MAYOR CAN DO MUCH FOR OGDEN'S FUTURE WELFARE

Head of City Should Have Vision of City's Greatness and Labor With Untiring Energy and Confidence in Reaching the Goal—What Ogden Will Be, If the Opportunity to Grow, Is Not Rejected By Failure to Grasp Bright Outlook.

Frank Francis, candidate for mayor, has received many congratulatory messages, including one from Washington, D. C., and another from Wells, Nevada.
Yesterday he received the following from Morgan, Utah:
"Editor Ogden Standard. My dear Mr. Francis: Allow me to congratulate you on your success at the primary election. I do hope you will win next month. The people of Ogden will make no mistake in electing you as mayor of their city. You are progressive, energetic, clean, honest and capable. If you are elected, I know you will give the citizens of Ogden a square deal. I wish we could help to elect you. Anyway you have our moral support. Yours truly, (Signed) "W. T. NELSON, "Morgan, Utah."

Mr. Nelson is a retired farmer. He is a bright, clear-thinking man of strong character, and Mr. Francis appreciates his words of cheer and hopes to prove worthy of the praise that is given.
Mr. Francis says that the dreams of nations come true, and also that the hopes and aspirations of individuals, if persisted in, come true. He hopes to see Ogden a city of first importance in the intermountain region and he believes the mayor of Ogden, possessed of imagination and impelled by determination to translate broad conceptions into realities, can be a mighty factor in making Ogden go forward in the next two years.

"I am not fanciful in my hopes," Mr. Francis says. "I must have solid foundation before I am carried away with prospects, but I firmly believe Ogden is destined to be second to no city in the intermountain country. What is now needed is the driving power of faith in one's self, faith in the future, faith in Ogden's destiny.
The industries which are started, such as the Globe and the Sperry, and other big industrial plants which are planned and of which no public mention has been made, are the beginning of a wonderful prosperity and expansion.
"Soon the railroad rates will undergo a radical readjustment, by which the west will immeasurably profit. The city that is in a receptive condition and alertly pushing ahead, will win industry after industry. Eastern factories, owing to the elimination of unfavorable rates which have kept down western manufacturing, will be seeking sites in this part of the country, and then Ogden shall have arrived, if Ogden unmistakably has expressed faith in itself."

The New Healy hotel, Assistant Superintendent F. E. Smith acted as chairman. Suggestions on conduct of the national accident prevention drive on this part of the Southern Pacific lines made up a major portion of the discussion. Two accidents of a minor nature have occurred on the Salt Lake division since the beginning of the campaign.

EVERY EFFORT TO PREVENT COAL STRIKE IS BEING TAKEN AND EMERGENCY ORDERS SENT OUT

Every possible effort to prevent the coal strike in the United States is being taken at Washington, according to word received here, and the government will use every means of settling the problems without a strike. Coal unions throughout the country are holding meetings at which their plans are being discussed.
In Utah it is thought that the miners will not strike, inasmuch as the majority of them are not members of the union. However, the government is prepared for any emergency and, according to Associated Press dispatches, the national guardsmen of the country will be mobilized, if the need arises.
Federal Fuel Administrator Garfield has been summoned to Washington by President Wilson to discuss the situation.
Locally the men of the Ogden unit of national guardsmen for the call of the government. Armed guards are being placed at the armory here to protect property and rumor has it that the men will be able to depart at a hour's notice.

However, there is no need for immediate alarm. The entire program as mapped out by the government is one of precaution. If the need arises the men will be detailed to the coal camps for actual duty but until that time the men will merely be held in readiness.
Several rumors have also circulated in Ogden to the effect that reserve officers have also been informed to be in readiness. However, this rumor could not be verified.
In the local organization of Troop B, eighty men of the city are enlisted. They have had considerable drill work and with their equipment at hand are ready for the government should they be needed. However, the cloud of trouble is yet to develop and until the situation becomes real the soldiers will not be called.

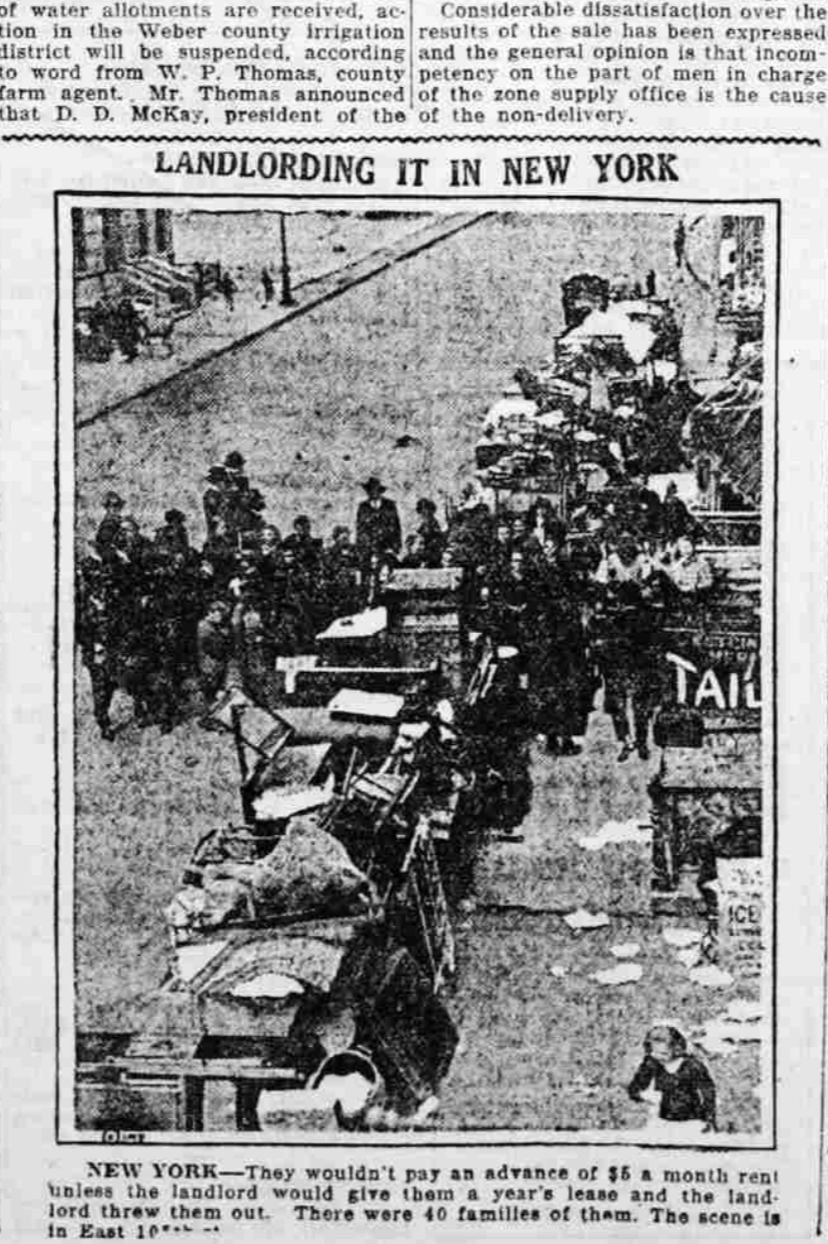

Weber county farm bureau, had sent a telegram to Engineer McGonagle, who at present is in the east with Governor Bamberger attending to matters relative to the building of the Moffatt road through Uintah basin.

An answer to the communication is expected tomorrow and it is anticipated that Dr. Fortier will be given full power to act.

Orders For Government Foodstuffs Are Being Cancelled
Reports of people who made inquiry at the postoffice this morning regarding the war department sale of foodstuffs some months ago, was to the effect that a request for either the return of the money or the immediate delivery of the goods was anticipated. Considerable dissatisfaction over the results of the sale has been expressed and the general opinion is that incompetency on the part of men in charge of the zone supply office is the cause of the non-delivery.

STRIKE ORDER STANDS
Decision Reached After Two Hour Conference at Indianapolis.
U. S. READY TO ACT
Federal Officials Prepared to Take Drastic Steps at Once.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The government is prepared to take drastic steps to deal with conditions arising in the coal fields if the executive board of the United Mine Workers of America permits the strike order to stand. This became known today after Federal Fuel Administrator Garfield had been summoned from Massachusetts to discuss the situation with Secretary Tumulty.
Mr. Garfield left a memorandum on the coal situation for President Wilson. He was hopeful that the strike could be averted and that it would not be necessary to revive the fuel administration, which under the Lever food control act still would retain all its wartime authority over the nation's fuel supply.
The grounds on which this decision was reached will be explained in a statement to the public which probably will be issued later today. A committee to draw up this statement was appointed and given three hours in which to prepare it, the conference adjourning until 4 p. m.
As explained by Ellis Scarles, editor of the union's magazine and official spokesman for the conference, the statement will set before the American people the exact situation from the miners' standpoint. It probably will be lengthy, he said, and will cover all aspects of the problem. He brought out that it will not be specifically an answer to the president, but will discuss the chief executive's stand as one of the incidents of the strike situation.
"As a matter of fact," he added, "this organization does not know officially that President Wilson ever uttered such a statement. No copy of it has come to us, but we have accepted the newspaper version of it as substantially correct.
"Did any one in the conference deny the president's stand?" he was asked.
"Not one. On the contrary, every speaker who touched on it expressed the thought that President Wilson's action was calculated to embitter rather than to mollify the mine workers."
The committee which is to draft the public statement consists of William Green, secretary-treasurer of the union; and the following district presidents: Philip Murray, Pennsylvania; John Moore, Ohio; Edward Stewart, Indiana; Frank Farrington, Illinois.
Those districts comprise the bulk of the central competitive field. Their executives reported to the conference that the union members in them are 100 per cent in favor of the Cleveland wage policy and similar reports come from other districts.
"View of this animality of opinion, it would be folly to expect of the conference any action tending to change the present policy of the United Mine Workers," said Mr. Scarles. "It is an essential part of that policy, however, that we remain willing to negotiate with the operators at any time they do not insist upon impracticable conditions."
When the conference was opened John L. Lewis, acting president of the organization, explained developments since the Cleveland convention for the benefit of the union leaders who had been out of direct touch with their officers. This presentation of the case

ENLIGHTENING ADDRESS AT THE ROTARY CLUB LUNCHEON BY ALBANIAN REPRESENTATIVE

At the weekly luncheon of the Rotary club held today noon in the private dining room of the Weber club the special features of the program were the introducing of the company by P. F. Kirkendall of Frank Ryan, grand exalted ruler of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks of the United States. Mr. Rain is a resident and prominent Elk of Fairbury, Neb. In a short speech Mr. Rain expressed his good wishes for the work of the Rotarians saying that as he had traveled over the United States in the interests of the Elks he had everywhere heard golden words of the deeds and purposes of Rotarians and was glad to find Ogden keeping step in the march of progress.
President of the local Rotarians, Frank M. Driggs, called upon Rev. Godfrey Matthews to introduce E. Telford Erickson who has for the last two years been intimately associated with the people of Albania, who represented the Albanian federation at the peace conference at Paris and who is now representing their interests in Washington, D. C. in an intensely interesting speech Mr. Erickson briefly indicated how this distinctive national, the Albanian, has for two thousand years been under the domination of one or other, or some times more than one, of the great powers of Europe and how despite the fact that they are probably the oldest race in the Balkans—their language having given to Greece the names of many of her ancient gods—she has not been allowed to rise to national distinctness and separate government. Albania is at present at disadvantage because of included a reading of President Wilson's message. A big stack of telegrams from locals in various parts of the country, urging the conference to stand firm, was exhibited and a general discussion ensued.

It was indicated by several members of the conference that its business probably would be wound up tonight. The executive board of the union will meet in separate session tomorrow.
