RAILROAD BILL IS PASSED BY UTAH LEGISLATURE

SALT LAKE, Oct. 4.—Following opposition by Representative D. D. McKay of Weber county and Representative J. E. Holmes of Carbon county, the house of representatives yesterday afternoon passed, by a bare constitutional majority, the measure authorizing the public utilities commission to grant certificates of convenience and necessity to railroads. The vote was 24 to 9, there being a large number of absentees when the roll was called, and an expressed unwillingness by Representative McKay to withhold announcement of the roll call until some of the absent members who were known to favor the measure could be summoned from other parts of the capitol.

The bill, which, it is considered likely, will get favorable action in the senate today, would allow the public utilities commission to give a railroad corporation the sole right to operate in a given territory, so long as the service it rendered was deemed satisfactory and sufficient. Supporters of the measure said that for many years the project of building a railroad into Utah basin had been blocked because when one railroad announced its intention of building into the territory, threats were made by others also to build, when both knew that the basin's business would not support two lines.

Representative McKay said the measure was special legislation designed to favor special interests, and therefore he was opposed to it. Representative Holmes made the same charge against the bill.

Senate Bills Passed.
The house also disposed of several measures yesterday. At the morning session it passed the two senate bills as amended, increasing the penalty for stealing automobiles and permitting juvenile courts to hold minors to the district court for this offense. It also approved the two senate bills requiring quarterly reports to the bank commissioner by banks in the state, and prescribing fees for the filing of the reports.

At the afternoon session, in addition to passing the bill authorizing certificates of necessity for railroads, the house also passed the senate bill authorizing county commissioners to make appropriations for water storage and reclamation surveys. Representative I. H. Masters of Utah county voting against the measure. The bill empowering the state land board to sell the Plute project to the settlers, the house bill authorizing Salt Lake county to increase its annual appropriations for widows and orphans' aid from $30,000 to $50,000, and a bill introduced by Representative Charles M. Croft, changing the deer-hunting season from November 1 to 10 to October 15 to 25, also were approved and sent to the senate.

Emergency Clause Fails.
Representative Croft's bill carried an emergency clause which would have made it effective this year, but the bill failed to get a two-thirds majority required for an emergency clause to be effective, and therefore will not go into effect until 60 days after executive approval. Consequently it will not become a law in time to affect the deer season this year. Objection to making it effective this year was raised upon the admission by R. H. Siddoway, deputy fish and game commissioner, that some licenses for deer hunting this year already had been issued.

The young lady across the way says she suppose were likely to have some warm weather yet, but the air already feels decidedly fallacious.

COLUMBUS DAY IS TO BE CELEBRATED IN SALT LAKE

SALT LAKE, Oct. 4.—Nearly 20,000 people will take part in the Columbus day parade to be held in Salt Lake, October 13, in the opinion of F. Anselmo, Italian consul in Utah and Wyoming, who is chairman of the executive committee which is making arrangements for the celebration.

Plans are being made to have all school children above the fourth grade participate, Mr. Anselmo said. He anticipates that 10,000 students will take part. Many organizations have announced their intention of being in the parade, and indications point to one of the largest demonstrations ever held in the city, Mr. Anselmo said. Among the organizations which have signified their intention to take part are the Knights of Columbus, Loyal Order of the Moose, the Britannic association, the police and fire departments, the local Italian lodges and members of the Greek colony in Salt Lake. It is expected, also, that the national guard will march through the business district. The parade will be headed by state, city and county officials. Theatres BIG RACING PLAY AT OGDEN THEATRE SUNDAY

"Checkers," the famous racing melodrama has been made into a motion picture by William Fox and will be seen at the Ogden theatre, starting tomorrow. The picture, directed by Richard Stanton, is a mammoth spectacle with most realistic scenes. Checkers is the main character in the play. He is a reformed race-track tout who falls in love with a southern beauty and gets into the most thrilling adventures. How the horse Remorse wins the big stakes, how Checkers risks his life many times, and how he finally overcomes all obstacles, is told, it is said, with an elaboration of detail which makes "Checkers" one of the most absorbing photoplays presented this season.

Robert Warwick in New Picture After Service in France

The new Paramount-Artcraft picture, "Told in the Hills," which will be shown at the Alhambra theatre tomorrow, features Major Robert Warwick, who recently returned to America after several months' service on General Pershing's staff in France. Major Warwick was among the first to volunteer when America entered the war and served overseas as a captain. He was actively engaged on several battle fronts. His first picture upon resuming his screen career was "Secret Service," a Paramount-Artcraft special production of William Gillette's famous play. In it Major Warwick proved decisively that he possesses the same fire and sincerity that characterized his work before the war. "Told in the Hills" presents him in an heroic western role that is expected to further enhance his reputation as a dramatic actor of the first rank. An unusually powerful cast has been assembled to support Major Warwick, including Ann Little, Wanda Hawley, Eileen Percy, Tom Forman and Monte Blue. George Melford directed the picture.

"PAID IN ADVANCE" ORPHEUM TOMORROW

A forced decision between two bitter evils is a situation that confronts Joan Gray, daughter of a Canadian fur trapper, after she has been lured from her home to the distant town of Dawson City, Klondike, by Gold Dust Barker, owner of a hell hole of iniquity. Barker, on a visit to Canada, was attracted by her beauty. He offered her a position as a nurse and told her father an expert fur buyer was needed in the community. Her father died during the long journey, but Joan, immediately disillusioned as to why she had been sent to Dawson City was forced by Barker to choose between himself and the crowd which frequented his dive. Dorothy Phillips is cast as Joan Gray, and her portrayal of the part of the girl who is forced to offer herself at auction to the highest bidder and is won by a drunken miner, known as the Cur, is superb. The picture was adapted by Allen J. Holubar, the director, from a story of the Canadian Northwest and Klondike, written by James Oliver Curwood, famous for his narratives of that region. Priscilla Dean, a Universal star, is one of the many notable players who have been cast in support of Miss Phillips. Others are Joseph Gerard, Lon Chaney, William Stowell, Frank Brownlee and Bill Bures. Mr. Stowell, the leading man in Miss Phillips' previous successes, including "Destiny" and "The Heart of Humanity," is cast as Jim Blood, the Cur. "Paid in Advance" will be seen at the Orpheum theatre three days starting Sunday.—Advertisement.

Duplexalite

The Duplex method of lighting is new. It embodies the merits of both the direct and the indirect systems and at the same time is free from certain disadvantages to be found in both. Duplex light is glareless—it illuminates ceilings and walls, and penetrates into every corner of the room. Duplex lighting and its advantages can be obtained only with Duplexalites. No other fixtures you can buy will give similar lighting service.

The Eden Washer

Let us show you (on one of your own week's washings, if you like) what child's play the washer is to operate—that the moving parts are all encased—that it rolls easily on its double roll castors—that it is good to look at—ornamental rather than otherwise—compact; conveniently table-topped; handsomely enameled and finished. Given reasonable treatment, the Eden will last a lifetime.

We want to show you that it is everything we claim for it—an investment which will pay you dividends for life in dollar-saving and time and labor-saving. And we want to explain how easy it is to get one on our special plan of long-time small payments—really just a matter of applying for awhile the very money the Eden begins to save for you right from the start.

The Royal Suction Cleaner

Cleans by air alone. Simply run the Royal across your rugs and they are cleaned clear through. No dirt, no dust remains; all ground in dirt, threads, hair and surface litter are removed. The rushing stream of air picks up the rug, spreads the nap and cleans thoroughly and leaves no dust to be cleaned off the furniture. The Royal weighs but ten pounds. A child can run it.

Come in and see them—or write—or just call us up. We'll demonstrate any of the above articles for you—gladly—without obligating you to anything at all. Buy electric goods from electric people and be assured of the best.

"TEA FOR THREE" ORPHEUM WEDNESDAY

"Tea for Three," the latest comedy by Roi Cooper Megrue, which will be presented at the Orpheum theatre on Wednesday, October 5, is announced by its sponsors as being "an angle on the triangle." Emphasis at the same time is placed on the fact that it is not an angle of the triangle and attention is called to the difference. The distinction is well taken. Myriads of plays have been written, each striving to treat the triangle in some way different from all the others. Occasionally, one succeeds, most, however, fail. But whether they succeed or fail, the result in one respect, is always the same. They all, in the telling of their story, involve their characters, and base their situations on the same triangle. In "Tea for Three" Mr. Megrue has succeeded in standing apart, as it were, from any triangular entanglements. Rather, he has written as one on the outside who views the triangle as a whole in a decidedly humorous fashion. Seat sale begins Monday.—Adv.
