TOAST for the DAY

Edmund Vance Cooke

Wherever there are Tyrants to be shamed,
Wherever Truth and Justice need defendants,
May some staunch Declaration be proclaimed
In fearless terms of deathless Independence,
Where arrogant Oppression is enthroned,
May there forever be some pen to smite it,
Some Jefferson to know the common mind
And in immortal strophes to indict it.

Wherever there is "Common Sense" inspired
In sudden souls by some courageous dreamer,
And when the Consummation, long desired,
Is born in times of trepidation and tremor,
Then may there be some Hancock's heavy quill,
Whose stroke shall show how sturdily he signed,
Stamping a nation's unreluctant will
Upon the seal of Congresses behind it.

And when (as maybe now) we drone the phrase
And deem it wise, because our wits have wandered,
O, let us seize upon this Day of days
In which the Spirit of it shall be pondered,
And when its gallant sentences are scrolled,
May it find minds and hearts to comprehend it,
For it shall be a skeleton, unsoiled,
Unless it rouse its people to defend it!

Life In The City Has No Attractions For This Girl

"EASTER" is mountain-bred and mountain-loving. The high places next to Nature's heart are home to her. Here in a rude cabin that a city person would not care to live in, she spends her happy childhood days.

And "Easter" has a strange aversion for the Big City. She doesn't care to live in it. Its culture does not impress her. Up among the peaks, folks are honest, at least. Nevertheless she comes to admire a city man. A SOCIETY MAN AT THAT! All her notions of love and life itself are knocked galley west.

How could so odd a romance terminate? See for yourself tonight.

OUR VOWS OF FAITH

By FRANKLIN D'OLIER,
National Commander, The American Legion.

Two years ago, this day, our armies stood on the Marne. Success hesitated in the balance. Americans at home knew only that the dangers that threaten, such days their soldiers faced as this we renew our vows of faith in overwhelming odds, the Republic. The American Legion Americans in the presence of this strength that this faith may be fulfilled.

On the night of the 18th and 19th of July, 1918, the sky was lit with the light of a star. It was a star of hope and confidence — justified a fortnight later to the sky when American soldiers went forward at Soissons, and the advance continued until the capture of the Meuse was achieved.

Olive drab and navy blue are laid away, but in the hearts of those who served reside still the ideals and high purposes, the spirit indomitable that saw them through the anxious days of 1918.

That spirit — love of country, that spirit — devotion to the flag; that spirit — faith in the fundamental justice of the basic institutions of our govern-

Caution Against Idle Dropping of Matches

Forest service officials today called attention to the fact that the annual forest fire season is approaching, warm weather and lack of rains making conditions hazardous in event that a match is carelessly thrown into cigarette or cigar stub is thrown into a heap of inflammable material.

Campers and motor tourists are urged by the officials to be extremely careful of fires, a carelessly thrown match carrying a potential start which might cause the loss of millions of feet of valuable timber.

"Over the Falls" Big Feature With Carnival

One of the biggest features with the Clarence A. Wortham shows, which comes Wednesday to stage the Herman Baker Post No. 9, American Legion carnival, is the ride "Over the Falls." Last summer this machine was the wonder of Coney Island in New York and Venice Beach in California.

The one that comes with the Wortham shows is only one of twenty-five features, yet it stands out above all others. It is the only one on the road, and thus far it has been the talk of those sections of the country it has visited.

"Over the Falls" is a Yankee invention. It came about by accident, and the routing of Indian legends. A party of hunters from the United States numbered among themselves the inventor of "Over the Falls." He volunteered to take a canoe across the MacKenzie river in Canada, and with it many of the packs of the crowd. They were accompanied by Indian guides that warned him that if his canoe was upset he would be thrown into the falls, and no man had ever swam and lived to tell the story.

His canoe was upset, but he was determined to die game. He used it as a breakwater in the first plunge into the rapids and when he set about saving himself he let the wreck go. He had not gone far when he discovered that instead of being a thing of danger the falls was the most sensational ride he had ever taken. Any one who could swim at all could navigate the falls.

When his companions had landed they ran down the bank to look for the body of their friend.

There they found him, safe, sitting on a rock, and with a small stick in his hand, drawing a diagram in the sand. He has figured out the falls mechanically and when he came home invented the machine that gives one all the sensations of his odd ride, except the drowning. Those who ride it leave it convulsed with laughter and urge their friends to make the plunge.

"Over the Falls" is one of the scores of attractions with the Wortham shows, which are scheduled to open here Wednesday night. There are thirty-five carloads of fun with this company, and they come to make their stay at Lorin Farr park.

SAYS FIREMAN KILLED ROBINS

Ogdan Woman Protests to City Commission Against Ruthless Slaying

Complaining that a certain member of the Ogdan fire department, amused himself with unmanly practice of killing and injuring robins with a slingshot, and that her complaint to the police department was ignored, and that Captain of Detectives Robert Burk is alleged to have practically upheld and commended the action of the fireman in killing off one of America's greatest song birds, Mrs. C. D. Burdell, 2642 Grant avenue, has appealed to the city commission. She also asks that her communication be published in the Standard-Examiner in order that full explanation may be given.

Mayor Frank Francis this morning turned the communication over to the Standard-Examiner with his approval to have it printed. The message follows:

City Commissioners: I would like to have this communication given space in the Standard-Examiner, if it meets with your approval. The writer, while passing through the park near the Grant avenue firehouse, Wednesday, saw one of three firemen who were sitting on the lawn amusing themselves with a flipper.

"One man, flipping a stone at a robin, injured it so that it fell from the tree when the fireman picked it up and rung its neck, then flipped at another robin, but fortunately missed his aim.

"The incident was reported to Chief of Detectives Robert Burk at the police station who declared there was no law or fine in this state, and that he would give said fireman a medal to sit in his yard and do the same thing.

"Mr. Burk is not well informed as a policeman, for there is a fine for killing robins in this state as well as others.

"My opinion on the amusement this fireman was indulging in, is that it is an outrage and disgrace to the city of Ogdan, and if one can get no satisfaction by reporting such matters to the police, would advise that a humane officer be appointed who would do his duty. This city is sadly in need of one."

ACTORS POORLY PAID IN RUMANIA

American Made Shoes Sell for Less There Than in the United States

BUCHAREST, June 9.—(Mail.)—Rumania is being swept with a vast wave of speculation, the object of which is to overcome the high cost of living, which harnesses the richest and poorest alike. The primary cause of the advanced price of necessities is found in the fact that all manufactured products have to be imported, whereas there is sufficient amount of food grown in the country to support the population and this food has not risen in proportion to dress goods.

The cost of living in Rumania has been the occasion of many strikes, but as in every other country in Europe, people seem to find unexplained ways of buying fine clothes and keeping themselves well dressed.

The wealthy women of this country make bi-annual trips to Paris and return with their trunks filled with the latest fashion, which they bring into the country despite the prohibition against the importation of such articles and also a 25 per cent customs duty which is paid when special permission is obtained to bring in goods. When such permission is not obtained the goods are smuggled in automobiles over the frontier.

Princess Elizabeth went to Paris last winter and bought herself three huge trunks full of new clothes, but arrived home heartbroken. While passing through Jugo-Slavia during the customs examination, the trunks were stolen.

The American Red Cross has contributed to the clothing of a good many thousands of people in Rumania. Some of this clothing found its way to the shops. It is not uncommon to find women who have converted American army shirts into skirts, first dyeing them another color. Blankets have also been used for the making of cloaks and overcoats.

The American shoe is practically the only article to be found in the shops. These shoes sell at a price of $4 to $8, cheaper than in the United States. Prices of clothing have been increased about tenfold, as compared before the war. Women's dresses which formerly cost 200 lei or about $35, now cost 2,000 lei.

The actors and actresses are still underpaid. Rumania's greatest comedy actress, Mme. Marie Giurgica, receives 3,000 lei per month, or half the price of an expensive dress. Music hall artists receive 20 to 50 lei a night. It is difficult for them to find dress themselves well, as they have no means of making money in side lines, such as in the moving pictures industry, which has not yet been developed in Rumania.

Cabinet members are practically the only ones who have not had their salaries raised. They still receive the equivalent of about $200 a year. The former minister of the interior, Nicholas Lupu, was nearly bankrupted on one occasion when he was compelled to buy a silk hat to appear at a royal ceremony.

Paper manufacture requires the destruction of 9500 acres of forest daily.
