Advertisements in this column 50 cents per line each insertion.

Parties removing from one place to another, and desiring papers changed, should always give former as well as present address.

TRAVELERS FROM SALT LAKE

Will find THE HERALD on all railroad trains in the west, at the news stands in Denver, Butte, Omaha, Leadville, Portland, Boise and all other western cities. Also at the P. O. News company, Chicago; Brentano's, Union square, New York; Palace Hotel, San Francisco; Cheyenne News Co., Cheyenne, and the Ebbitt house, Washington. Readers of THE HERALD who do not find it offered for sale on the trains or other places where it should be, will confer a favor by notifying us immediately.

WHAT ABOUT 1892?

If you have not made your advertising arrangements for the coming year, let THE HERALD make some figures for you. This paper goes into nearly every home in Utah, most of those in Idaho, and a big proportion of those in Colorado, Wyoming and Arizona. No merchant or dealer who has wares for sale can find a better means for reaching the people than by using the columns of THE HERALD. If you can't afford daily advertising, try the SEMI-WEEKLY, every other day, twice a week, or THE SUNDAY HERALD only, but your business should be represented in THE HERALD in some shape, little or big.

EVERYBODY READS THE HERALD.

SCHOOL ITEMS.

After a well-earned rest of two weeks, pupils, teachers and school officers turned their attention to school matters yesterday with renewed energy. The work in all departments will doubtless move forward with alacrity during the remainder of the school year. With the incoming of the new year there should be in every mind the determination to make of 1892 a great year for growth for the schools at large and in the life of each individual connected with them.

There is being published by the Educational Publishing company, in Chicago, a book on "Drawing Simplified," by D. R. Augsburg, city supervisor of drawings in this city. Prof. Augsburg is becoming widely known over the United States as an artist, and, what is better, as a practical teacher of and writer upon drawing. Drawing is rapidly coming to the front among the schools, and this recognition of a hitherto neglected branch is largely due to such men as Prof. Augsburg.

* * *

W. W. Barton, principal of the Hunter school, who went east before the holidays, has returned with a young lady who was until lately Miss Adams, of Perth, Kansas, as his bride. The writer of this takes pleasure in extending congratulations and a whole furniture van full of good wishes to the young couple, and feels sure that the teachers will unite in cordially welcoming Mrs. Barton to Salt Lake city.

* * *

The Inter-Mountain Educator, published in the city, is to commence the new year improved in several respects. It is to have a new lithographed heading. Several new departments have been added, which have been placed in able hands, and the whole is to be rearranged in attractive form. A number of articles from able pens have been promised. The Educator is rapidly growing in favor and its future seems bright.

* * *

There is being published in the city a musical journal of which Prof. J. C. Wolfe, supervisor of music in the city schools, is editor.

Soon the twenty-five flags presented by the Youth's Companion, will wave over the twenty-five Salt Lake city schools. It is hoped that this beautiful gift will give an impulse to the teaching of patriotism in the schools. Few pupils, or people, for that matter, have a just conception of the blessings of the government under which we live. Let teachers all try to teach their pupils to love the country of which these beautiful flags are the emblem.

JEFFERSON DEMOCRATIC CLUB.

THE MINING SUIT

The Rebuttal Commenced by the Old Jordan.

MORE EXPERT TESTIMONY

The Grand and Petit Jurors for the February Term—Police, Probate and County Courts.

The trial of the big Old Jordan-Niagra mining suit was resumed before Judge Anderson yesterday morning, when the plaintiff commenced its rebuttal by calling

PROF. KEYES.

He testified that he visited the property in dispute at Bingham a few days ago, and going into the Utah tunnel at the forty-seven-foot level, took eight specimens of rock at distances of ten feet apart.

Mr. Brown, for the defense, objected strenuously to the witness being allowed to describe these specimens, on the ground that he had gone all over this subject before, and that the testimony was not rebuttal.

The witness was allowed to testify, however, and the witnesses for the defense had doubtless mistaken one of these specimens for quartzite.

This brought Mr. Brown to his feet with an objection. He was willing to admit that the witness was an expert lawyer, but he was not an expert mind reader. The objection was sustained and the witness continued to describe the character of the disputed area, the geological formations and the character of the rock encountered in the various tunnels, etc., all of which went in under a constant stream of objections by the defense.

Arthur Brown then took the witness in hand and examined him at considerable length as to the forty-seven-foot tunnel of the Utah shaft. Prof. Keyes insisted that the foot wall of the tunnel was in quartzite, but Mr. Brown brought out the fact that it was covered with six feet of debris, and that the witness had not cleared that away to make a particular examination of it.

B. B. VAN DUSEN

was the next witness. He produced samples from the 47-foot level of the Utah shaft, the first being taken from the middle of the shaft, the face of which was broken down. Another sample was taken at the contact of the Utah tunnel, near its western end.

The defense made an objection to this testimony, and it was excluded.

The witness once more discribed the character of the ground, and was subjected to a long cross-examination on this subject by Mr. Dickson. All sorts of geological problems were submitted, and much learned discourse was had theeron, to the confusion of everyone except the Tribune reporter, who formerly lived in Loadville.

ADVERSE POSSESSION.

At this stage Mr. Brown stated that the defense had one other witness to introduce on the subject of adverse possession. There was no objection to this and Deputy Marshal Joseph Bush was called. He testified: I went to Brigham first in the fall of 1874, and have been mining there off and on ever since. With others I obtained a lease on a portion of the Utah property, and we used the Red Warrior cut for entrance and exit. The Utah company used the Red Warrior cut and the property around there continuously. Messrs. Gousha and Argyle pointed out to us the dividing line between the Utah and the Old Jordan, and it was respected by both parties. The west stake was about ten feet west of the centre of the Orphan Boy gulch.

The plaintiff resumed its rebuttal by calling

O. A. PALMER,

who took the attorneys through the forty-seven foot level of the Utah shaft. There was quartzite in passing station twenty-six, and it then passed into limestone.

BERT HOLDEN

was recalled and testified that in 1880 and 1891 he made surveys for the Niagara company of the Mary Ann Quaker claims, but not of the Red Warrior.

The witness produced a sketch made by him at the time, but this was ruled out as immaterial. Mr. Holden then went on to describe the ground, and gave a brief history of the working of it since 1883.

Mr. Dickson—When did you first learn that this immense system stopping connecting both the Red Warrior and other properties had been done by Utah people?

The Witness—About 1890.

"When Dr. Hunter was talking to you about purchasing the Dartmouth from the Utah people, why did you not say to him that your company claimed the property?"

"It was none of my business at all."

"You know where the old Utah smelter stood?"

"Yes sir."

"And saw the slag there?"

"Yes sir."

"You knew that it came from the ore smelted by the Utah company?"

"Yes sir."

"And talked about it to Dr. Hunter, didn't you?"

"No sir."

"Didn't you tell Dr. Hunter that there was the same formation in the Utah as in the South Galena?"

"No sir."

"Didn't you understand that Dr. Hunter wanted you opinion on the mine?"

"Yes, I think he wanted it, but he didn't want it badly enough to pay me for it. My business is mining engineering, and if he had paid me for an opinion I would have given it."

Adjourned until this morning at 10.

BEFORE JUDGE ZANE.

The Grand and Petit Jurors — Other Business.

Judge Zane yesterday gave notice that on January 9, at 10 a. m., a session of court would be held for the purpose of drawing eighteen names for grand jurors to serve during the February term, and thirty names for petit jurors for the same term.

HOW ABOUT IT?

To the Editor of THE HERALD:

Some time since it was reported that one of Frank's patrolmen had pawned his pin and star in a saloon. Whatever truth there may have been in this it is certain E. F. Bromham is a man of good character, as all who are acquainted with him will testify. He is a man of family and served for thirteen months in the fire department. Give him a fair show. A CITIZEN.

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 4.

ANCIENT ORDER OF FORESTERS.

The members of Court Pride No. 7257 are requested to meet at A. O. U. W. hall, 33½ S. West Temple street, at 8 o'clock sharp Wednesday evening. Visiting brethern cordially invited. By order of the C. R.

G. W. ARHMOR, Secretary.

AMUSEMENTS.

TO-NIGHT'S CONCERT.

One of the rarest musical entertainments Salt Lake has listened to for many seasons will be that at the tabernacle this evening, when the Mendelssohn amateur club from Boston and the tabernacle choir furnish the programme. As the admission is placed at 50 cents all over the house. There should be a great turnout.

"MR. POTTER, OF TEXAS."

A large and representative audience assembled at the theatre last evening, attracted by three things: first, curiosity to see what sort of a play had been made out of the popular novel "Mr. Potter, of Texas;" second, to see Jeffrey Lewis again, and third, to welcome the well-known actor, Mr. Joseph Wheelock. All these desires were gratified, and yet we doubt whether the evening can be set down as having been one of entire success. Potter of Texas is not the novel Barnes of New York is, and as a play "Barnes" is as far ahead of "Potter" as "Shenandoah" is of "Yon Yonson." The trouble with "Potter" is that it is all strained and artificial; there is no heart interest, and though there are some thrilling episodes, there is little or nothing to excite sympathy—and without sympathy what play can be a success! Many of the best scenes in the book, too, are left out of the play, which was not the case with Barnes. The main part of the cast is in good hands, but even the characters are overdrawn, and Jeffrey Lewis, who was unrivalled in all the world as "Forget Me Not," has little to do but rant and tear, and the spectacle was not an agreeable one; her voice, too, is not pleasant to listen to, particularly when it is pitched in the high key necessary in the part of Sarah Annerly. The sterling actor, Wheelock, did, perhaps, all he could with Potter, but the results could not be called great. The character is overdrawn, and it has no particularly clever lines or situations; we cannot resist the the conviction, knowing Mr. Wheelock's reputation, that he is out of his line, as for his character. Well, Hoyt's "Texas Steer" has several better types of Texans than Mr. Gunter's Potter. Aikers is always good, and he was good as usual last night. The youthful heroes were all too much of the lah-de-dah, stick-of-candy order to excite much interest in their quarrels and woes, and Miss Lamar's Ida Potter was not at all the Ida Potter of the novel. Mr. Jackson was a fair Lubbins, and Mr. Kingstone a good detective. The show goes again this evening.

MRS. CRAWFORD'S MUSICALE.

Mme. Jeannette W. Crawford, the pianist, of Boston, gave an initial recital, preceded by a short address on the subject of music, at the Metropolitan parlors last evening. A most interested company of music-loving folk was present and enjoyed a rare treat

The announcement for the evening was the rendition of the Beethoven piano sonatas, and the numbers given were Op. 46. Pol. — Op. 29 Improm. — Op. 47. — Bal. — Op. 42. Pol.

To criticize each number would be superfluous. The lady gave every indication of being a most thorough artist, and it is to be regretted that she did not have a piano that could be made to perfectly reproduce her exquisite interpretations. For such master creations, only a Concert-Grand of the finest pattern can be made to express all the soul within them.

The fourth number—op. 42, Pol—gave Mme. Crawford the best opportunity to display her technical skill. Before a cosmopolitan audience she would probably not meet with undivided approval, but the true musician cannot fail to thoroughly appreciate her work.

As Mme. Crawford remarked at the close of her performance, these recitals are not given with the mere view of entertaining—they are more adapted to please those who desire to be instructed. She is an enthusiast in the study of Beethoven and believes that the sonatas cannot be fully understood when nothing but the intellectual and technical is recognized. She introduces as well the ethical, for the soul nature exists in the mind of the truly great pianist. When she can be heard upon her own instrument, made especially for her own use, further criticism may be permitted. During March she promises to give all of Beethoven's sonatas.

CATHOLIC SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Yesterday afternoon the Sunday school children of St. Mary's church were made happy by a most pleasant entertainment given at Clift's Academy hall under the auspices of the Young Ladies' Christian Doctrine society.

The exercises consisted of vocal and instrumental music followed by a distribution of presents. The tree was most beautifully decorated and 150 children were made the happy recipients of kind remembrances.

The prizes, consisting of two gold and one silver medal, were awarded to Miss Bubnaltz, Gerald Byrne and Kate Ward for excellence in catechism work. The affair was under the immediate superintendence of Father Fitzgerald, and Bishop Scanlan distributed the prizes.

IN THE EVENING

the older folks of the congregation and their many friends enjoyed a treat in the form of a literary, musical and social programme, followed by dancing and refreshments. The exercises were as follows:

Chorus, "Come Over the Silvery Waves"... ..... Y. L. C. D. choir
Dialect recitation, "Death of the Old Squire" ..... J. C. McNally
Song, "Mr. McCarthy" ..... Dr. Bill
Recitation.... Inez de Castro, Miss Fanny Judge
Song, "They Never Come Back" ..... Patrick Gleason
Recitation, "Eugene Arim's Dream" ..... William Ford
Song, "Her Bright Smile Haunts Me Still" ..... Miss Harley
Reading, "The Irish Avatar"... ..D. W. Stafford
"Star Spangled Banner" ..... By the choir

The floor was then cleared, and to the enlivening strains of Clift's orchestra the evening was soon danced away.

A very nice supper was served in the adjoining rooms, the large crowd participating in a most enjoyable manner.

The greatest credit is due the committee of management, consisting of Misses Judge, Gleason, Duguet, Harley, Wall, Harding, Grice and Kein, aided by Mesdames, Simpkins, Bill and Viglini, for the success of the entertainment.

LA GRIPPE!

The tendency of this disease towards pneumonia is what makes it dangerous. La grippe requires precisely the same treatment as a severe cold. Chamberlain's cough remedy is famous for its cures of severe colds. This remedy effectually counteracts the tendency of the disease to result in pneumonia, provided that proper care be taken to avoid exposure when recovering from the attack. Careful inquiry among the many thousands who have used this remedy during the epidemics of the past two years has failed to discover a single case that has not recovered or that has resulted in pneumonia; 50 cent and $1 bottles for sale by Z. # Buckwheat Cakes.

The old way of setting to raise over night by the use of yeast, while the cakes were light yet there was always a well founded suspicion that buckwheat cakes made in that manner were indigestible and unwholesome, because of the chemical action that takes place, so alters the flour from its original character, that the souring or decomposing process continues in the stomach, followed by dyspepsia and kindred troubles.

The new way does away with all fermentation, souring etc., and places upon the table smoking hot buckwheat cakes in 12 minutes or less. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is the element that superseded the old methods. Buckwheat and all griddle cakes made with Dr. Price's Powder are not only exceedingly light and delicious, but can be enjoyed by dyspeptics and invalids with impunity. Dr. Prices Cream is the only baking powder cantaining the whites of eggs.

SPORTING SPLINTERS.

The captains of the various teams entered in the forthcoming tug of war tournament are requested to be present at practice to-night as business of importance will be discussed.

Captain Peterson, of the Danes, who made such a gallant fight in the recent tug of war tournament, announces that his team is still "in it" and offers to pull the Italians at any time and for any amount of money. When these two teams last met they struggled for five hours and ten minutes, and at the end of that time, the contest was declared a draw.

Sam Hullar has gone to Butte to manage a tug of war tournament. Sam is a first-class sporting manager, and if he has half a show, will be successful.
