A New Surgical Lamp.

One of the newest adaptations of electric illumination is in the shape of a very small lantern, which can be introduced into the mouth, throat, and in some cases, the stomach for the purpose of aiding surgical and dental operations.

When the lamp is placed in the mouth of a patient every portion of the throat, even to the lower parts, and every recess of the upper places can be plainly seen.

This will greatly facilitate the work of surgery and dentistry, and enable an operator to conceive a much more thorough diagnosis of a case than the use of any other means previously known.
