

Beer is made by the fermentation of malt extracts. This process is slow and beer should be stored in brewery vats long enough to completely finish this fermentation. Once the fermentation is completely over, beer does not improve by further aging.

is stored at the brewery until it is completely finished. It is then delivered to you promptly, at its very best. It is not allowed to wait in kegs or bottles for months before being delivered, because beer slowly deteriorates when left very long in the keg or bottle.

done what they hoped to do; they have frightened the world, and it laughs at them no longer. But we feel that Providence has played an ugly trick, as Dickens would have done if he had turned Mr. Boffin into a homicidal maniac. And the worst of it is that the Germans are still of the same nature as their fathers, and will some day return to their right minds. That we have always to remember, and to pity them more even than their victims. That old childish Germany of the fairy stories and the cradle songs has been, and it will be again; but the Germans of the future will have memories that no children ought to have.—Town Talk.

The stroller in the Seattle Argus, tells a new one on the rental department of a real estate concern there. One day one of the men started out to collect the rent at a certain two-story dwelling. It had been some time since anything had been forthcoming and the astute real estate man thought that he might be able to come to an understanding and save a tenant—and there were a good many vacancies in those days.

He was met at the door by a coarse looking woman, and upon explaining his business was tendered a five dollar gold piece.

"But, madam," he explained, "your rent is fifteen dollars per month, and you are already in arrears three months."

"You'd better take what you can get these times, young man, and make the best of it," replied the tenant. "If my old man hadn't sold the plumbing out'er the bath room you wouldn't have got that."

That is a good hunch for a lot of people with the cold winter coming on.

CLICK O' THE LATCH

By Nancy Byrd Turner.

The silence holds for it, taut and true;
The young moon stays for it, wistful white;
Winds that whimpered the sunset through,
Sigh for it, low and light.

Click o' the latch, and he'll come home—
A stir in the dusk at the little gate,
Hush, my heart, and be still, my heart—
Surely it's sweet to wait!

The tall skies lean for it, listening—
Never a star but lends an ear—
The passionate porch flowers stop and cling,
Parting their leaves to hear.

Click o' the latch, an' him come home—
A step on the flags, a snatch of song,
Hurry, my heart, be swift, my heart—
How did we wait so long!

—Lippincott's.

PAINFUL PUBLICITY

"The streets of New York are a blaze of glory—a veritable riot," explained the American. "Why, there's one electric sign with 100,000 lights in it."

"Doesn't that make it rawther conspicuous, old top?" asked his British friend.—Harper's Weekly.

FULFILLING ENGAGEMENTS

The Flirt—Oh dear, what a lot of people will be unhappy when I get married!

The Other—Why, how many are you marrying?—Exchange.

CAUSE FOR WORRY

"What is Owens worrying about, his debts?"
"No; because he is unable to contract new ones."—St. Louis Republic.
