

Ogden Will Be On Aerial Post Route Says R. M. S. Chief

"Ogden will be on the aerial post route which is to be established by next fall," according to S. E. Slater, superintendent of the railway mail service, San Francisco district. Mr. Slater, who was an Ogden visitor to the local railway mail service office where he held a conference with W. H. Taylor, local chief clerk, says that the federal government is speeding ahead with the plans for the trans-continental aerial route on which they are going to use a specially constructed type of plane which will carry 2,000 pounds of mail. The service will effect a saving in mail delivery between San Francisco and Ogden of one day and a half at least, said Slater.

FREIGHT MOVING NEARLY NORMAL

Trains Routed Over Both U. P. and S. P. Little Delayed

With conditions nearly normal, considerable freight movement is taking place through Ogden railroad yards, officials state.

Assistant Superintendent F. E. Smith of the Salt Lake division reports that about 300 loads of freight are being shipped west from here daily, from eight to ten trains being sent out. Freight crews of the company are all reported to be working.

Fruit shipments from the west are passing through this city and are being routed to eastern lines by way of the Union Pacific, where eastern lines have removed embargoes on shipments.

Approximately the same number of trains as are being handled by the Southern Pacific company are being sent out daily over the Union Pacific, it is reported.

Although congested conditions are reported in many railroad yards in the country, because of labor shortage, this condition is said to not exist locally.

Reports from the Oregon Short Line offices in Salt Lake indicate that conditions were rapidly approaching normal on that road. Lack of yardmen is seriously hampering coal shipments on the Denver & Rio Grande railroad.

'BOY, PAGE A HIPPO SPECIALIST'

It is whispered gently around the Barnes circus that a most interesting event is soon to occur.

How soon, nobody knows; neither is anybody around the show versed in hippopotamus maternity.

Al G. Barnes, himself, who is usually able to cope with any animal emergency, is at a loss as to how to proceed; no baby hippos have ever been born in captivity, no precedent has been established; the show's experts are up against it, as it were.

If there is anyone in this vicinity who has had actual experience in matters of this kind, they will be relieved with open arms when the show gets here on May 4. Money is no object in a case of this kind; experience is what counts.

FARM MURDERS STILL MYSTERY

Slayer of Eight Persons in North Dakota Family Not Identified

TURTLE LAKE, N. D., April 26.—McLean county officials who are investigating the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Wolf, their five children and a four-year-old boy, on the Wolf farm near here, said today that they still were without tangible clues either as to the identity of the murderer, or motives that prompted the crime discovered Saturday afternoon.

Seven of the eight persons slain here Saturday were shot and the eighth was struck a fatal blow on the side of the head with a hatchet, it was decided at the coroner's inquest tonight. Jacob Wolf, on whose farm the tragedy occurred, his wife and four daughters were victims of shot-gun wounds. Martha Wolf three years old, had been struck on the head with a hatchet. Jake Hofer, hired boy, also was shot to death. Some of the victims also had been struck with the hatchet.

Powder marks and burns indicated most of the shots had been fired at close range.

Picture With a Message to Be Shown Again Tuesday Matinee and Night

Presenting a clear exposition of the proper and improper methods of rearing children and considering environment as an important factor in the moulding of a child's character, "Parentage" was shown at the Orpheum theatre last night.

The film parallels the lives of Horace Smith and "Buster" Brown starting with the effect on their lives of prenatal influence.

Considerable amusement is accorded the patrons in the school-room scenes, where "Skinnay" the dunce, the school-room sweateater, "the bad boy" and the usual characters of the lower classes of the old-time schools, are shown.

"Parentage" is a picture that every father and mother should see. It carries a strong message of warning, and how the parent may be the deciding factor that makes the child either a respected man of the community or a pariah.

On the same bill is a Cuckoo comedy with Bobby Burns, "The Shimmie Gym" showing the gymnastic girls in their own particular stunts.

The same bill will be shown Tuesday matinees and night.

OHIO PRIMARIES HELD CRUCIAL

Regarded As Most Important of Three Pivotal States in National Election

By H. N. RICKEY, N. E. A. Staff Correspondent COLUMBUS, O., April 26.—The presidential primaries in Ohio tomorrow will have an important bearing on the final battle for the Republican nomination at Chicago.

Ohio is probably the most important of the two or three pivotal states in a national election.

From the east which ran so strongly for Hughes in the returns on the election night four years ago did not sweep over Ohio. If it had, he would have been elected. Ohio went nearly a hundred thousand Democratic that year and made Wilson's election possible.

Time was when Ohio could safely be counted on as Republican, but in these days the balance of political power in the state lies with the independent voters who comprise from a quarter to a third of the electorate.

While the bulk of these independent voters probably consider themselves nominally Republicans or Democrats, party ties bind them so lightly that they take delight in going off the reservation on election day if their party candidate or platform is not entirely pleasing to them.

Please Ohio. From the standpoint of practical politics, both the Chicago and San Francisco conventions will try to nominate men who seem to have at least as good a chance to carry Ohio as the other candidates for the nomination.

The fact that Cox has been elected Governor of Ohio three times on the Democratic ticket will give him a lot of prestige at San Francisco.

None of the other candidates for the Democratic nomination have had the temerity to enter the contest against Cox for the Ohio delegation.

From the Democratic standpoint the April 27 primaries will simply be the seal of approval on the Cox candidacy and insure the undivided support of the Ohio delegates for Cox until he has been nominated, or releases them to vote for someone else.

Ohio and Republicans. In the case of the Republicans, the situation is entirely different.

Senator Harding, who occupies somewhat the same position with the Republicans that Cox does with the Democrats has had to contest with Wood for the delegates to the Republican convention. And it is a real contest.

Early in the fight, which began several months ago, it looked as though the Wood campaign was making great headway. It was well financed and thoroughly organized. The same aggressive tactics which have characterized the Wood campaign throughout the country, have featured it in every section of the state.

The Harding Stock Raising. What Wood unquestionably awakened to a realization that unless they got mighty busy, the senator's presidential aspirations stood a good chance of getting a knockout in his own state.

During the past few weeks there seems to be little doubt that the Harding candidacy has been meeting with more and the Wood candidacy with less popular approval.

Wood's candidacy has suffered from the unanswered boodle charges and the growing charges against Wood's failure to play the game, according to the rules, by keeping out of another candidate's home state.

Harding has been as frank about the financing of his campaign as Wood has been as avowedly a public statement that the estimated total expense in and out of the state is about $75,000. Of this amount his friends and neighbors in the city of Marion have subscribed $20,000 and there is no single subscription for over $1,000.

The Wood people unquestionably thought they could get the Ohio delegation for the general, or they would not have entered his name in the primaries and made the aggressive fight for him that they have. If they lose they can hardly hope to get the votes then after Harding is through with them at Chicago.

If Harding wins, especially if he wins by a large enough plurality to indicate great popular strength, he will go to the Chicago convention as the favorite candidate of the conservative party leaders and will have a good chance for the nomination if the conservatives control.

Harding's failure to beat Wood in Ohio will not only put the senator out of the presidential race, but will probably retire him to private life after his present senatorial term.

That the senator and his followers fully realize this is shown by the tremendous effort they are making not only to carry the state, but to pile up the largest possible majority.

It is of course, more or less of a guess, but it looks as though Harding will defeat Wood in Ohio, although it would not be surprising if his majority is smaller than he and his friends would like.

FLIERS ARE KILLED. SARAGOSSA, Spain, April 26.—An airplane piloted by a British captain and carrying a Spanish lieutenant, a pupil at the flying school here, was caught in a violent gust of wind while "looping the loop" today. The machine crashed to the ground and both its occupants were killed.

Let us show you an exact duplicate of the phonograph that held 6,000 teachers spell-bound by its marvelous realism in The Daring Test at Albany.

This "close-up" is from an actual photograph of Mario Laurenti, the famous soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York. It shows how he appeared on November 25, 1919, in the State Armory at Albany, when he made his now-celebrated test with the Official Laboratory Model before 6,000 teachers, principals and superintendents of New York State's public schools.

The NEW EDISON

"The Phonograph with a Soul"

The test at Albany was the strangest musical performance ever witnessed by these 6,000 educators. Laurenti stood beside the New Edison and began to sing. His voice filled the auditorium. Suddenly his lips ceased to move, but his voice continued with undiminished beauty. The New Edison by his side had taken up the song and was matching his voice so perfectly that the human ear was not aware that Laurenti had ceased to sing.
