison regulations, has been so amended as to require the commandant of the prison to recommend two weeks proceeding July 4, and Christmas in each year of the term of two persons who shall, in his opinion, be most deserving of a remission of the unexecuted part of their sentences. Heretofore one week preceding the day named was the time required.—Kansas City Times.

Lieutenant J. G. Ord, son of the late Major General Ord, U. S. A., and who was appointed a second lieutenant from the ranks—Lieutenant Ord, being at the time of his promotion, regimental quartermaster sergeant First infantry, has just had his appointment confirmed by the Senate. The objections to the young lieutenant were filed by Colonel Lazelle, Eighteenth infantry, caused a detention of several months in his confirmation, but upon a thorough sifting of the matter, the Senate declared Jules Garascho Ord as worthy of the shoulder straps and so ratified his appointment by their vote.

HEADQUARTERS SIXTEENTH INFANTRY, FORT DOUGLAS, UTAH, JANUARY 21, 1891.

Orders No. 1. With the approval of the secretary of war, First Lieutenant Warren H. Cowles is appointed regimental quartermaster, vice First Lieutenant Thomas C. Woodbury, promoted captain Sixteenth infantry.

In relieving Captain Woodbury from the position of regimental quartermaster, the regimental commandant desires to express his satisfaction as to the manner in which Captain Woodbury has conducted that department and at the same time to offer his congratulations on his promotion.

By order of Colonel Blunt. (Signed) S. W. DENNING, First Lieutenant, Sixteenth infantry, adjutant.

Paragraph 1130 as amended by orders of 1880 and 1890, is further amended to read as follows: "When mattresses are not supplied each enlisted man in barracks and each prisoner in the guardhouse will be allowed a bed-sack and thirty pounds of straw per month for bedding, and to men in field hospitals such quantity as the chief medical officer shall certify as necessary. So far as practicable, iron bunks will be furnished to all prisoners in post guard-houses and prison rooms."

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE PLATE, OMAHA, NEBRASKA, JANUARY 21, 1891. Circular No. 1.

When an enlisted man is furloughed and discharged under the provisions of article No. 20, series 1560, adjutant general's office, the acting commissary of subsistence of the post from which the furlough was granted, will make payment to such enlisted man by check, of the commutation of rations due for the time he was on furlough, transferring the same by registered mail on receipt of properly signed vouchers (Form No. 19). Should the acting commissary of subsistence not have sufficient funds on deposit to pay the amount required, he will transmit the vouchers to the chief commissary of subsistence at adjacent headquarters for payment.

By command of Brigadier General Brooke. M. V. SHERIDAN, Assistant Adjutant General.

Circulars are now out inviting subscriptions to the Fort Douglas Gazette, an 8x10, three column, twelve page, tri-monthly paper, which Mr. E. Nissen and "Fris" propose to offer for the digestion and criticism of our 600 people, the initial number bearing date February 10, 1891. I am prepared to say that (barring death, change of station and Indian wars) the Gazette will come to stay, and be, not as a friend jocosely remarked, a tri-monthly from the fact of the first issue being gotten out, when its proprietors will try to get out the remaining two numbers to complete the month. In this connection I desire to inform The Herald's patrons at Fort Douglas and elsewhere, that this new venture will not cause a discontinuance of these jottings, but my items will appear as regularly as they did before we unexpectedly journeyed to Northwestern Nebraska. I would be much pleased to see THE DAILY HERALD list availed to twice the size. It has published our news and given us better service than any other Salt Lake daily. So, boys, keep up your subscription to THE HERALD, and keep posted on the doings of the civilized world, also desire in this paragraph to thank the boys for past favors and for their appreciation of my writings from Adston, Nebraska. Had our lot been cast at Pine Ridge agency, would have done better. At all rates, subscribe for the soldiers' friend, THE HERALD, and be happy. FRITZ, JANUARY 27, 1891.

REMARKABLE RESCUE

Mrs. Michael Curtin, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs, Colds, and Hoarseness. She bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from the first dose. She continued its use and after taking ten bottles, found herself cured and well as ever was. Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at A. C. Smith & Co.'s Drug Store, large bottles 50c and $1.00.

Ballard's Snow Lintment

This invaluable remedy is one that ought to be in every household. It will cure your Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sprains, Cuts, Bruises, Burns, Frost-bitten Feet and Ears, Sore Throat and Sore Chest. If you have Lame Back it will cure it. It penetrates to the seat of the disease. It will cure Sore Joints and contracted muscles after all other remedies have failed. Those who have been crippled for years have used Ballard's Snow Lintment and thrown away their crutches and been able to walk as well as ever. It will cure you. Price 50 cents.—10

THE SALTUS SUIT.

The Novelist Has Something to Say About It.

He Comes Out Very Clean From a System of Spring Practised Upon Him—His Wife's Obedience Commended.

(Special to THE HERALD—Examiner Dispatch.) NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—On December 10, 1889, Mrs. Edgar Saltus, wife of the novelist, brought suit of absolute divorce, alleging a statutory offense, and naming as co-respondent a young lady friend of the household and one of its frequent inmates. She is the daughter of Mr. William G. Road, a well-known and wealthy business man of New York; and he is, of course, known to nearly every reader of contemporary American fiction. For a year nothing has been heard of the case. It appears, however, it has been passing through the regular legal stages and that numerous hearings have been had before Referee Theodore Conolly.

It was stated at the beginning of the suit that Mr. Saltus had made a confession of his guilt and had fled to Europe. A few days after the publication of the summons Mr. Saltus returned to this city. He denied he had made a confession of any kind, and put up in large bottles for the price of the proceedings before the referee have been held in camera, but Mr. Saltus disavowed his confession and other features of the case day with freedom which is charged is the one quality of his novels, beginning thus: "I was taken ill in London," he said, "and the fact of my illness was called to the newspapers here. As I subsequently learned the initial proceedings were then begun. I took the next ship home. To say that I was surprised at Mrs. Saltus' action is to put it mildly. We parted on the best possible terms. When I returned Mrs. Saltus wrote me a pretty note, in which she said it was all her father's doing; and as for herself, she fancied I would be happier as a bachelor. It was considerate of Mrs. Saltus to put it that way, and I could not but admire her taste and tact on the same time. As her father had selected as co-respondents two entirely innocent young ladies of unblemished reputation, it was my duty to propose an answer denying the allegations of the complaint and I want the action tried."

Edgar Saltus did not have long to wait. Referee Theodore Conolly was appointed to take testimony and his former servants appeared before the referee. They testified that during the time they were in the household they saw no one named as co-respondent by one of the plaintiff's relatives to keep a diary of his movements, to read his letters, listen at keyholes, to preserve scraps of any business correspondence, to gather or purloin, and whenever he received a visit, exercise watchfulness and vigilance. This state of things, it appeared, had been going on for a year and a half, during which the novelist was presumably too much absorbed in his own plots to notice the one at his elbow.

In spite of this vigilance and in spite, too, of the fact that Saltus is notoriously one of the most reckless and indifferent of men, the servants who were engaged in spotting him were unable to testify to anything but the most ordinary facts of life. The testimony was taken he again started for London and there occupied himself in writing a life of Christ, which is soon to be published.

In conversation with friends recently, he said: "If it had not been for this divorce suit, I could not have written it. It taught me what charity and forgiveness really are. I haven't a grievance to my name against Mrs. Saltus. I admit, I think it was ill-advised for her to sue me by publication, particularly when a cabman had been answered as well. It is impossible for me not to command her obedience."

The Will of George Bancroft. WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The will of the late George Bancroft has been placed in probate. The estate is given in trust for the benefit of relatives. Bancroft gives his portrait to the Smithsonian Institution, and his historical collections will be offered for sale to the Library of Congress, and in the event of their not being purchased to be offered to any public library, the money to be added to the trust fund. The library and printed works will be sold preferably to some one institution and this money is to go to the same fund. The income from his copyrights is also to go to this fund.

Snow and Flaw in Europe. LONDON, Jan. 23.—In England, France and Austria the rapid thaw continues. Havoc has been caused in western Germany by floods. In Berlin and eastern Germany, however, terrific snowstorms are raging. The Elbe and Weider are nearly free from ice, and navigation has been resumed on those two rivers. Numerous wrecks on the Indian sea are reported.

The Barbed Wire Manufacturers. CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—The barbed wire manufacturers, after a lengthy discussion, have decided for the Columbia Patent company to handle and control the barbed wire patents after they are purchased from Washburn & Moen. Instead of tribute to the latter firm, each manufacturer will then pay $1 per ton royalty to the new company and the profits of the company will be distributed among the stockholders. Washburn & Moen will be paid in the neighborhood of $300,000 for patents. The company will be organized within a couple of months.

The directors of the Durango Steel and Iron company, of Mexico, representing interests of $3,000,000, to day considered the propositions of an English syndicate to purchase the company. The matter was referred to a committee.

Italy and the Papal Succession. ROME, Jan. 23.—(Copyright, 1891, to the New York Associated Press.)—The Vatican has been advised by the Italian government that it is occupying itself diplomatically regarding the successor of Pope Leo, in order to prevent the election of a pope unfavorable to Italy, and favorable to France. Premier Crispi is endeavoring to demonstrate to the triple alliance that in view of the hostile spirit which exists in high circles in Rome, it is to the interest of the allied cabinets to prepare for the coming conclave. Every one, however, at the Vatican appears serene partly because the Pope still enjoys perfect health, and again because the sacred college can, in case of necessity, most elsewhere than in Rome. In conversation a highly placed personage said the times had passed when cardinals accept the veto of monarchies. Absolute liberty will henceforth be the principle on which the conclave will work. The personage in question said it was difficult to determine the probabilities of the next conclave. Various candidates have been mentioned, but none decided upon. Under extraordinary conditions, if the conclave is held abroad, and in the midst of European complication, it is to be presumed the cardinals would choose a neutral foreign pope. For example, Manning, of England; Gibbons, of America, or Malini. Again it is to be borne in mind, he said, that the foreign cardinals ere long will form a majority in the sacred college. With the development of Christianity the church deems more cardinals in America, Australia, Canada, China and Africa necessary, and this will modify essentially the conditions of the papacy. Further, as the world is becoming Romanized it is necessary the papacy should become universal. From this it is evident the pope can no longer be exclusively Italian. Manning and Gibbons have especially gained in ecclesiastical opinion during these latter years.

A QUESTION WELL ANSWERED.

In What Respect is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Better Than Any Other.

WE WILL TELL YOU. It is the only remedy that will liquify the tough, tenacious mucus incident to colds, and render it easy to expectorate.

It is the only remedy that will cause the expulsion of mucus from the air cells of the lungs.

It is the only remedy that will counteract the effect of a severe cold and greatly mitigate, if not effectually cure the cold within one day's time. To do this it must be used as soon as the first symptoms of the cold appear.

It will cure a severe cold in less time than any other treatment.

It is the only remedy that will prevent croup.

It is the only remedy that has cured thousands of cases of croup without a single failure.

It is the only remedy that will prevent all dangerous consequences from whooping cough.

It is pleasant and safe to take. There is not the least danger in giving it to children in large and frequent doses which are always required in case of croup and sometimes for whooping cough.

It is put up in large bottles for the price. Many persons who have used it for years and know from experience its true value, say that a 50 cent bottle of Chamberlain's cough remedy will go further towards curing severe colds, and do more real good than a dollar bottle of any other cough medicine they have ever used.
