

Text of Roosevelt's Address

Mr. Cummings and Ladies and Gentlemen of the Committee: I accept the nomination for the office of vice president, with humility and with a deep wish to give to our beloved country the best that is in me.

In fact, I could not conscientiously accept it, if I had not come to know by the closest of friends who by my selection for the presidency, and who is my chief and yours, is a man possessed of ideals which are also mine.

TWO BIG PROBLEMS. Two great problems will confront the next administration, our relations with the world and the pressing need of organized progress at home.

Our world problems we must either shut our eyes, sell our newly acquired merchant marine more lavishly to foreign powers, cuss utterly by embargo and harassing legislation our foreign trade, close our ports and build an impenetrable wall of arms and live, as the orient used to live, a hermit nation, dreaming of the past, or we must open our eyes and see that modern civilization has become so complex and the lives of civilized men so interwoven with the lives of other men in other countries as to make it impossible to be in this world and not of it.

HOME PROBLEM. As for our home problem, we have been awakened by this war into a startled realization of the archaic shortcomings of our governmental machinery and of the need for the kind of reorganization which only a clear thinking business man, experienced in the technicalities of governmental procedure can carry out.

BETTER CITIZENSHIP. Among the most pressing of these national needs I place the bettering of our citizenship, the extension of the franchise to all our citizens, the elevation above the age of ten who are illiterate, the strengthening of our immigration laws to exclude the physically and morally unfit, the improvement of working conditions, especially in the congested centers, the extension of communications to make rural life more attractive, the further protection of child life and of women in industry.

RULE IN GOVERNMENT. The golden rule of the true public servant is to give to his work the same or even of higher interest and efficiency that he would give to his private affairs. There is no reason why the effectiveness of the national government should not at least approximate that of well conducted private business.

FISHING BRIDGE, Yellowstone Park, Wyo., Aug. 8.—Boy Scouts from Ogden and Salt Lake, hiking through Yellowstone national park, were told by Superintendent Albright that national park service officials hoped their trip was a forerunner of what scouts in every state would do in the future.

SOVIET ARMY IS WELL EQUIPPED. WARSAN, Aug. 8.—(By The Associated Press.)—Sergeant William Cook of Fay, Okla., member of the American typhus expedition, captured three weeks ago by the Bolsheviks at Minsk, has arrived, having been released. He came by way of Vilna and Biala, where he joined a Red Cross courier.

STOCKHOLDERS OF OGDEN PETROLEUM CO. There will be a special meeting of stockholders of the Ogden Petroleum company at the City Hall (upper) Wednesday at 8:30 p. m., to consider very important business matters. Every stockholder requested to come. A. L. GLASSMANN, Sec'y-Treas.
