CLEAR THE TRACKS AND THEN KEEP THEM CLEAR.

They are needed for shipping war supplies. And for transporting soldiers. And for moving grain. They are not needed just now for carrying household commodities. These have been carried already. To get them from mail order houses adds to railroad congestion.

IS VICIOUS AND UNCALLED FOR

Language, Intent and Effect of Proposed Amendment Is to Cripple the Mining Industry.

Some of those occupants of positions on the state's payroll who are more or less vehemently urging the adoption of the mine tax amendment, says Sunday's Salt Lake Tribune, are seeking to convey the impression that the measure does not increase the powers of the appointive state board of equalization, and that the powers of the board in this respect will be regulated by legislative enactment.

Let us see. The present constitution provides that mine improvement and mine proceeds shall be taxed by the board, but it also provides, for mines and all other property, definite limits. The proposed amendment absolutely removes all limits by providing that mine proceeds shall be assessed "at a value based on some multiple or submultiple of the net annual proceeds," and does not specify what multiple or submultiple shall be used. It may be as little or as much as the board sees fit.

If, as it is argued, the legislature is to have a voice in the matter, why does not the proposed amendment say so? It would have been easy to make it read "at some multiple or submultiple of the net annual proceeds to be determined by law." But it does not do that. On the contrary, it makes a clear distinction by providing that the proceeds of metal mines and the value of other mineral deposits shall be "assessed and taxed" by the state board of equalization, but that the surface ground of claims shall be taxed "as provided by law." The legislature has a voice only in the assessment of the surface ground of mines and no more.

The language, intent and effect of the proposed amendment are unmistakable. By its clear terms, the measure gives an appointive board the power of life and death over the mining industry. Attempts to draw any other conclusion, if not due to ignorance or willful misrepresentation, are the crudest sort of camouflage.

UNCLE SAM WANTS TO KNOW

Nurse Survey Committee Must Get Busy Week Of October 20

Have you a nurse in your family? The government wants to know. All Red Cross chapters in this territory and other parts of the state have been instructed to conduct a survey or canvass of nurses, through a house to house canvass. This survey, which will occupy the week of October 20, will be undertaken at the instance of the secretary of war and the surgeon general of the United States army. The questionnaire system will be employed to gather the necessary data.

The nurse survey has a double purpose. While primarily intended as a means of directing a proper withdrawal of nurses for army and navy needs, the government also has in mind the health and general welfare of the civilian population. The government must have twenty-five thousand nurses by January 1, 1919, in order not to utterly deprive the civilian population of the nation of the professional services of these women. It becomes necessary to take stock of all available nurse timber at this time, so that an equitable distribution of them may be made.

Every nurse is comprehended—graduate, undergraduate, registered, unregistered, pupil nurse, nurses aides and the very large number of so-called semi-trained nurses, midwives and trained attendants. A complete classification of these women will be made. Every family must cooperate with the Red Cross nurse survey representatives in order to make this canvass a success.

The request of the secretary of war and the surgeon general amounts to an order, so that the Red Cross, as well as those embraced by the survey, must do everything possible to provide the required data and information.

Every Red Cross chapter has been instructed to appoint a nurse survey committee to carry out this important work. J. G. Arnold, of Denver, Colorado, is the mountain division director.

While in Salt Lake City last week J. C. Jensen conferred with the state board on matters in connection with the Price River irrigation company system. He brings back the information that foreclosure proceedings are to be had at the coming term of district court at Price.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Wattle of Salt Lake City were registered at the Shanon this week, going and coming from Wattle.

BRIDGES FOR CARBON COUNTY

Bought On Recent Junket of Bryner and Hamilton Down East.

Officials of the state highway board are preparing for a large volume of applications from different sections of Utah for approval of various road and bridge work projects, which must have the official sanction of both the state and federal representatives of the highway council. Approval has already been granted by the national highway council to a major road project in the Marysville district.

This work is now nearing completion. Applications for approval of two bridge projects in the Carbon section are now being prepared for submission to the highway council, by November 1 before all material shipments will be curtailed.

The bridges mentioned are two of three supposed to have been bought by Commissioners Bryner and Hamilton on their recent junketing trip to Indiana as the guests of a Jewish firm at Torrington, Ind., and on which they took one Duley along with them.

RED CROSS IS ASKING FOR EVEN THOUSAND RECRUITS

The American Red Cross society wants a thousand men for the transportation service in France. This number must be recruited immediately. Of the total number wanted forty per cent are needed in the actual driving service, the remainder for loading and unloading work.

Besides being expert handlers of the motor cars, the applicants must be of rugged and robust physique, willing to work at all hours of the day and night, sleep wherever they can find a place and put up with all the hardships of a trench soldier. Applications may be filed with Secretary Mrs. W. O. Cleland at Salt Lake City.

Response to the call for gauze room workers has not met the requirements.

MANY MINERS ARE MAKING MORE THAN THEIR BOSSES

Utah coal mines are running their full six days a week right along now, according to John Crawford, state inspector of coal mines, who has just completed an inspection of all properties in Carbon County. Crawford says that the production this year may exceed that of former years by as much as two million tons, from the Utah fields. There is, however, some slight scarcity of labor as yet, and this in spite of the fact that instances were reported to him of wages running as high as $53.00 in a month. While these were exceptional cases, where men were working with machines under most favorable conditions, Crawford says that the average miner in the Utah fields is drawing from ten to fifteen dollars each of the six days of the week he is working, or from two hundred and fifty dollars a month up.

Mr. Crawford asserts that the mine foreman, usually a skilled and experienced miner, feels rather aggrieved in the majority of instances that he is making less money in his more responsible position than are the men under him. Owing to the scarcity of labor the skilled miners are given the opportunity of working under the most productive conditions possible, and therefore is able to roll up a good tonnage, while the numerous successive increases in the mine fields have added greatly to the income of the piece work men.

"If a man is making only two hundred dollars or so a month," says Mr. Crawford, "he thinks there is something the matter and he feels like quitting. Some of the men quit any way, I believe, just to get their money without waiting until the end of the month. Then when they have disposed of it, they go on to the next camp and get employment there."

Ammanuel Andralakis, a Greek laborer of Price and aged about 23 years, died at Carbon Hospital last Sunday from pneumonia following an attack of influenza. This is the second death in the past ten days from this malady which is now sweeping the country. Deceased was single and formerly resided at Scofield and Kenilworth. He had been in business at Price five or six months, purchasing with his partners the A. Paternoster assets on East Main street after the death of the latter. Funeral services were held Monday with burial at Price. Rev. Mark M. Petrakis of the local Greek church conducted the funeral, which was largely attended by his numerous friends from all over the county.

REPUBLICANS MAKE NOMINATIONS

Full County Ticket Placed in the Field Yesterday.

Carbon County republicans met at Price yesterday and placed their ticket in the field. Offers had previously been made to leaders in the third party movement to give that faction representation in the ticket, but the latter refused all proffer in that direction. The convention convened at 2 o'clock and was called to order by Chairman R. R. Kirkpatrick.

Then J. S. Thompson, of Castle Gate was by acclamation made permanent chairman, and A. H. Draper of Kenilworth, secretary. It did not take long for nominations which were preceded by the usual but brief preliminaries. The nominations are:

Representative—Wallace A. Lovry of Price.

Four-Year Commissioner—A. E. Gibson of Storrs.

Two-Year Commissioner—W. S. Draper of Wellington.

County Clerk—R. R. Horsley of Price.

Recorder—Barbara Forester Legler of Price.

Treasurer—A. Ballinger of Price.

Attorney—P. E. Woods of Price.

Assessor—L. J. Morton of Standardville.

Survivor—C. A. Boggs of Kenilworth.

There were sixty-seven delegates to the convention, but three precincts had no representation. Numerous ones were represented by proxy.

The convention was in session less than three hours.

THIRD TICKET IS COMING UP

Independents To Name Candidates Of The Liberty Movement

Last Saturday evening there was a well attended meeting of those behind the third party movement in Carbon County at City Hall in Price. It was at that time definitely decided to place a full county ticket in the field. A meeting for making nominations is to be held tomorrow evening at the same place. Last Tuesday handbills were circulated for the meeting or convention and have reached by this time every precinct in the county. They read:

Notice to Taxpayers of Carbon County—On Saturday, October 12, 1918, there will be a meeting at 8 o'clock of the evening at City Hall, Price, Utah, for the purpose of nominating an independent ticket known as the liberty ticket. Voters and taxpayers who may be interested in such a movement are most cordially invited to be present and help nominate a full county ticket in Carbon County.

The handbills are signed by Lars Gunderson, temporary chairman, and Oliver T. Harmon, secretary. A. J. Marshall of Wellington is being mentioned for the legislature, and Peter Adgerson, John Prince and Matt Warner for sheriff. Chairman Gunderson says the other nominations are more than likely to go to the mining camps of the county.

There are more than a hundred and twenty-five signers on the petition for placing the ticket in the field.

RESTRICTIONS ON NEW BUILDING TO SAVE MATERIAL

ORDER COMES FROM THE STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE

Local Committee Chosen To Pass Upon And Recommend To Higher Authority Any Proposed Construction in Carbon County—Dealers Notified And Must Be Governed Accordingly.

A. W. Horsley, chairman, and R. W. Crockett, secretary, of the Carbon County Council of Defense, this week received from the state council the communication below in regard to new building operations. It explains itself. Chairman Horsley has been absent from the city several days, but it is presumed the third member of the committee will be named shortly. Dealers in building materials will at once be notified by the state council of the order of the war industries board.

"No doubt you have heard of a recent ruling of the war industries board which requires the state council of defense to pass on every proposed construction within the State of Utah. For this purpose a special committee has been created by the state council known as the proposed construction committee. It is now necessary to organize the organization of this committee into the counties. We are, therefore, writing the chairman and secretary of each county council to assume responsibility for this committee. It is believed by the state council of defense that the chairman and secretary of the county council, together with one other person chosen by them should constitute the county committee on proposed construction.

The duties of this county committee will be to receive applications for any proposed building in your county. These applications must include a full statement of facts under oath. A blank for this purpose is enclosed. Upon receiving the application, the committee will make a thorough investigation and report at once to the secretary of the state council. Its decision as to whether the proposed construction should be allowed or not. This opinion will be presented to the special committee which will review the decision of the county council of defense that the building be approved or disapproved. The approval of the state council is necessary before the building may be erected. The local committee will, therefore, not notify the applicant that his building is approved or disapproved, that will be done from this office.

"You will also notify the dealers in building material in your county not to deliver any material without a permit from the state council of defense. The government is depending upon you to enforce these regulations in your county in order to conserve material, man power, fuel and transportation.

Since the above went into type C. R. Marcusson has been selected as the third member of the committee.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Mitten of Wattle were county seat visitors the first of the week, and while here were guests of the Savoy.

The Sun's Circulation In September.

State of Utah, County of Carbon—R. W. Crockett, manager of Sun Publishing company, first being duly sworn on his oath, says that the circulation of The Sun for the month of September, 1918, was six thousand (6000) copies, less sixty-seven (67) copies spoiled in printing and retained as files and for office use.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 28th day of September, 1918. My commission expires March 15, 1922. (Seal.) C. R. MARCUSSEN, Notary Public In and For Carbon County, State of Utah.

MADSENS SELL OUT BUSINESS

Scofield Coal Company to Have Store At Upper Camp.

George E. Paxton and J. H. Martin of Kiviaton, Wyo., president and general manager, respectively, of the Scofield Coal company, will take over the stock of the Madison Mercantile company at Scofield next Tuesday, October 15th. With others identified with the coal corporation they will organize a new concern, which will be a company store. The deal involves about twenty-five thousand dollars for merchandise alone, and it may be that the new concern will take over also the real estate where the present business is conducted. If not the property will go in under a ten year lease. The Madisons retain an interest in the business, however, and likely will be represented on the board of directors. L. R. Barnett, present manager, will remain with the new people. It is understood, Neil M. and Arthur Madson have been the controlling stockholders for years of Madison Mercantile company.

UGHT TO KNOW VERY SOON

Master List Of Order Numbers Mailed To The Utah Boards

More than sixty thousand Utahs who were called in the big 18 to 45 years registration of September 12, will possibly know the order of liability in which they will be called to the colors within a few days, according to dispatches received from the provost marshal general at state draft headquarters. These order numbers are contained in master lists mailed to national draft boards last Saturday. The first one hundred order numbers have already been announced, but these affect only a comparatively small number of Utah men who are in Class 1, and in fit physical condition for military service.

There were seventeen thousand numbers drawn in the big draft lottery held in Washington, D. C., on Monday of last week, and when they are received in Utah the order number of every registrant will be determined. After order numbers are fixed, then contingents for army callouts can be selected quickly.

With this master list of order numbers mailed to forty-five hundred American boards Saturday there is accompanying instructions as to the method to be used in classifying registrants so that no difficulty may be found in fixing the order of men in the 18 to 37 year old class, who will furnish the first men for the training camp.

Many men already have been classified by Utah boards and physical examinations of men who have waived exemption or have otherwise been found fit for Class 1 are also being held.

POWER COMPANY FILES ON WOLF CREEK WATER

The Great Basin Power company with offices at Salt Lake City, has filed application with the state engineer for thirty second-feet of water from Wolf Creek in Wasatch and Duchesne counties, which it proposes to use in supplementing its project to develop about four thousand horsepower of electric energy for the market in Salt Lake City and vicinity. The application is signed by H. A. Strauss as vice president and D. L. Wertheimer, secretary and treasurer of the company.

The application calls for a four-mile pipe line, on a grade of eight feet per mile, after which the water will be turned over two thirty-eight-inch turbine wheels, under a four hundred foot head. The former application calls also for taking water from West Fork Creek for similar purposes. The pipes carrying the waters of the two creeks are to be joined near the present confluence of their channels and then conducted in a larger pipe to the plant. After use in the plant, the waters will be returned to the Duchesne river.

Mr. and Mrs. David S. Williams of Castle Dale were Price visitors over Wednesday night, being Savoy guests.

PLANNING BETTER WAY OF DOING ROAD WORK

ALL TOWNS AND OUTLYING SECTIONS TAKEN IN.

General Aim Is to Simplify and Extend Activities in Connection With Liberty Loan Drives, Red Cross Efforts and War Savings Stamp Campaigns in the Remotest Settlements.

Plans for the co-ordination of all war activities under the state council of defense have been formulated at a meeting of the state council with members of the county councils at Salt Lake City. The co-ordination plans will embrace the work of financing the war by the selling of liberty bonds and war savings stamps, Red Cross activities and work of the state food and fuel administrations. These bodies will work in conjunction with the state council of defense and use the machinery of the state council in extending their work.

The first work will be the organization throughout the state of community councils, non-partisan and non-sectarian, composed of representative men in the community, who will carry out the work of the state and county councils of defense and enforce the orders of the state council as communicated to them through the county councils, in their territory. In every case effort will be made to secure for the community councils the services of the mayors of the various towns and the county commissioners of the county. Such plan will connect the county councils with the state council's machinery and the communities with the county and municipal machinery. This plan will give the state council great power in securing enforcement of its orders.

Community councils of defense will be extended to all towns and outlying settlements. In this way the people of each community will be apprised of the plans and orders of the state council of defense. The first step in the work of co-ordination will be the organization of the community councils of defense by a field secretary soon to be appointed by the state council of defense. Plans for the compilation of the war activities of every family in the state to be made a part of the permanent county records, to be kept in the office of the county clerk in each county are well under way. The record will contain the subscriptions of the family to liberty loans, war savings stamps, Red Cross and other war activities. Also it will tell of the number of men in the service of the United States from each family.

W. D. CANDLAND IS CHOSEN

Glen Miller Finally Has Been Jarrd From the Job

W. D. Candland of Mount Pleasant, was chosen Republican state chairman by the new state committee at a meeting at Salt Lake City last Saturday. Candland succeeds Glen Miller as state chairman of the Republican party in Utah. Selection of Candland for the important position given him was made upon recommendation of a special executive committee appointed by the state committee at a meeting held after the state convention Friday. This committee met with the various candidates and consulted their wishes in the matter. The candidates and the special committee agreed that Candland was the man for the place.

As soon as the state committee was called together the recommendation of the executive committee was made and the state committee took action accordingly. To Candland was left the matter of selecting a secretary, and of naming committees. The committee decided that the campaign shall be conducted upon a high plane and that no personalities shall be indulged in.

The new republican chairman is one of the veterans of the party in the state.

E. Kurstich, blacksmith for United State Fuel company at Hiawatha, was a visitor in Price Wednesday. He says all three camps over south are working right up to the hilt, as a score, and everyone has all his own do.

Mr. and Mrs. David S. Williams of Castle Dale were Price visitors over Wednesday night, being Savoy guests.
