

LIFE ON THE FARM.

We have received the article presented herewith from Superintendent A. C. Nelson of the State Public School System with the suggestion that it be published in these columns. The article is a portion of an address by President Roosevelt, delivered at Jordanville, New York, a few weeks ago.

You know that old saying that God made the country and man made the town; well, it is said that the last is not yet an improvement of the first. I am glad to see the cities grow, but not at the expense of the country. Their tendency to grow is not because of the opportunity they present to make great fortunes, but because of their tendency to be more interesting and attractive in themselves.

I hope, in the course of a few decades, to see the farmers bend their energies towards making life in the country more interesting and more attractive, and towards inducing our people to understand how really attractive our country life is at present. I sometimes get impatient with the individual who goes to the city because he can find no attraction in the country, but I am doubtful if the fault lies with him so much as with the fact that there is too much loneliness and isolation and a failure to take advantage of much that could be used with the expenditure of little energy.

I have done what I could to develop rural mail free delivery. I want to see it developed still further, the same as the telephone and bicycle have been developed. This is first-class country hereabouts, but hard, I admit, for bicycling; too much of it stands upon end.

I welcome the development of every agency that tends to increase the attractiveness of country life and develop the social side of it. I believe that more and more buildings like this could be used to advantage, not only because of the books, but because it can be used as a place for social meetings, a place where you boys and girls can meet socially.

The hardest worked individual on the farm is apt to be the mother or wife of the farmer. I believe in the farmer economizing, but on himself, not on his wife. If you have got to drop some one, drop one hired man rather than the hired girl. I want to see buildings like this one used for mothers' meetings. It gives the women a chance to meet each other socially, and it puts them in better trim for work.

Teach your boy to work, for he has got to earn his own livelihood, to pull his own weight. No one can pull it for him. He will be a drone and a drag if you do not let him do his own part. My ideal of a boy is one who will grow up and be able to support himself and a wife and children. To be fit to be an American citizen he has got to preserve his self-respect and conduct himself so as to wrong no one else.

Enthusiasm is the height of man; it is the passing from the human to the divine.—Retail Grocers' Magazine.

"It is all wrong to leave the same canned goods on display all summer. Sameness in arrangement and in color schemes are monotonous. Fly-specked goods are synonymous with poor advertising, and sameness of display awakes no new interest in your store. Keep clean, keep active, keep thinking."—Ex.
