RETURNS AFTER HIS CAPT. C. T. SMITH MAY TRAINING WITH TANK CORPS BE SOMEWHERE IN GERMANY

Sergeant D. N. Wheeler of the U. S. tank corps, formerly a reporter on the Standard and which position he resigned to volunteer in the "treat 'em rough" branch of the service, has returned to Ogden and will again engage in newspaper work here.

My greatest regret is that I did not see active service abroad. But still I am certainly glad I did enter the tank corps, which is the highest branch of military service.

It was continually impressed on the tank men that which was the branch of service to which the war department looked for greater sacrifices than that asked of the other branches, and that to maintain the high standard expected of it, each man must put away thoughts of self.

This special show was one of the most wonderful benefit shows ever produced in that city, according to the press reports and comment. It certainly was great.

The tank corps is a very interesting branch of service," said Mr. Wheeler. It is not only unique for the class of work it performs, it is also unique in the kind of training required.

Mr. Wheeler said that he was twice ready to sail overseas and was prevented each time. The first time he was transferred for special duty to another battalion, and the second time the German collapse prevented his setting out.

The three boys started out to hunt geese and ducks at 5 o'clock yesterday morning, taking a horse and wagon and traveling about ten miles west of the city.

A rescue automobile party, made up by Deputy Sheriff Joseph Raleo for Chauffeur Tony Mower, left for the scene about 2:30 o'clock.

WORLD'S MARKETS

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The operation of pools in recognized specialties contributed to the improvement of today's listless stock market, rails showing further neglect and coppers and utilities increased heaviness.

Oil and motors led the list to higher quotations in the first half hour of today's stock market, popular issues of those groups gaining from 1 1/2 to 4 points.

Mexican Petroleum which rose almost four points despite reports of fresh disturbances in that country, was the one interesting feature of the stagnant forenoon.

Trading was almost at a standstill during the noon hour, but the tendency of prices was decidedly upward.
