Modern Sheep: BREEDS AND MANAGEMENT.

BY "SHEPHERD BOY."

This is a book that every sheepman should have.
It is undoubtedly the best book ever written on sheep, as it is from the pen of a practical shepherd, whose experience has been wide and varied.
It contains nearly 350 pages of packed (not padded) matter, which means an equivalent to 700 pages of some similar works. It is beautifully illustrated with over 100 half-tones, and its subjects are treated in eight parts: History and Breeds; General Management; Sheep Management in the Western States; Fitting for Show;

The Raising of "Hothouse" or Spring Lambs; Dressing Sheep and Lambs for Market; Pastures, Forage Crops, Etc.; and Diseases. No matter what books you have on sheep, your library is decidedly incomplete without this splendid work.

Secretary Wilson, Dep't of Agriculture, says
of this book: "I have looked over 'Shepherd Boy's' book on modern sheep, and believe it would be valuable for ready reference to the teacher, editor, lecturer and farmer."
It can be secured through this office at its published price of $1.50, postpaid.

LIVESTOCK*RED SKINS CAUSE EXCITE-MENT.

For many years past the Whites and Blacks have reigned in peace in the United States, but about three-quarters of a century ago the Red Skins became noticeable, and today they are becoming very numerous and their fame is fast spreading over the West, especially in our state awakening to the fact that these creatures merit all that is claimed for them.

These Red Skins are the famous Duroc Jersey swine, which are fast becoming the butchers' favorite. Ever since 1903, butchers have paid considerable more for this breed, or even grades, than any other class of pork. There are now five families of red pigs; namely, Red Berkshire, Tamworth, Duroc, Jersey Reds, and Duroc Jerseys. The Duroc Jersey is a cross upon the Duroc and the Jersey Reds.

The Durocs originated in New York State many years ago, and are a fat, blocky pig, while the Jersey Reds are more rangy and came from New Jersey about fifty years ago. In 1877 breeders of Duroc and Jersey Reds met and adopted a standard for their breeds and this standard is now used by the National Duroc Jersey Record Association, and is as follows:

Head. Head small in proportion to size of body, wide between eyes; face nicely dished (about half way between a Poland China and a Berkshire) and tapering well down to the nose, surface smooth and even.

Eyes. Lively, bright and prominent.

Ears. Medium, moderately thin, pointing forward, downward and slightly outward, carrying a slight curve attached to head very neatly.

Neck. Short, thick, and very deep, slightly arching.

Jowl. Broad, full and neat, carrying fullness to point of shoulders and on a line with breast bone.

Shoulders. Moderately broad, very deep and full, carrying thickness well down and extending above line of back.

Chest. Large, very deep, filled behind shoulders; breast bone extending well forward so as to be readily seen.

Back and Loin. Back medium in breadth, straight or slightly arching, carrying even width from shoulder to ham; surface even and smooth.

Sides and Ribs. Sides very deep, medium in length, level between shoulders and hams and carrying out full down to line of belly; ribs long, strong, and sprung in proportion to width of shoulders and hams.

Belly and Flank. Straight and full and carrying well out to line of sides, flank well down to lower line of sides.

Hams and Rump. Broad, full and well let down to the hock; buttock full and coming nearly down and filling full between hocks; rump should have a round slope from loin to root of tail, same width as back, and well filled out around tail.

Legs and Feet. Medium size and length, straight, nicely tapered, wide apart, and well set under the body; pastern short and strong, feet short firm and tough.

Tail. Medium, large at base and nicely tapering and rather bushy at end.

Coat. Moderately thick and fine, straight smooth, and covering the body well.

Color. Cherry red without admixtures.

Size. Large for age and condition, boars 2 years old and over should weigh 600 pounds; sows same age and condition, 500 pounds; boars 18 months, 475 pounds; sow 400 pounds; boars 12 months, 350 pounds; sows 300 pounds; boar and sow pigs 6 months, 150 pounds. These figures are for animals in fair show condition.

Action and Style. Action vigorous and animated; style free and easy.

Condition. Healthy skin free from any scurf, scales, sores, or mange; flesh evenly laid over the entire body and free from lumps.

Disposition. Very quiet and gentle; easily handled or driven.

Among Utah's most prominent breeders is Mr. F. R. Peart, Cornish, Utah, who, upon request, kindly gives some of his experience with the Duroc Jerseys.

"I have been breeding Duroc Jersey swine for more than five years and find them to do better under my treatment than any other breed I have tried. They excel all others as mothers, farrowing not less than seven and up to sixteen,—are very kind and gentle generally saving all their litter, and are splendid fongers. They are very deep, good length, extra good hams and shoulders, and for quality of meat they have no equal (so say the butchers.) Under good care, my pigs have weighed at 6 months, 250 pounds, at one year 400 pounds, at 18 months, 600 pounds."

THE DUROCS.

We Durocs are the best.

For in the show ring we beat the rest,

We are kind and gentle and mild,
Shifty, active, and have the best style.

We have good faces and strong feet,
And when in bacon can't be beat.
Talk about chops, beefsteak and lamb—

Just try some of our ham.

Some hog's ham is very mean,
While ours is noted for the beautiful lean.

Some like the Polands, some like others—

But we Durocs make the best mothers.

We love our pigs and care for them well,

And the way they grow no man can tell.

Care for us well, you'll find we are sifters,

And worthy the name of mortgage lifters.

—Blooded Stock.
