SHALL I SURRENDER TO ELIZABETH? Alice and Helen left me soon after- ward and I went up to the nursery, as I had learned that my baby in my arms was like taking a composing draught.

proud spirit into the dust to see all the things that had come to me as John's wife—yes, to have helped pre- pare for another woman some of the things that John had, in his obtuse- ness, asked her to prepare for me.

Should Anyone Call You "Catty," Make No Mistake; It's a Compliment

ACTRESS SAYS CAT TAUGHT HER BEAUTY OF MOVE- MENT AND REPOSE

BY DJUNA BARNES. NEW YORK—Have you ever felt you lacked a certain grace? Have you ever wondered if you had somehow missed knowing all the se- cret of that mystic thing—charm?

It was a cat who made me realize what can be done with an eyelid.

So says Fania Marinoff, the actress wife of the author, Carl Van Vechten. Her husband has just written a book all about the cats, so she ought to know.

"Cats are particularly indispensable to women who simply must exert their charm," says Fania. "If you are in a business where charm is not needed (and I know of no such business) why you can afford to neglect the feline element, but not in any other case."

These same qualities, that they drove cats out of Puritan England, as witches were driven out of Salem? "And are not black cats a sign of ill-luck, and white of impending good fortune?"

with an eyelid. A beautiful woman should have no swift movements—except—and here Fania Marinoff half closed her eyes—except when she is ready to drop the paw.

BEDTIME STORIES BY HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE PIE. Copyright, 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"Will you please put up a lunch for me today," Nurse Jane said. Uncle Wiggily one morning as he started to hop out of the red, white and blue striped bungalow—oh, excuse me, I mean hollow stump house.

Jane, and she cut another slice of cherry pie. And she didn't know a thing about the other two pieces the bunny had cut for himself. Along and alone walks Uncle Wiggily, looking for an adventure, with his lunch basket over his shoulder. But adventures seemed to be scarce that day.

Sometimes one hardly knows just what to do with a fresh cake that is too big to go into the cake box.

Roll crackers. Mash yolks of eggs with mustard and salt. Add vinegar, making a smooth paste. Chop salmon and whites of eggs. Mix all ingredi- ents. Add melted butter. Chill and serve on lettuce.

- CHOCOLATE ROLL. 3 eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 6 tablespoons boiling water. Filling: 2 squares chocolate, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup water, 1 teaspoon butter, 1 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch, 1/2 cup milk.
