AT THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

At the teachers' institute held in Central Junior High school building on Friday, the main thought of the speakers dealt with the attitude of mind which a teacher should possess in the great work of preparing children for life's activities, and Superintendent Child said that investigation had shown that the most successful teachers were those of high purposes with the enthusiasm and firm resolve to succeed.

That is true of any vocation. Once there was a business man in Ogden and he centered his efforts on making money and building up large industries. He succeeded beyond that of all rivals. In his long hours of toil, in the shaping of his undertakings, he was tireless.

A famous inventor of Ogden gave up his time to new mechanical devices. He was in his shop in the day, and at night often he arose from his bed to commit to paper a new idea. His supreme pleasure was in working out his plans.

There was a writer who said his greatest contentment was found in his room where he did his writing.

What does this mean? Nothing more nor less than that when one creates a little world of his own, and lives in that creation, there is soul ease and mind exaltation, and physical fatigue is mastered.

The teacher who resolves to concentrate her efforts, and then closes her eyes to the blandishments outside her profession, and dreams of the things she may achieve—of the children with a wonderful future, of her own advancement in a field of unequalled service—can labor day and night and find in that labor the ecstasy of the paradise she has fashioned for herself.

COCAINE AND DRINK.

Life among some of the motion picture stars must be other than tame, according to rumors coming from the police of Paris as to the cause of the death of the wife of Jack Pickford.

It is stated that investigations are being made of cocaine orgies and champagne dinners which lasted into the early hours of the morning.

Strong drink is bad enough but cocaine is worse.

Americans at home, at first thought may fail to realize that France is not dry and that the cafes are scenes of wild affairs such as disgraced this country when liquor was to be had at all the big places of entertainment in the larger cities. Our travelers, once they are across the ocean, may indulge themselves as was the practice in gay company in America up to the enforcing of national prohibition.

With alcoholic excesses go all the dissipation which make for premature physical break down, nervous disorders and mental upset. When those moving in the fast set suddenly land in the center of the temptation of wines and liquors, there is only one destination and that is complete collapse and possibly death.

The stories from Paris are reminders that this country escaped much misery and woe when the doors were closed to the destructive forces of rum.

A BUSINESS INDEX.

There has been a falling off in iron and steel orders, which is explained in the following financial report:

"The steel corporation's monthly tonnage statement indicated that shipments of finished goods were loosening up as railroad facilities improved, while, at the same time, consumers were hesitant in placing orders in advance of definite news of the application of freight rate increases to prices. The latter phase might be turned about by saying that the corporation was not anxious to add to its forwardly digested and a decision made on prices for early 1921 delivery, although no indication has come that quotations will be advanced. At any rate, the order books showed a decline of 313,430 tons during August, the first reaction since May of last year. It is probable that cancellations played a part in the recession also, although steel men have asserted that orders let go by automobile and shipbuilders have been converted to the use of implement makers."

If the drop in orders is due to freight conditions, the situation is not disturbing, but if it indicates a slowing up in business, there is cause for conservatism.

At this time, the reaction is, in a measure, caused by the uncertainties which exist in a presidential year, and, if that be the principal cause, the recovery will be rapid after November 2.

MORE EARTHQUAKES EXPECTED.

Experts, in theorizing on the earthquakes in Italy, suggest the possible cause of the sinking of the earth along the mountains bordering the Gulf of Genoa. There are indications of a massive caving zone in the earth's crust.

If that be true, the peninsula is only at the beginning of a series of disasters which may prove to be staggering.

Mighty displacements of earth masses undermining a great area of the Italian coast might shake the very foundations of that distressed country, destroying entire cities.

We who live in the undisturbed valleys of Utah and at times complain that the world has not enough of sunshine, should find in the Italian situation some degree of comfort.

MOTORCYCLES TO PURSUE THEM.

On the paved road out of Salt Lake to Ogden, motorists are making so much speed that the authorities of Salt Lake have been appealed to by residents along Second West street to have the speeding stopped and the prospects are a motorcycle officer will be required to patrol the district.

This should be notice to the fast drivers who frequently make the trip from Ogden and, disregarding their own safety and that of others, drive their cars to the limit of their engines.

At night, with bright and glaring lights adding to the uncertainty of the journey, reckless drivers go over the paved road at the rate of a limited train. If there is no misunderstanding and no confusion, and if every nut and bolt holds, the trip is voted a success, but one little slip and there is a tragedy.

ROOSEVELT RAPS FLAG REFERENCE

Democrat Nominee Repudiates International Banner for Stars and Stripes

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 11.—Charging that the Republicans were trying to make it appear that Democrats were not good Americans and preferred an international flag to the Stars and Stripes, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for vice president, replied here to assertions of Will H. Hays, Republican national chairman, in his August 31, Me., speech last month. Referring to the text of Mr. Hays' address, which was entitled "Under Which Flag," Mr. Roosevelt said the Republican chairman had "offered a deliberate insult to many millions, probably the majority of our citizens, and he was guilty not only of bad taste, but of poor political judgment."

The overwhelming majority of voters, he said, are in every way loyal and will resent the insult. "For one group of leaders to take out an 'exclusive patent' on our flag," he said, "is to claim that one party doctrine is the only American one is to infer that those who belong to another party faith are un-American. That sort of campaigning ought not to be excused even in the heat of an election."

Mr. Roosevelt declared that he would "be the first to insist that Republicans, rank and file, are just as sincerely proud of our country and our flag as Democrats are." Mr. Hays and his party differed, however, he said, "in the big conception of the great purpose for which our flag is the symbol."

"The same gentleman has used with inaccurate, but deliberate carelessness, the word 'internationalism.' With evident design he has sought to convey the impression that people who believe in the league of nations are 'internationalists' in the sense used by certain radical groups who do not believe in nations at all, or who seek a super-government in place of true national government. For political purposes, he would reason that one who seeks international peace and international justice is thereby an internationalist."

The whole falsity of this position is shown by asking the simple question of whether the thirty-seven nations who have already joined the league of nations have given up their own sovereignty, their own constitutional rights, their own flags? Even Switzerland, most jealous of independence and wary of alliances, has voted by popular referendum to join the league.

DEFENSE CALLS WITNESS

Robert D. Young, stake president of the L. D. S. church and an employee of the Utah-Idaho in direction of livestock work, was called to the stand by the defense to refute testimony previously given in the Gunnison controversy by W. Harvey Ross, president of the Gunnison Valley Sugar company. Mr. Young testified that he is related to Mr. Ross by marriage, and has been a lifelong acquaintance. He was questioned at length concerning conversations with Mr. Ross to which the latter had testified for the government in the spring.

The witness told of having been asked by Mr. Ross his opinion of the opportunity for the Gunnison Valley company when the factory was in the course of erection. At that time, Mr. Young said, he told Mr. Ross that "some of those people did not have a good reputation," and that "some of them were apostates and Mormon-converts," referring to some of the directors of the Gunnison company.

Resident of Ogden for 45 Years Dies

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Louise Joseph, wife of the late Edward Joseph, will be held Sunday at 3:30 o'clock in the Eleventh ward chapel, conducted by Bishop N. A. Tanner. The body may be viewed at the residence, 3017 Wall avenue, this evening and tomorrow until the funeral. Mrs. Joseph died Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Walter Burnett. She was born in Cardiff, Wales, May 24, 1844, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas. She was married in Wales and came to Utah in 1875 a convert of the L. D. S. church. She had resided here since and was a prominent worker in the church and Relief society. Surviving her are the following sons and daughters: Mrs. George Gibbs, Aberdeen, Wash.; W. Joseph, Grace, Ida.; Mrs. W. P. Gardner, Pocatello, Ida.; John B. Joseph, Long Beach, Cal.; Mrs. Miles Gates, Pocatello, Ida.; Mrs. Walter Burnett, Ogden; Mrs. Rose Roberts, Ogden; a sister, Mrs. Lettie Haines of Salt Lake, 25 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren also survive.

Before the war nearly half the population of France was engaged in farming.

The great war came, and America at last became a party to the struggle. But we did not join forces for the mere sake of crushing the Kaiser on the field of battle. It was not alone Kaiserism or the Central Powers that we fought for something constructive, in addition to the fight against something destructive. Men and women of all parties united in demanding in 1917 that the evil in the previous relationship between nations should be in the future removed. Mere good would not remove the danger, mere international courts had been proved a failure. A definite, business-like concrete association was demanded, something that would prevent the causes of trouble and not wait until trouble itself had come to a head.

LOOK TO U. S. FLAG "In all of this the nation was united. With this spirit and purpose, our flag was carried across the seas by the splendid men of our army and navy. The peoples of Europe, too, understood the message. They welcomed the accession of military strength; they knew that the allies would win in the end, but they saw in the American flag the first sign of

CONTINUE U. S. SUGAR HEARING

Witnesses Tell of Matters Connected With Industry in Sevier and Sanpete

SALT LAKE, Sept. 11.—Witnesses in yesterday's hearing of the federal trade commission investigation told principally of matters connected with the sugar industry in Sevier and Sanpete counties and the establishment of the Gunnison Valley Sugar company in territory where the Utah-Idaho Sugar company, a defendant, had previously obtained beets.

Thomas R. Cutler Jr., son of the former general manager of the Utah-Idaho and an engineer for the company, testified regarding the character of the factory at Waverly, Wash., which was acquired by the Gunnison company and erected at the present site at Centerfield in Sanpete county.

Mr. Cutler declared that in 1902 the machinery of the Waverly factory was run down and in poor condition. He further stated that the plant was not modern. His direct examination was conducted by Richard W. Young, of counsel for the Utah-Idaho. On cross-examination by Henry Ward Beer, special attorney for the commission, Mr. Cutler was asked what he knew of improvements made in the plant since its acquisition by the Gunnison Valley company, to which the witness replied that he was not aware of what had been done with the machinery since its acquisition.

Mr. Young testified that he is related to Mr. Ross by marriage, and has been a lifelong acquaintance. He was questioned at length concerning conversations with Mr. Ross to which the latter had testified for the government in the spring.

The witness told of having been asked by Mr. Ross his opinion of the opportunity for the Gunnison Valley company when the factory was in the course of erection. At that time, Mr. Young said, he told Mr. Ross that "some of those people did not have a good reputation," and that "some of them were apostates and Mormon-converts," referring to some of the directors of the Gunnison company.

When asked to name whom he meant by those remarks, Mr. Young made specific mention of O. P. Berglund.

TAX SESSIONS CLOSE AT S. L.

Z. W. Bliss, Former Governor of Rhode Island Named President

SALT LAKE, Sept. 11.—With election of officers for the ensuing year the National Tax association closed its convention here yesterday. Zenas W. Bliss, former governor of Rhode Island and new chairman of the board of tax commissioners, has been appointed president of the association. He was formerly vice president and that position was filled by Samuel Lord of the Minnesota tax commission.

Alfred E. Holcomb was again elected secretary and treasurer of the association. The elections were made on the report of the nominating committee, and were without opposition. Charles J. Busch of Harvard university, chairman of the committee on a model tax system, that William Bailey, secretary of the Utah state board of equalization, has been appointed member of that committee. Mr. Bailey said that he considered this a greater honor than to be placed in the year of the presidency of the association.

His duties on the committee will involve spending about two weeks during the winter sessions of the committee usually held at some Atlantic coast city, when the committee members enter into a series of sessions discussing problems that have come up during the year at the tax conference or elsewhere, and attempting to arrive at some practicable solution that will be applicable in the several states.

IDAHO TO KILL WEEVIL IN FUMIGATING PLANT

POCATELLO, Sept. 11.—The erection of fumigating plants at the three centers of the state are being considered by state horticulturists as a means of eliminating alfalfa weevil in alfalfa hay shipped from the state. The plants, probably be built at Huntington, Pocatello and Sandpoint. It is believed that such plants would protect not only the Idaho growers from purchasing weevil-infested hay, but would insure weevil-free hay for outside states who purchase hay from Idaho.

SALT LAKERS PROTEST SPEEDING TOWARD OGDEN

SALT LAKE, Sept. 11.—"Ogden in five minutes," is getting to be the popular slogan of motorists who travel the newly paved section of Second West street en route to Ogden, according to a petition directed to Arthur F. Barnes, commissioner of public safety, by the board of governors of the Third Ward Civic Improvement association. The petition asks for the appointment of a motorcycle officer to patrol the street between South Temple and Ninth South streets. Motorists are using the street, the petition recites as a speedway, and do not wait until they are out of town to do their speeding. The petition is prepared in behalf of a large number of citizens of the district who feel that the fast driving indulged in by motorists endangers the safety of others.

Rice Freed of Murder Charge at Hearing

SALT LAKE, Sept. 11.—E. C. Rice, who shot E. A. Meyer to death at the Toy hotel on the afternoon of September 2, was discharged last night at the conclusion of his preliminary hearing. The hearing was before City Judge Henry C. Lund, who found that the killing had been committed in self defense.

On the witness stand, Rice related the circumstances of the fatal shooting. The men quarreled two hours prior to the affair. At 4 o'clock he returned to his room at the hotel and Meyer was seated just within the door. When Rice appeared, Meyer sprang at him, shouting he would kill him. Rice said he backed out of the room, holding the door shut with both hands, then with his left hand while he drew his pistol. Meyer, he said, succeeded in opening the door and had a pistol aimed at him. Rice fired the fatal shot which entered Meyer's brain under the left eye and entered his brain.
