"THE SHEPHERD OF THE HILLS." The photo-play made from the novel of the same name by Harold Bell Wright will be seen in this city at the Orpheum four days starting Sunday, Sept. 21.

The picturization of this story has taken a year and more to complete. The author has worked constantly with a large staff of assistants. The exterior scenes have been taken in the Ozark mountains and the interiors in California. The work has been long and arduous—no expense has been spared, no detail overlooked. All of the people engaged in this great work have had enough thrilling experiences to last them the rest of their natural lives. The actress engaged for the part of "Sammy Lane" is an expert horse woman. In this particular, Mr. Wright has very exact—there could be no tricks of the camera—no illusions. It was not easy to meet the author's requirements. The young woman finally selected was born in Arizona, practically raised in the saddle. In the picture, the scenes of "Sammy's" wild ride down the mountains side when she rides through the lightning and rain to save the good old Shepherd from the lawless Wash Gibbs gang, the spectator is shown very clearly why Mr. Wright emphasized the point that this actress must know how to ride horseback. This scene is one of the most thrilling ever seen upon the screen.—Advertisement.

Opposed to the Trading of City Property in Ogden

Merchants of Ogden have voiced opposition to the proposed plan of trading city property at Twenty-ninth street and Quincey avenue for other property nearer Twenty-fifth street, which might be used as a site for a fire station. The business men are of the opinion that the present property should be retained as a park or playground site, while the new fire station site should be purchased by the municipality.

BULGARIAN TREATY LIKE AUSTRIA'S PACT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Summary of the Bulgarian treaty of peace, cabled to the state department by the American mission at Paris, shows the pact to follow the same general plan as the Austrian treaty. "Many clauses are identical with the Austrian treaty," says the summary, "except for the substitution of names, such as the league of nations, aerial navigation, penalties, prisoners of war, and graves. Regarding the change in the Bulgarian frontiers, the important changes are to the south, where Bulgaria cedes western Thrace, to the principal allied and associated powers and agrees to accept whatever disposition of this territory the powers ultimately decide, but it is stipulated that in any event Bulgaria's western frontier shall be modified slightly in four places to Serbia's advantage.

"The Bulgarians are required to recognize the independence of the Serb, Croat and Slovene state and provisions are made to change the nationality of the inhabitants of the territory formerly Bulgarian and transferred to other states. Provisions are made for protection of the minorities of race, language, nationality and religion. Within three months the Bulgarians are required to demobilize the army and substitute volunteer enlistments. The Bulgarian army is reduced to 20,000 men exclusively for the maintenance of order and frontier control. The manufacture of war material is confined to one establishment, the other establishments to be closed or converted. All warships, submarines, or air forces must be surrendered. Bulgaria is required to pay as reparations two and a quarter billions of francs in gold within thirty-seven years. Provisions are made for the creation of an inter-allied commission, on which Bulgaria is represented, but to have no votes, and the sums allotted for reparation coming through this commission are to be established by the German peace treaty.

"Bulgaria agrees to return to Greece, Rumania, and the Serb, Croat and Slovene state, the records, archives and articles of historical and artistic value which were taken from these countries during the war, and livestock to be returned within six months. As special compensation for the destruction of the Serbian coal mines, Bulgaria shall for five years deliver 50,000 tons of coal annually to the Serb, Croat and Slovene state.

"The financial clauses are similar to those of the Austrian treaty and provide priority over the charges against assets of Bulgaria for reparation shall be given to the cost of all armies of occupation of the allies, and to services of the external pre-war Ottoman public debt. Bulgaria renounces the benefits of the Bucharest and Brest-Litovsk treaties and agrees to surrender the moneys and securities received according to those treaties.
