

Pictures Showing Scenes at Waist Factory Fire Horror In the Heart of New York City

Photographs copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Investigations with a view to fixing the blame for the horrible shirt waist factory fire in New York city late Saturday afternoon have been set on foot. It is the belief of the district attorney that criminal negligence caused the fire, which resulted in the deaths of 142 persons, mostly girls and young women waist operatives, and the injury of many more. The ten story building at the northwest corner of Washington place and Greene street, only half a block from historic Washington square, is of the modern fireproof construction, yet the fire in the three upper floors, all occupied by the waistmakers, spread so rapidly that scores of the victims chose death by jumping from the windows rather than roast to death inside. The inflammable material for making waists and the furnishings of the plant were destroyed, the building itself being left practically intact save for the burning of the planking covering the concrete floors and the woodwork around the windows. In the illustration the upper picture shows the condition of the eighth floor, where the fire started, after the flames died down.

HYRUM NEWS

Hyrum, April 19.—Last Saturday, the Second ward baseball team played the boys from the First ward. It was an interesting game from start to finish, although the Second ward boys played a much better game, the umpire decided in favor of their opponents. Next Friday the regular Hyrum team will meet the B. Y. C. bunch on the Hyrum field, and on Saturday the Second ward team will play Providence on the Providence grounds.

After a few days' stay in Hyrum, Miss Anabell McIntosh returned to Salt Lake City.

Elders Austin Allen and Leo Nelson return home from the mission field last Saturday. Both boys were full of the gospel truth and sermons were delivered by them in their ward meeting house last Sunday.

Mr. A. J. Peterson has returned from Bliss, Idaho, where he has been working.

Dr. Thomas, our local dentist, is very busy these spring days. He had a hurry up call to make to Wellsville. When he reached the town he was surprised to find it was a boy with only the toothache.

The Thorpe Brothers are plastering the new tithing office.

Mr. Train Hargraves was in Hyrum last week.

Portuguese Burial Custom.

They have an unusual mode of burial in Portugal. Instead of the headstones and monuments of the graveyards of other countries the cemetery of Lisbon shows rows and rows of tiny chapels ranged in long avenues bordered by cypress trees.

The Portuguese are reluctant to bury their dead out of sight, and these chapels serve as mortuaries for the coffins, which are placed on the shelves within. Through the iron grills the eye discerns small altars and flowers gleaming through the subdued light of the interiors.—Manchester Courier.

KINDNESS

Do not be afraid of spoiling any one with kindness. It can't be done. Instead of spoiling it beautifies the character, cheers the heart and helps to raise the burden from shoulders which, though brave, sometimes grow very tired. Let not a little coldness frighten you away, for under a frigid exterior there is always to be found a tender chord which is to be touched by kindness.

Travel and Self.

This is the charm of travel—to keep up the feeling of strangeness to the end, never to take things for granted or let them grow stale, to see them all ways as though one had never seen them before. Then and only then can we see things as they really are. When I become cosmopolitan, world old, wise, when I think and speak in all languages, I shall fly to some deserted island to study the last, most impenetrable enigma—myself.—From "The Romance of the Commoplace," by Gelett Burgess.

Self Raising Fame.

At the request of the new lecturer the driver of the sight seeing wagon stopped on every trip before an old fashioned three story brick house near Washington square, where the lecturer bawled through the megaphone: "This is the birthplace of William Howard Bidwell."

That statement brought a puzzled look into the faces of passengers, but the lecturer's impressive manner carried them into silence, and nobody got up spunk enough to ask questions. But one day the driver said in a confidential whisper: "See, Bill, who in thunder is this William Howard Bidwell anyhow?" "Me," said the lecturer. New York Times.

Plow Ahead.

Pay as little attention to discouragements as possible. Plow ahead as a steamer does, rough or smooth, rain or shine. To carry your cargo and make your port is the point.—Maltbie D. Babcock.

FROM HYDE PARK

Hyde Park, April 17.—Funeral services were held over the remains of the 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Burgess, from the residence today at 2 p. m. The house was crowded with friends and sympathizers of the family. The speakers were George Z. Lamb, Bishop Joseph Weston of Laketown, Suel E. Lamb, H. W. Hancey, Wm. A. Seamons, J. W. D. Hurten, Ross H. Hyde and Bishop Charles G. Hyde. The choir sang "The Resurrection Morn," "I Need Thee Every Hour," and "Our Everlasting Friend." The invocation was offered by Councilor Lorenzo Peterson and the benediction pronounced by Stephen Thurston. Twenty-seven vehicles followed the remains to the cemetery. The twin sister to the deceased has been quite sick and is now improving. The sympathy of the whole community goes out to Brother and Sister Burgess in their bereavement.

Operations upon the waterworks ceased last week, pending the arrival of the wood piping. It is now here and distributed along the line. Work will be resumed tomorrow. Mrs. Jackson, who had a cancer removed from her face April 7th, was able to return home on the 15th. Her progress thus far has been marvelous.

Beet planting is now the order of the day with the farmers.

Wallace Waite had a lively runaway last week. He hitched a horse unused to single driving to a cart; the horse became frightened at a pig on the street and ran away, throwing Mr. Waite out and breaking both shafts of the cart. Quite a number of our people attended the Easter services held in Logan Tabernacle Sunday last.
