COUNT WOULDN'T WORK; AMERICAN WIFE GOT DIVORCE

RENO, Nev., July 31.—At the conclusion of the second hearing of the action for divorce brought by Countess Margaret de Bernard against Count Pierre M. de Bernard of Paris, District Judge E. F. Lunsford ordered the case submitted. The court indicated that it would grant the divorce prayed for in case the evidence relative to the residence of the countess in Reno, taken at the first hearing, proved sufficient. The evidence on the merits of the case, the issue being extreme cruelty, was satisfactory, the court said. Countess de Bernard said her husband refused to work after their marriage despite her solicitations and those of his and her mother. He drew all of her monthly allowances out of the bank, the plaintiff said, leaving her nothing with which to pay bills, and this was a source of continuous violent quarrels. During those quarrels, the countess said, her husband often struck her. His actions, she said, broke down her health and on the advice of specialists she left him. They were married at New York City, April 25, 1907. Countess de Bernard is a member of the wealthy Gould family of New York. Count de Bernard did not contest the case.

FOURTEEN-INCH GUNS STRONG FACTOR IN WAR

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.—Not the least interesting feature of the new Pacific fleet is its fourteen inch gun, twelve of which are mounted on Admiral Hugh Rodman's flagship, the New Mexico and several other ships of the fleet. Design and construction of the 14-inch naval gun on railway mountings on the western front was one of the great accomplishments of the American navy during the war. The guns hurled 1400 pound projectiles far behind the German lines and were a strong factor in reducing the St. Mihiel salient. The gun was designed, built and delivered in less than four months. On December 26, 1917, according to Secretary Daniels' official report not a drawing had been started. On April 25, 1918, a completed gun was rolled on its own wheels to Sandy Hook proving ground for long range tests. The guns, Secretary Daniels said, originally were intended for the new battle cruisers, but a change in design of the vessels made the guns available for other use and it was recommended they be mounted for land service. The guns were mounted on carriages which could be moved freely over the French railroads. With them went their navy crews. Twelve cars were required for each gun—machine shop cars, armored ammunition cars, kitchen, berthing, crane and wireless cars. The batteries were sufficiently mobile that if an order came to move while in action they could be on their way in an hour. The fourteen-inches had greater range than any gun ever before placed on mobile mountings. The German guns which fired on Paris were "freaks." They were built on permanent steel and concrete foundations. Their projectile was small and specially built for long flight. This reduced their efficiency and while they had moral effect their military value was small. Because of their permanent position their location was discovered by allied aviators and the guns silenced. The German 15-inch gun in Flanders also became famous for its long range bombardment of Dunkirk and other allied bases, but neither could be shifted from base to base without delay of weeks. The American fourteen inch gun could move from one end of France to another and had a range of thirty miles. At a range of 22,000 yards it pierces armor successfully.

Hidden beauties of music in the Victor Record catalog

Just because people are not familiar with them, many records which possess real musical beauty remain rather obscurely hidden within the pages of the Victor Record catalog.

It is to be expected that the music which is familiar should be generally selected by record purchasers. The "great masterpieces" will ever retain their hold upon the affections of music-lovers. But there are many other numbers also distinguished by musical merit as well as by age with which the public is all too little acquainted. Music that once heard will forever charm you with its beauty.

Browse again through the pages of your Victor Record catalog with these less-familiar selections in mind. Mark any which may appeal to you. Or drop in at your Victor dealer's and ask him to play some of the "not so well known" though beautiful numbers. We feel sure you will be rewarded by some real gems of music and entertainment.
