FACTS ON FARM EARNINGS TOLD

University of Idaho Expert Says He Has Proof Farmers Are Not Profiteers

BOISE, Idaho, June 28.—Proof that farmers are not profiteers is contained in a study of data collected last winter from 200 irrigated farms in Twin Falls county, show that, after the farmer had received interest on his investment, the average of labor earnings on these farms for the year was $898. On the fifty-six farms that specialized in wheat, the farmers lacked nine cents a bushel of receiving a reasonable wage for their labor.

These interpretations of the figures are made by C. C. Taylor, farm management demonstrator of the University of Idaho extension division. The statistics were collected by Byron Hunter, farm management investigator of the university, in co-operation with the federal office of farm management.

Eighty-acre farms were the most profitable, Mr. Taylor's analysis showed. Wheat was most profitable on the largest farms, and unprofitable on the small ones. The cost of producing wheat averaged $1.92 a bushel.

"Some very valuable information concerning farm profits has just been obtained by the farm management department of the University of Idaho through the tabluation of data collected last winter from 200 irrigated farms in Twin Falls county," says a statement by Mr. Taylor. "The data and conclusions will be published in bulletin form as soon as possible, but meanwhile the Twin Falls county farm bureau will endeavor to have this information presented to the farmers of the county through a series of community meetings while the figures are still new. This will probably be brought about during the coming month.

Figures Accurate

"The figures, which are scientifically accurate, as applied to irrigated farms near Twin Falls in 1919, show that the farms about eighty acres in size are the most profitable in the area. There were three groups smaller in size which made smaller profits and one group larger than eighty acres which made smaller profits, on the average.

"Farm profits are measured by labor earnings, being the net amount remaining tor the farmer's labor after deducting all expenses and 7 per cent interest on his investment. It includes the products contributed by the farm toward the living of the farmer's family. On the average, the labor earnings of these 200 typical farms was $898. The farms about eighty acres in size made $1350 while the farms about forty acres in size averaged $500.

"The above information is sufficient denial of certain statements published in our larger cities implying that the farmers are a party to the profiteering which became so prevalent. As further evidence, the data from fifty-six farms which specialized in wheat showed that the total cost of producing wheat average $1.92 per busnel. The basic price which these farmers received was $1.83, or 9 cents less than the actual cost. In other words, these farmers lacked 9 cents per bushel of receiving a reasonable wage for their labor.

Wide Difference

"A detailed stuoy of these wheat cost figures showed a wide difference on individual farms, ranging from less than $1.20 to over $2.60 per bushel. Most of the wheat was produced at from $1.40 to $2.20 per bushel. Drawing a line at the $1.83 cost, included only 45 per cent of the wheat farmers and 45 per cent of the production. Experience has shown that, normally, from 80 per cent to 90 per cent of the production of any product must be at a profit or else production will decrease. Such a limit is known as the "bulk line cost," and in this case the line is found to be at $2.20 per bushel to include 80 per cent of the production and at $2.89 per bushel to include 90 per cent. The price of $1.83 received last year was considerably below either one of these figures.

"The farmers on the largest farms grew wheat at the lowest cost, averaging $1.34 per bushel, while it cost the farmers on the smallest farms an average og $2.83 per bushel. Figured on the acre basis, the average cost were $67 and $92, respectively. As would be expected, this was reflected in the farm profits of the whole two hundred farms. The farmers on small farms of about forty acres who had as much as 40 per cent of their crop land in wheat made only $247 while those with less wheat averaged $470. But on the farms over eighty acres in size those specializing in wheat made $1612 while those with less wheat averaged only $430. Evidently the men on the small farms had better let the big farmers grow wheat.

Facts on Wheat Farms

"As a rule, the farmers who went to the greatest expense in order to receive the highest yields produced wheat at the lowest cost per bushel. The wheat farms with the lowest yield per acre only expended $62 per acre but the cost per bushel was $2.16. On the other hand, the wheat farms with the highest yield spent $83 per acre and produced their crop for $1.76 per busnel. Apparently the additional expense was justified.

"The potato growers, although they sold at a comparatively low price last fall, were by far the most profitable group in the area surveyed. The farmers who planted potatoes, even though only to a limited extent, averaged $1357 labor earnings, while those without a potato patch averaged only $628.

"Beets did not turn out so well last year. They averaged only 9.2 tons per acre and the price was only $10 per ton. It is evident that gross receipts of $92 per acre from a crop requiring as high an expense as the beet crop does could not result in a very gratifying profit. The labor earnings of the farmers who planted sugar beets averaged $630 while those without any beets averaged $1001.

"Crop yields had a decided influence on farm profits. Those with yields as a whole above average made $1285 labor earnings while those with yields below average made only $480 on the average.

"The average yield of potatoes was 137 hundredweight per acre; wheat, 38 bushel; barley, 40 bushels; alfalfa, 3.9 tons; clover, 1.1 tons; red clover seed, 286 pounds; alsike clover seed, 318 pounds; beans, 1122 pounds; and sugar beets, 9.2 tons per acre.

"With this wealth of information at hand, the farm management demonstrator should be able to render a service, not only to the farmers of Twin Falls county, but to farmers in all irrigated districts of southern Idaho."

WESTERN PLANKS AGREED UPON

Funds to Finance Reclamation of Great Sections Wanted by Democrats

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—Creation by the federal government of large revolving funds to finance reclamation of arid, swamp and cut-over forest lands is urged in proposed Democratic platform planks upon which delegations from far western states and territories will pass tomorrow.

Drafts of these proposals, made tonight by a committee from Pacific coast and Rocky mountain states, Alaska, Hawaii and the Philippine Islands, outline an ambitious plan for federal assistance in developing hydro-electric power and impounding flood waters.

The western delegates also will ask that Alaska and Hawaii be represented in congress by a senator and two representatives.

It was suggested that the farm loan act be extended and modified to meet the needs of the west.

All moneys advanced by the federal government for the various projects eventually would be returned, according to plans put forward.

Former service men would be given preference in settlement of reclaimed lands.

Federal aid for education and creation of a federal department of education, the committeemen said, will be urged because of the acute situation in the west they said would be remedied thereby.

Duke Kahanomoka May Swim in Ogden

Arrangements are now being completed by representatives of a local swimming resort to have Duke Kahanomoka of Honolulu compete in a number of exhibition swimming contests here during the fore part of July. Kahanomoka is regarded as one of the world's greatest water dogs and is the holder of several world's records. He shattered a world record at San Francisco in the 100-meter swim yesterday when he paddled over the distance in 1 minute and 1-5 seconds, breaking the former record held by Norman Ross.

The duke is regarded as one of the best bets for the American team to the Olympic swimming games and if arrangements are completed local fans will have an opportunity of seeing one of the world's greatest swimming stars perform. Other noted swimmers from the west will accompany him here if he is booked for Ogden.

JOHNSON WINS OVER MARTIN

Veteran Utah Runner Eliminates Rival From Olympic Finals

The old adage "youth will be served" was dealt a death blow at Pasadena last Saturday in the 10,000-meter run in the western trials for the American Olympic team. Robert Martin, western distance champion, and rated as one of the winners in the event, met defeat at the hands of another Utahn, Ted Johnson, former western champion, in a race which, according to the dope sheet, was a record-breaker.

One year ago this month Martin and Johnson clashed for the first time in the annual Littleton-to-Denver marathon and interest was at a high pitch. Johnson was the champion and Martin was endeavoring to stage a comeback after more than five years of rest from the track.

The result was that Martin won hands down, Johnson finishing second. In the winning Martin also set a new record for the course, shattering Johnson's old record. Johnson, however, ran seven miles of the distance with cramps and due to that fact lost the race.

At this meet Saturday the two runners, Johnson a veteran of fourteen years, running and Martin, still a youth, clasped hands. Martin at that time held four victories over the veteran Johnson, Johnson always grabbing second place. The story was reversed, however, in the trials, Johnson easily winning from Martin and qualifying for the western team. He ran under the colors of the Los Angeles Athletic club, while Martin represented the Salt Lake Elks.

In the race Martin finished a poor fifth with Johnson third, finishing inches behind the second place winner.

Johnson will be remembered as the star that finished second in the Armistice day games in the six-mile run here last fall.

His one ambition before he discards the "unies" was to defeat the champion Martin. With it accomplished and with the Olympic games nearing an end, Johnson will, in all probability, say adieu to the track game.

SENATOR HARDING ATTENDS CHURCH

RARITAN, N. J., June 27.—Senator Harding, Republican presidential nominee, today enjoyed his first day of rest since he was nominated two weeks ago. He is at the country home of his friend and colleague, Senator J. R. Frelinghuysen.

Fatigued after several months hard work in the senate, interspersed with a strenuous pre-convention campaign and numerous conferences since he was nominated, Senator Harding has given up all political work during his stay here and is devoting most of his time to relaxation. The senator and Mrs. Harding attended the Third Dutch reformed church, a small quaint, colonial type structure on the main street of the village of Raritan today. Senator Frelinghuysen's father was one of the founders of the church, which was built in 1851, and Senator Frelinghuysen himself is an elder there.

Apparently but few persons in town were aware of the presence of their distinguished visitor.

There was no departure from the usual church service. An American flag at the right of the pulpit was the only decoration. The Rev. J. A. Lumley, the pastor, chose for his text the Tenth chapter of Romans, first verse, "Brethren, My Heart's Desire and Prayer to God for Israel is, That they Might Be Saved."

Greeks Fight; One in Hospital; Other in Jail

Nick Panos, alleged to have cut Andrew Steffas in a fight yesterday morning, will appear before the city court tomorrow on a misdemeanor hacgre.

Steffas is at the hospital recovering from sundry bruises and a severe gash in his left forearm.

Panos, it is claimed, reported that Steffas had been gambling. The report was made to the police. Steffas is said to have appeared several times before the city court on a gambling charge. Sunday morning, Steffas and Panos met and a fight ensued. Both men battered each other considerably and Panos finally drew a knife, with which he attacked Steffas, says the police.

He claims that he drew the knife in self defense, having failed to protect himself against the onslaught of Steffas.

The case of A. J. Paulson against Fred W. Chambers, which was scheduled to open this week in the district court was continued this morning until the next court term. Mr. Paulson, as plaintiff, asks division of profits and a complete statement of business alleged to have been transacted during an alleged partnership between himself and Mr. Chambers.

In his answer to the complaint Mr. Chambers sets forth that during the spring of 1918 Mr. Paulson and himself were selling stock and assisting each other with sales with the understanding there should be a division of profits.

He alleges that on November 13, 1918, the agreement was dissolved and a settlement was made in which Mr. Paulson was given funds. Mr. Chambers further alleges that he overpaid Mr. Paulson $350 and still holds an automobile which was formerly owned by the plaintiff and defendant.

MINING STOCKS DEMAND LIGHT

General Trend of Market Downward; Activity Increases Slightly

The demand for mining stocks this morning on the Salt Lake Stock & Mining Exchange was very light, although it was a little more active than it has been for the past few days. Tintic Standard sold as low as $2.92½, it closing with $2.90 bid and $2.95 asked. This stock was ex-dividend this morning.

Alta Consolidated sold as low as .00¾, Eureka Lily brought .$7½, Columbus Rexall sold off to .45½, Howell went at .05, New Quincy was active at .05, Emma Silver changed hands at .07, Prince Consolidated was practically the only stock on the board to show any strength whatever, it opening at 35½ cents and selling as high as 37 cents, it closing strong with 36⅝ cents bid, Silver King Consolidated changed hands at $1.40 and $1.42½ and Walker Mining changed hands at $3.05.

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, June 28.—Developments over the week end, especially the poor showing of the federal reserve banks and the railroad labor situation, invited renewed selling of leading issues at the opening of today's stock market. Several of the prominent industrials, rails and specialties reacted one to one and a half points. Distinct pressure was shown by Crucible and Schloss-Sheffield steels, Baldwin Locomotive, Illinois Central and Barrett company.

Trading during the morning established a new record for dullness. The first hour's business of about 65,000 shares was attended by further reactions in steels, equipments, oils and specialties comprising the chemical group, which felt one to two points under Saturday's closing prices. These losses were extended before noon, when Motors and Rails participated in the further reaction. Call money opened at 9 per cent.

Representative oils and equipments led another rally at midday, the shorts covering when call money failed to rise above its initial rate.

FULFILL TERMS GERMAN URGES

Chancellor of New Government Outlines Program to Reichstag Members

BERLIN, June 28—Chancellor Konstant Fehrenbach, head of the new German government, read in the reichstag today the declaration of the government's program.

"Germany, having accepted the treaty of Versailles, cannot so long as the country's former enemies do not consent to modifications, do other than make every effort to execute the engagements taken insofar as that is possible," he said.

Referring to the anniversary of the signing of the treaty of Versailles the chancellor continued:

"Germany must also fulfill the measures of disarmament and devote herself to the work of reparations loyally and unreservedly.

"If Germany has not fulfilled literally al the clauses of the treaty it is due not to bad faith but to circumstances stronger than our good faith, among which is the deep distrust which continues toward Germany among our adversaries. It will be the duty of this government, with the proofs in hand, to show the Spa conference all that Germany has already done to fulfill its obligations under the Versailles treaty."

"MODERN" WOMEN DREAD OBJECT, SAYS PRELATE

(By International News Service.)

TOLEDO.—The so-called "modern" woman with advanced ideas was scored by Mgr. J. T. O'Connell when he addressed the graduating class of St. Ursula's Academy here.

"Woman was a poser when she was Eve," he declared, "and she is a poser when she is Fanny Hurst, more concerned about what she wants than what she is, ready to run in the wake of her additional betrayers. We have but to scan shamefacedly woman's amusements, her ventures and her associations to know what frivolity, vanity and unworthy trust have made her—not a being to be revered, but an object of contemptuous dread."

ALASKA AROUSED BY "RED MENACE" TALK

(By International News Service.)

SEWARD, Alaska. — Considerable ill-feeling has been aroused in various parts of Alaska over the remarks of Governor Thomas Riggs, Jr., concerning an alleged red menace in Alaska. Newspapers here and in other Alaskan towns are venting their disapproval editorially while others have come to his support. The objectionable statements are said to have been uttered by Riggs during a tour through the United States. "There are not a dozen Bolshevik reds in all south-eastern Alaska," a Juneau district writer retorts.
