MITZI COMING IN BIG MUSICAL SHOW

"Head Over Heels," Best Attraction of its Kind at the Orpheum Xmas Eve.

In the new play with music, "Head Over Heels," in which Henry W. Savage is to send the gay little Mitzi to the Orpheum on Christmas eve, she is praised as the sauciest of characters in the lights and splendor of a little foreign aerobist. In pursuit of a lost love she comes to America with the troupe of "brothers and sisters" who all had different "papas and mammas." And when she finds the affection was not real and her dream faded away, the momentarily crushed little "top mount girl" builds a new pyramid of love up which she climbs.

In the story are mingled laughter and the tears of the variety performer's life and also the contrast of the world of smart society.

"Head Over Heels" is announced to come with the supporting cast of metropolitan players that has received much praise. Among the principals are Joe Keno, who played the leading comedy role in "Have a Heart" last season. With Rosie Green, he formerly was a vaudeville headliner billed as "Keno and Green" and in addition to playing their roles, they will present their whirlwind dance specialties. Edward Sells, well remembered as the jovial and inebriated Italian singer of "Twin Beds" and in other comedies; Ruth Oswald, the lyric soprano; Rebeckah Caulte, Boyd Marshall, the grand opera baritone, Dorothy LaMar, Joseph Daniels, Harry Child, a troupe of five aerobists and an ensemble of girls much praised as unusual in beauty and intelligence.

The music of "Head Over Heels" is by the favorite Jerome Kern and a half dozen of the numbers have become widely known since the first success of the work early last season. "The Big Show," "Funny Little Something," "Head Over Heels," and the "March Militaire," being the best known.—Advertisement.

New's Confession of Murder is Read Before Jury

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 19.—An alleged confession of Harry New, charged with the murder of his sweetheart, Freda Lesser, was admitted in evidence and read to the jury trying him here late today. In admitting the confession, Superior Judge Gavio Craig decided that both sides conceded was the most important legal point involved in the case.

Miss E. L. Senger, a trained nurse, testified New had told her he "did not intend to marry for a long time" and had accused Miss Lesser of "running around" with other men.

The defense had announced it expected to present long arguments against admission of alleged confession by New, but Leromonte Davis, leading counsel for New, made only a brief, though vigorous objection.

The alleged confession was laid before the jury through the testimony of E. J. Davidson, a police detective, who swore it had been made in his presence and that of another police officer, and two newspaper men, July 5 last, at central police station here.

Davidson testified he was on duty as desk sergeant when New entered his office and laying down a revolver on the witness' desk, told him he had killed a girl. According to Davidson New said he had killed her in Topan canyon, a few miles from here, and had taken the body to the police station in the automobile in which they had been riding and in which he said the girl had met death.

The witness said he and the three other men he had mentioned accompanied New to a car, which was standing outside the station, and there found the body of Miss Lesser.

New then re-entered the station and made a formal confession, Davidson said, which was reduced to writing. In this alleged confession New said he killed the girl because she refused to marry him, and though admitting she was in a state of expectant motherhood, would not bear a child by him and planned to have an illegal operation performed.

The prosecution announced another and more lengthy confession, alleged to have been made by New, would be offered in evidence Monday when the trial is resumed.

ALLURING APPEAL IN HAWAIIAN SHOW ORPHEUM SUNDAY

"My Honolulu Girl," has Bewitching Melodies With Native Singers, Dancers

There is just one beautiful thing after another in Norman Friedenthal's musical oddity which is coming to the Orpheum theater, Sunday night, December 21. Its alluring appeal finds response alike from music lover, laughter lover, and beauty lover. It combines about everything to arouse public enthusiasm, a pretty Hawaiian love story, bewitching melodies from dreamy Honolulu which will be long remembered, fantastically gowned beauties, a troupe of native Hawaiians, and a truly wonderful cast of musical comedy favorites.

Aside from the magnificent stage pictures is the wide variety of musical ensembles and song numbers that are presented. Dreamy waltzes, lively one-steps, tantalizing tangoes, whirling eccentric dance tunes and modern ballads, all blend into a carefully arranged melange that pleases from start to finish.

"My Honolulu Girl" has a distinct Hawaiian atmosphere embellished with native Hawaiians, in native dances, songs and customs of beautiful Honolulu. An exact reproduction of the famous bathing beach at Waikeiki, and a vivid production of the volcano Kilauea in eruption are big scenic surprises.

Among the big cast of musical comedy favorites will be found Eddie Low Kramer, an eccentric comedian of the 22 karat variety; Madeleine LeFere, a dainty, dashing comedienne; Sam Burton, Kathryn Purcell and Miss Billie Emerson, a popular comic opera prima donna. A big chorus of Fifth avenue beauties charmingly gowned adds to the magnificent production of "My Honolulu Girl."—Advertisement.

LIVING COSTS SHOW CHANGE FOR THE BETTER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Cabinet members and other high officials who have been assisting Attorney General Palmer in the fight on the supply and the low point of demand, which now we are at the low point of supply and the peak of demand. A graphic representation of living costs would show a very satisfactory curve of price ranges.

With the approval of the conference, Mr. Palmer is preparing a statement summarizing the results obtained, which probably will be given out tomorrow.

Clothing Too High.

Mr. Figg, who has been in close touch with producers of wearing apparel, announced today that at their suggestion, a conference will be held next month which will undertake to devise means for checking the increase in clothing prices. One of the most important steps to be considered will be the production and marketing of a certain fixed amount of standard, medium priced goods, as an incentive to the public to abandon the era of extravagance which has followed war prosperity.

Mr. Palmer said today he could not predict the immediate effect on prices of the settlement of the anti-trust action against the packers.

"The big effect of the agreed decree," he said, "is to open the channels of business freely to all men without fear of domination by these interests."

The court in which the agreed decree will be entered will not be announced until the decree is filed, which will be after the holidays.

Announcement was made today by the Southern Wholesale Grocers' association, that its complaint against a large number of railroads for alleged preferences in the way of rates and privileges to the five large packers would be dismissed from further consideration by the interstate commerce commission.

HOW HE ENDED KIDNEY TROUBLE

"I had a severe attack of kidney trouble and for three weeks could not get out of doors and scarcely out of bed," writes C. E. Brewer, Village Ala. "Could not bend over at all without the most excruciating pains. I purchased a bottle of Foley Kidney Pills. Was relieved after first few doses and continued their use until completely cured. I consider Foley Kidney Pills the best remedy in the world. No recurrence of my trouble." A. R. McIntyre Drug Co.—Advertisement.

COSTS OF COLD WAVE.

McMINNVILLE, Ore., Dec. 19.—An incomplete survey of the city is the basis for the estimate that the recent cold spell cost the citizens of McMinnville in loss of fruit, potatoes and apples frozen and destroyed, and in plumbing bills and damage from explosions an average of $100, for each family.

LLOYD GEORGE IS SCORED BY MORNING POST

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The attitude of the United States with regard to settlement of affairs in Europe occupies a large part of the editorial discussion of Premier Lloyd George's speech before the house of commons yesterday. The Morning Post across the premier for "trying to throw the blame on the American nation" and calls the speech "a confession of failure." It defends the American senate's action on the league of nations and says Mr. Lloyd George "put his money on the wrong horse when he supported President Wilson's disastrous blunders." The newspaper then attacks the league of nations as a chimera, declaring it should be scrapped as a failure.

The Daily Mail emphasizes the importance of the announcement dealing with Turkey, which it says undoubtedly involves the end of Turkish rule in Constantinople. It regrets the desperate need of a solution in the Near East and that the uncertainty regarding final decision by the United States compelled the allies to act without further delay.

PALMER TELLS FULL STORY TO THE SENATE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Attorney General Palmer told a senate coal investigating committee today a full story of his own and the general government's action in connection with the strike of bituminous miners, including his testimony with the declaration that the "firm, strong hand of the government," finally had forced the miners to yield.

Alfred M. Ogle, chairman of the executive committee of the bituminous coal operators association, took the stand a moment after the attorney general concluded and told the committee that Mr. Palmer endeavored on Friday, December 5, to induce the operators to compromise with the miners on a basis of more than 14 per cent wage increase suggested in behalf of the government by former Fuel Administrator Garfield.

Continuing, Ogle surprised the committee with the assertion that Mr. Palmer had told the operators, Federal Judge Anderson at Indianapolis who issued an injunction against the strike leaders on the government's application, might "act in a characteristic fashion, and put a lot of union leaders in jail, thus precipitating a 'terrible industrial situation.'"

"We replied," said Ogle, "that we considered the proposal a cowardly, dastardly surrender of the rights of the public and the government. We considered it a compromise of principles far more important than any question of the wages of miners or our own profits as operators of coal mines. We thought it a question of the maintenance of law and order in the United States."

Ogle's testimony, given after Attorney General Palmer who was before the committee practically the entire day, had left the room, came to the climax to a series of revelations concerning the government's movements in the strike.

The operators' chairman refused to divulge details when first put on the stand, but finally told his story after getting permission to consult his attorney, Rush Butler, who was also called as a witness.

Chairman Frelinghuysen, of the senate committee, indicated after conclusion of the hearing that the investigation would be continued on the strength of the information brought out.

The attorney general, aided by questions from Senator Townsend, Republican, Michigan, took the committee over the entire ground traversed by the government in the strike. After Fuel Administrator Garfield, who later resigned because of the settlement, had suggested and the miners had rejected a 14 per cent wage increase, and a retention of the present price on coal, the government, he said, "had prepared to fight the thing out."

Then John J. Keegan, an attaché of the department of labor, brought about successful mediation. John L. Lewis and William Green, president and secretary respectively, of the United Mine Workers, came to Washington on their own volition, Mr. Palmer said, and held two private conferences with him in one day.

President Wilson meanwhile had prepared a statement, Mr. Palmer said, and at the second conference, which Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to the president, attended, the miners' representatives "acquiesced to the president's proposal." There was no "settlement" of the strike, Mr. Palmer asserted, but "an arrangement which finally accomplished the object we wanted, the production of coal."

Between the first and second conferences with the miners' union chiefs Mr. Palmer said Secretary of the Treasury Glass, Director General of Railroads Hines and Fuel Administrator Garfield had been consulted and had approved the arbitration plans.

Finally on a train going to Indianapolis where injunction proceedings were to be disposed of, Palmer, accompanied by Lewis and Green, drew up a memorandum specifying the conditions which the miners accepted. It was this "memorandum" which finally caused Dr. Garfield's resignation, the testimony developed, because of its terms. It proposed to create a commission of three with power to "readjust both wages and prices," he explained, while Dr. Garfield thought that "only a consultative body" should be created.

"I knew what the president meant," Mr. Palmer said, when questioned by Senator Wolcott, Democrat, Delaware, as to whether the memorandum of agreement had carried out the president's intention. He added under further questioning that there was no authority under which the government

JUST LIVED IN DREAD, SHE SAYS

After Forty Years' Suffering Mrs. Mahoney Finds Relief By Taking Tanlac.

"There is no statement that I can make that would be strong enough to express how thankful myself and husband are for Tanlac," said Mrs. C. Mahoney at her home at No. 2260 East Fifteenth street, Los Angeles. "Tanlac has restored my health after forty years of suffering," she continued. "It is the greatest medicine in the world."

"All my life I have had no real appetite and had to be very careful what I ate for gas would fill me up and seem to press on my heart terribly."

"For the past few years I have had no peace at all and was in pain nearly every minute and my condition became so serious I could get no rest or sleep. I just lived on tea and would sit down at the table three times a day with only a cup of tea for a meal and never a bite of solid food at all. Once in a while a glass of milk, but that was all. Even a bite of bread would cause me such agony I could hardly endure it."

"I tried every sort of medicine or treatment any one would suggest but got no relief whatever. In fact nearly all the medicine I took came right back up again and left my stomach more irritated and painful than ever. I was so sick and miserable I was in dread all the time. It was terrible."

"My husband had been taking Tanlac and had been so much benefited by it that one day, when I was so bad off, he urged me to take a dose, which I did. I was greatly surprised to find that it stayed on my stomach and, instead of nauseating me, seemed to soothe me. I have now taken four bottles and don't hesitate to say that it is the finest stomach medicine made, for every bit of the gas and pain are gone from my stomach and I don't have palpitation of the heart any more. I am eating more now than I ever did in my life before and I relish every bit of it. I don't have the slightest discomfort after eating, either, and I have gained a lot of weight. Positively I feel better than I ever did in my whole life."

"My husband and I just bless the day I heard of Tanlac and, as I said before, no statement I could make would be strong enough to express our gratitude for it."

Tanlac is sold in Ogden by McIntyre Drug Co.—Advertisement.
