Dublin Opinion Says Great Britain Makes Mistake in Handling Mannix Case

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Duties of crown courts in Ireland will be taken over by courts martial, even to the extent of settling civil disputes, infliction of fines and the binding of accused persons over to keep the peace, under the terms of the new Irish bill, which was made public this morning.

Military courts also will take over the duties of coroners and will have the power to decide cases without jury. In trials for crimes punishable by death, however, one person who need not be an officer shall sit as one of the judges. He must be appointed by the viceroy from a list approved by the lord chancellor of Ireland or the lord chief justice of England.

Persons convicted by them may be imprisoned in any part of Great Britain. The bill makes provision for excluding Ulster from the working of the law, but stipulating that it shall be effective in the whole or any part of Ireland.

ROOSEVELT TO SPEAK IN OGDEN AUGUST 26

HERE are pictures of Charles Ponzi, his wife and mother. Ponzi says he has made $8,500,000 in less than eight months. He bought European money far under par, sent the foreign money to Europe and bought international reply coupons. Under a pre-war agreement these are redeemed in the United States at par.

Political Writer Says Europe Must Believe Wilson Is Done as Spokesman

POSITION OF GOVERNOR COX MAY BE DIFFICULT

Revival of Hague Tribunal Declared Significant Event in World Politics

Through arrangements made with the leading Post, the Standard-Examiner today presents the first of a series of articles on the political situation from the pen of Mark Sullivan, former editor of the New York Times. Mr. Sullivan will discuss from a non-partisan standpoint progress of the presidential campaign. Watch for these articles.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 3.—Governor Cox is just now completing the acceptance speech which he will deliver next Saturday. In order to accommodate the mechanism of distribution in advance to the newspapers it is necessary to have the speech completed several days ahead. Governor Cox has announced, however, that as to one portion of the speech he will not finish complete until the day before it is delivered and will distribute that portion by telegraph.

If Governor Cox has "sensed" what many of us think we observe in the national development of the league of nations in Europe, he must be conscious of great embarrassment in announcing his position and must wish to control the league of nations before itally committing himself. Governor Cox's problem is one of standing for President Wilson's league of nations, or standing for something different. It must be apparent to him that if he does endorse Wilson's position on the league of nations he may find himself a little later on in the most embarrassing position of having Mr. Wilson stand with the league itself. Of standing loyally by an institution of the very moment when that institution, of its own initiative, has proposed some of its "sense" as being just now is a disposition on the part of those European statesmen who control the league to ignore Mr. Wilson and to do business with the Republican party.

EUROPEAN ADJUSTMENT

To those of us who take this view it looks as if the European statesmen would not be so ready to accept as final the repeated refusal of America to endorse Mr. Wilson's league, and have therefore determined to adjust themselves to the different conception of America's international relations set out in the Republican platform and in the utterances of the Republican leadership.

If this guess is correct, it is an event in American and world history of which the importance can hardly be overstated. For setting it forth now you correspondent does not present any such amount of new shreds of authoritative information. But these shreds, coupled with the plain trend of what is being done by the league itself, are strikingly convincing.

On Friday last a session of the secretary of the league of nations began in San Sebastian and the chief business of the conference was the presentation of an action which bears away from President Wilson's notion of the league of nations and moves straight in the direction of that conception of international relations which is endorsed by the Republican platform, which was repeated by Mr. Harding in his speech of acceptance and which was set out specifically by Senator Lodge's speech of notification to Mr. Harding.

Moreover, this action which the league of nations is now engaged in adopting officially is one which was proposed and worked out in detail by Elihu Root, the writer of the Republican plank on the league of nations issue. The difference between President Wilson's conception of the league of nations and that conception which arose in Elihu Root's mind and which Mr. Root has now succeeded in persuading the league to take on is not a wide as a difference in principle so wide as to be practically contradictory.

TURN IS COMPLEX

The turn in the internal history of the league of nations is complex and it involves some difficulty of statement, but it is so important both in itself and in its bearing on the present American campaign, as to justify almost any effort at understanding. Your correspondent shortly after the Republican convention at Chicago on June 17, was in a position to see the Republican platform tentatively revived and perfected of the Hague Tribunal whereas the spirit of the league of nations is to create a superstate with a court of its own, and

WORLD RECORD AVIATOR HURT IN SLIGHT CRASH

DAYTON, O., Aug. 3.—Captain R. W. Schroeder, holder of the world's altitude record was injured about the head tonight when the racing plane he was testing crashed into an automobile at Wilbur Wright field. He had landed and was running up to the hangar. His injury is a cut over the left eye.

The plane especially designed by Alfred Verville to participate in the Gordon Bennett cup races in France during the last week in September, was on its last test flight before shipment. The landing gear and left wing were wrecked.

BAND PLAYS AT $200 FUNERAL OF COBBLER'S CANARY

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—The scriptural assurance that sparrows shall not fall unnoticed, was given material application to a pet canary bird today, Jimmie, the little songster, choked to death yesterday on a watermelon seed and so grief stricken was his owner, Emidio Russomanno, a 65-year-old cobbler, that friends contributed $200 for a funeral, including a hearse, a little plush-lined casket, five mourners' coaches and a fifteen-piece band. The cobbler plans to erect a monument later.

'THE CRANK' OF BABY COUGHLIN FAME NABBED

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 3.—Federal authorities announced today that the man arrested at Egg Harbor, N. J., late yesterday in connection with the kidnaping of the infant son of George H. Coughlin is the individual who wrote letters to the Coughlins and signed himself "the crank." Other details were refused for the present.

"The crank" not only wrote letters but he used the telephone. The father was induced to proceed at midnight to a lonely spot where he placed $12,000 and then went home to await the return of the child. After many days he was forced to the conclusion that he had been swindled.

"The crank" recently started another letter writing campaign, this time demanding $10,000 for the return of the child, and postal inspectors say they have him in custody.

ALLEN HAS OPPOSITION IN RACE FOR NOMINATION

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Aug. 3.—Kansas today nominated candidates for senatorial, congressional and state offices and chose ten presidential electors for each party.

WHEAT JUMPS QUICKLY ON EUROPEAN WAR TALK

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Wheat made a steep advance in price today as a result of increased speculative buying stimulated by European war talk. In a little more than a single hour an extreme upward swing of 15c a bushel had taken place, March delivery touching $2.30 as against $2.15 at yesterday's finish.

Later the market jumped still higher and before midday had scored 15 1/2c gain, December delivery reaching a top level of $2.74 1/2c, compared with $2.13 1/2c at yesterday's close. Then a setback of more than 6 cents ensued.

Something like old-time spirit was shown in the trading pit with transactions at a much livelier rate than has been the rule since business in future deliveries was resumed.

The most significant bullish factor as viewed in some quarters was a statement that the British royal commission was asking exporters to offer wheat in any position possible.
