By JULIA LATHROP, Chief, U. S. Children's Bureau WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—One of the most important lessons for a mother to learn is that her baby is not safe until every mother's baby is safe.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Mrs. Frog says her Freddy can't come to school and sit on a stone," said Nick, coming into the Meadow Grove school, after Mr. Scribble Scratch had finished fixing up a stick for Bertie But to hang on, and had found a nice cozy hole in the old oak tree trunk for Mrs. Owl's precious to sleep in.

"Oh, I see!" nodded the fairymen schoolmaster until his large ears shook. "It's not damp enough, she says."

BEDTIME STORIES BY HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGLY and NIBSIE CROAKER

Once upon a time, as Uncle Wiggly Longears was hopping along through the grass wondering what sort of adventure would happen him that day, he heard a sad voice saying: "Oh, dear! What a shame that I have to stay on the ground all the while and make sorrowful sounds! Oh, dear! Oh, dear! It seems to me that I have a terrible ache here, if I am any good at guessing."
