Clyde Shupe, aged 23, who was arrested some time ago charged with the theft of an auto belonging to C. C. Childs and later with a charge of drunkenness, was released, according to County Attorney Bates, from the auto charges after Childs had refused to prosecute.

Why Clyde Shupe Was Allowed to Go Without Bail

Information given the Standard yesterday was that two charges, one of the theft of an automobile and the other of drunkenness, were lodged against him. However, it was learned today that but one charge was placed against Shupe—that of being drunk on falling to appear for trial yesterday a bench warrant for his arrest was issued by Judge D. R. Roberts.

Preference to Be Given Soldiers By Employers

Troop 12, Boy Scouts of America, which for several weeks has been canvassing the territory below Grant avenue, between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth streets, in an effort to determine whether or not employers were willing to re-engage men who left their employment to become soldiers, sailors or marines, has made favorable progress.

In practically every instance the scouts received word to the effect that returned soldiers would be re-employed should they desire new jobs and would be given jobs as vacancies occurred, in preference to men who did not serve in the great war.

Class Day at Weber

Class day was observed yesterday at Weber Normal college, and was marked by exciting events, athletic stunts and contests of various kinds. A basketball game between faculty members and boys from the student body, which was won by the former, was followed by a boxing contest between the largest faculty member and the smallest college student.

The women of the faculty then entered into a pie eating contest while the junior and senior girls played a relay basketball game, with honors carried off by the Juniors.

In the evening a dance was held in the school auditorium. Members of the entertainment committee who planned the day's events were Stanley Rhees, Amanda Chamberlain, Orvel Carstensen, Annes Stevens, John Emmett and Leulia Nicholas.

Liquor Causes the Distress of a Family of Four

William Zack, 447 Twenty-first street, pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness in the city court this morning and was fined $50 with the alternative sentence of 50 days, by Judge D. R. Roberts.

Zack, when arrested, had a bottle of homemade intoxicant which he made of fruit juice and vinegar, according to his story. After being fined, he stated that his wife and two babies were helpless, that he was without funds and without work. The bail money of $50 was put up by his wife, and when he was sentenced this morning, she fainted.

Slight Accident

A delivery wagon, the property of the J. S. Carver Grocery company and driven by Robert McFarland, collided with an auto driven by Hilma Moss, 2327 Adams. The accident occurred at the corner of Twenty-fifth street and Hudson avenue yesterday afternoon. The horses swerved, tipping the wagon over, and spilling groceries into the street.

According to Sergeant A. B. Jensen who witnessed the accident, the auto slackened speed and the delivery team, close behind, was unable to stop. The tongue of the wagon damaged the top of the car as the vehicles collided.

Wealthy Cattleman Here From Wyoming

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McBride of Jackson Hole, Wyoming, are visiting with relatives and friends in Ogden. Mr. McBride is well known as a wealthy cattle owner and will probably make his future home here. He reports the stock market in an unsettled state. The price of hay is soaring and this fact, together with the low price on cattle, is causing owners to sell.

CONFERENCE OPENS WITH 10,000 IN ATTENDANCE

SALT LAKE, Oct. 4.—Declaring that he is firmly in favor of the league of nations, President Heber J. Grant, at the opening session of the thirtieth semi-annual conference of the Latter-day Saints church, in the tabernacle yesterday morning, asked the 10,000 church members present to refer to his speech made two weeks ago in the tabernacle, in which he took the standard works of the church do not controvert the principles laid down in the treaty covenant.

President Grant said that, in a manifesto sent to the United States senate, he strongly urged the ratification of the peace treaty and the league of nations without reservations, as, he said, they could not be changed without again submitting them to Germany and that, to his mind, would be a calamity.

President Grant urged all to read his recent address and stated it would also be published in the conference proceedings. President Grant in his opening address referred to the lawlessness prevailing in the world, especially to the recent situation at Omaha. In discussing the strike problem he said he was perfectly willing for men to join unions, but thought the provision in labor unions that allows the men to boycott or quit employment because an individual is not a member is unfair.

President Grant referred to the illness of President Wilson. He said in his recent meeting with the president when here, he was impressed with the president's sincerity and the honesty of his motives.

Apostle Orson F. Whitney offered in the benediction a prayer for the speedy recovery of the president of the United States. The prayer was re-echoed with fervent amen by the great assembly.

President Anthon H. Lund, at the opening meeting, said the time is rapidly approaching when peace will be restored in the whole world.

At the opening session President Grant stated he had decided to have a treatise he had just received from Darwin P. Kingsley, president of the New York Life Insurance company, entered in the official conference minutes, as it is one of the best arguments in favor of the league of nations he has read. He said time would not permit its reading in the conference session.

President Charles W. Penrose spoke in favor of the league of nations and also eulogized President Wilson and his work. He said he believed President Wilson was not only sincere in his motives, but that his heart is for the good of the whole world and the United States in particular.

President Penrose said that he had studied the league covenant thoroughly and could find nothing wrong in it. In fact, he stated, he could not find some of the things in it upon which the opposition is based. He said he has found that many of those arguing against it have never even read it. He cited scriptural passages in the Book of Mormon and other church works favoring the league.

Argues for League. George F. Richards of the council of the twelve, who recently returned from presiding over the European mission, gave a picture of the horrors of war as he had seen them. He said that war had cost the lives of seven and a half millions, killed on the battlefields. As an illustration, he said this would be equivalent to 750 tabernacles each filled with 10,000 people. He asked, therefore, if the world wanted a recurrence of such a calamity. He said the league of nations

Increased Cost

Because of increased drayage charges we have been compelled to change our plan. Formerly we paid the dray charge on $10 orders any distance up to ten blocks. We are now paying just twice as much drayage per order as formerly. To overcome this it was necessary to raise the amount of orders. We now pay the drayage on $20 orders as far out as ten blocks, or half the drayage on a $10 order the same distance.

This change has been in effect all of last week. Hundreds of people have found they could pay half the dray charge on a $10 order and still save a lot. In many cases the saving on a simple item amounted to more than the dray charge. Visit any one of our stores for your big order.

A Carload of Old Master

We have a carload of Old Master coffee in transit now for our stores. This is perhaps the first full carload of coffee ever shipped to Utah to a single retailer. Our saving in price is great when buying it in this manner. Our coffees are all shipped in the bean. They are packed in airtight, dust proof tins and cannot deteriorate. It is said coffees will be much higher yet. We suggest that you lay in your supply soon. This car will not last longer than January 1.

Table listing prices for Old Master coffee: 65c 1 pound can Old Master, 55c; $1.95 3 pound can Old Master, $1.65; $3.25 5 pound can Old Master, $2.69.

Next Week

Hundreds of people who have looked around will make final decision and buy their millinery requirements next week. We have several hundred new hats which are the latest creations for the coming week's selling. Our eastern buying connections are unequalled. This accounts for the fact that our retail prices are no more than most concerns pay for their supplies. Don't forget that our line of children's hats is complete and the prices are such as you can afford to pay. Let us see you the coming week at Room 423, fourth floor, Hudson building.
