

SAUNTERINGS

A farmer from San Pete county who came up last week to celebrate the arrival of the Wizard, purchased a sport shirt. He doled himself up for the return trip and upon his arrival at home, the following conversation ensued:

"Joshua!" exclaimed his wife, "ain't you kind o' mussed up?"

"Don't you like this new collar, Mirandy?"

"Are you sure it's a collar?"

"Why certainly."

"Well I suppose it's all right. I thought mebbe you had your shirt on upside down."

The important event of the day in society will be the marriage of Miss Ruth Sowles to Stephen H. Lynch, Jr., which will take place at the home of the brother of the bride, Melvin H. Sowles. The Rev. George E. Davies of the First Presbyterian church will officiate, and the ceremony will be followed by a reception. The bride will be attended by Miss Florence Hall, a maid of honor, Miss Lillian Doscher, a bridesmaid, and little Mary Jane Sowles ring bearer. Brent Lynch will be best man. Those who will assist at the reception will be Mrs. Jack Richards, Mrs. H. F. Anderson, Miss Elsa Bamberger, Miss Darlene Kimball and Miss Martha Richards.

Harry Macmillan is in New York after having spent several weeks in Arizona where he visited some mining districts in which he is interested.

Colonel E. Polk Johnson of Louisville, who fought for the Confederacy, read something in the dispatches from the front the other day that reminded him very much of what happened when he was serving in the Western Army in the Civil War. "I remember it was a wet, cold, rainy night in the middle of winter," said the veteran, "when a long, lean chap in my regiment was ordered to go on picket duty. He thought the situation over for a minute and then he turned to the sergeant who had brought the message. 'You go right straight back whar you come from,' he drawled, 'and tell the cap'n I jest natchelly can't do it. I got a letter from Gin'ral Bragg this mawnin,' and he said good men was gittin' almighty skeerce in this here army, and for me to take good care of myse'f.'"

The contortions that one's tongue has to go through with, in order to properly pronounce some of Europe's "war names," frequently remind us of the old "tongue twisters" that were used in the country schools many years ago, especially if, like those old phrases, they be pronounced quickly. Pick out a list of such names from the daily papers and try it. Compare them with the following "twister" of the old school days:

"A skunk jumped over a stump into a skunk hole;" or "What sort of a noise annoys an oyster. A noisy noise annoys an oyster;" or "If Peter Piper picked a peck of pickle peppers, how many pickle peppers did Peter Piper pick?"

Another "slippery" one is the beginning of Dr. John Wallis' verses published in 1653: "When a twister, a-twisting, will twist him a twist, for the twisting of his twist he three twines doth in-twist."

Here are four others that are among the hardest to repeat without "tripping" sadly: "Flesh of freshly dried flying fish."
