NOMINEE COX BANGING AWAY AT G.O.P. FUND

Republican Contribution in State of Washington Topic of One Speech

VIEWS ON RADICALISM TOLD TO AUDIENCE

Governor to Spend Sunday in Seattle; Then Starts Toward Utah

BELLINGHAM, Wash., Sept. 11.—Further information on Republican contributions in this state was presented here today by Governor Cox, of Ohio, the Democratic candidate, who made an early morning address here upon his arrival from Walla Walla, read a copy of a letter purporting to have been written by H. F. Alexander, an "organizing" finance committee of the Republican party, reporting under subscription allotments and requesting contributions. The letter, Governor Cox said, was additional evidence in support of his charges of a Republican "corruption fund."

BUYING PRESIDENCY

"Each day, said the governor, 'new evidence is forthcoming at the senate investigation at Chicago, evidence from Republican sources, bearing out the charges I have made of the creation of a huge corruption fund to buy the presidency. At Spokane upon my entrance in the state of Washington, I was met with a question which I answered with the evidence from immediate Republican sources in Spokane of the assessment and quota which I had charged. I now read to you another letter from Republican sources showing the amount which has been raised at other places in this state. The letter follows:

"Am making a last appeal for funds for the election of a Republican president and congress. If you, as a business man, do not appreciate personally the necessity of a return to the constitution I am not going to offer you money. Seattle has raised $60,000 of its $45,000 allotment. Practically every county has come through, several having over-subscribed. In Pierce county we have raised only a third of our quota of $20,000. A number of Seattle business men contribute $2000 each. In Tacoma we are asking for a very modest contribution. Will you send me your check for $500 that we may complete our quota and start an educational campaign?"

CRITICIZES LEADERS

Besides the Republican contributions and leaders whom he again criticized, the governor in his address here, discussed the league of nations, socialism and progressivism. His speech here opened the last day of his Washington campaign and was the first in a series of public talks to be reached on the candidate's western "swing." Bellingham marked the first stop of the trip. From here, aboard the special train of the Washington state coast, the governor's party turned southward, with speeches scheduled at Mount Vernon, and Everett en route to Seattle, where it was planned to travel forty miles by motor to Tacoma for an afternoon speech.

DISCUSSES RADICALISM

"In his discussion here of radicalism, the governor said that the league of nations was not an extreme radicalism. Government must never be at the mercy of a lower nor an upper mob, but government must always be kept responsible to the will of the people. If government is fair, then there will be no special privileges and certainly no unfair advantage to anyone. There will be neither exploitation of the worker nor injustice to the employer."

DEMOCRATS ASK GIRLS FOR FUNDS, REPORTER SAYS

Committee to Resume Inquiry September 22 in Eastern City

FOUR WITNESSES FAIL TO ANSWER CALLS

Women Employes of Internal Revenue Office Solicited, Investigators Learn

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—The senate committee, which in an earlier expenditure completed its inquiry here shortly after noon today and recessed to meet either in New York or Washington September 22, plans to meet in Pittsburg have been abandoned, Chairman Kenyon announced.

ASK GIRLS FOR FUNDS

How girl employes of the internal revenue office at Aberdeen, S. D., were solicited to contribute to a Democratic campaign fund was described today to the senate committee investigating campaign expenses today by Miss Eunice Coyne, a reporter on the Aberdeen Daily News. She said the girls were asked for $40 each by E. M. Waterbury, of Centerville, S. D., who came to Aberdeen and described himself as an agent of Clarence Mee, father of J. Walter Mee, revenue collector at Aberdeen. Miss Coyne said the girls were also told that Clarence Mee was chairman of a state wide organization organized in collecting Democratic funds.

LETTERS SHOCKED

"There was one cent due on each," added Miss Coyne.

LETTERS SHOCKED

"What?" exclaimed Senator Kenyon, "did they even ask the girls to pay postage on the letters?" and he and Senators Reed and Pomeroy agreed that the episode was "despicable and inexcusable."

LETTERS SHOCKED

"The testimony indicated that the letters named no definite assessment, but that the young women were each asked for $40 when they called on Waterbury in response to the letters. Several of the letters had been returned, but others gave post-dated checks on a partial payment plan. The salaries of the girls were fixed at about $120 a month."

LETTERS SHOCKED

"I am convinced that the committee is simply becoming the vehicle for all types of insincere political charges and rumors for partisan effect." In his opinion, he continued, and in the light of the evidence, "Governor Cox has been given even more consideration than his irresponsible charges warrant. It makes no difference what witness testify under oath. If such testimony dispenses Governor Cox, he at once proceeds to vilify them and apparently no one tells the truth but himself. The situation is unparalleled in American politics. Under such circumstances what can possibly be gained by following his so-called leads further?" Governor Cox owes it to the American people to withdraw his extravagant statements or stand convicted of descending to the most despicable type of professional politics imaginable.
