ITALIAN WORKERS DEMAND CONTROL

URGES BUDGET COMMISSIONER FOR EXECUTIVE

Democratic Nominee Amazed At West's Reclamation of Once Waste Sands

FAVORS DEVELOPMENT OF ALASKAN TERRITORY

Must Apply Business Principles To Federal Government, He Says

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 13.—Outlining details of his financial policy, which includes proposals for a budget commissioner to act as an executive assistant to the president and declaring the need for constructive measures for the development of Alaska, Governor James M. Cox delivered an address today here at noon.

AMAZED AT RECLAMATION.

"I have been amazed at the results achieved in our irrigation and reclamation projects, some of which I have seen for the first time in my pilgrimage to the western coast, and I am appalled by the thought that selfish partisanship in the United States Senate, holding up by the heels the civilization of the world, would make it necessary for us to continue the building of big arguments when the judgment which will come under reactionary guidance, Governor Cox said.

ALASKAN DEVELOPMENT.

"And this brings us to consideration of one of the greatest immediate business potentialities in the development of the great territory to the north of us. The time has come to take the restraints off of Alaska and permit the development of her resources. This should be done under government supervision, in a way which will guarantee the benefits of that great domain to the American public and insure for them against the possibility of any portion of those resources by selfish and sinister interests.

POPULATION DECREASED.

"It is appalling to think that the population of Alaska today has decreased in great percentage from that of five years ago, in the face of the construction of the government railroads which should have been the means of aiding development. Something is radically wrong with our treatment of the territory and that wrong must be remedied. I am not so sure that the public domain of Alaska offers the means in some measure of the government's payment of its debt to the people as is contained in the world's war well-planned program of development of Alaska should go hand in hand with the reopening of our western gateway of commerce.

MUST CORRECT ERRORS.

"The demand of our country for the necessity for departmental addition and extension at Washington. We must see to it at once that the failure of the last congress is remedied as quickly as possible by the return of a peace-time basis and correction of long-existing errors. Not only must we junk the machinery that came with war, but we must also junk the burdensome war taxes and definitely reduce the cost of government in normal times. The administration of government functions must be put upon an economical and efficient basis. Throughout my public life I have been interested in the organization and administration of great activities along approved business lines, or in other words, in securing the maximum of effectiveness with the minimum of expense, and I am convinced from my own personal experience, as well as the experience of other states, that it can be done. We have applied business principles to all our other collective activities in a social and industrial life. There is no reason why they cannot be applied to the federal administration if we sincerely set our minds and consciences to the task.

NEED BUDGET SYSTEM.

"Our pre-war experience had already shown the necessity for adopting the budget system as the basis of our business, and our experience during the war demonstrated that we should not longer delay in applying it to the national government, and also showed that a business organization and administration of the federal departments and bureaus is imperative.

THREE BROTHERS IN ACCIDENT MEET DEATH

Fireman and Engineer Perish At Post of Duty When Crash Comes

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo., Sept. 13.—Five men were killed early yesterday when westbound Rio Grande passenger train No. 1 was struck by a landslide near Debeque, Colo. Reports yesterday gave the death list as two.

George L. Hardenburg, engineer, and Charles N. Schwimmer, fireman, Grand Junction, Floyd, 17, Ralph, 19 and Lawrence Brantley, 21, brothers, Glenwood Springs, Colo.

The engine, tender, baggage and mail cars and two coaches left the track. The mail clerk, express messenger and several passengers were injured but not seriously.

The dead are: George Hardenburg, engineer, and Charles N. Schwimmer, fireman, both of this city.

Hager was brought to a local hospital where physicians say he will die. He is about 23 years old.

The accident happened at Nigger Hill, a great oil shale mountain about 42 miles east of here. It started to slide just as the train was passing early Sunday morning and hundreds of tons of rock and dirt are piled on the track. The mountain-side was still sliding last night. Boulder-sized rocks were reported to be crashing down the hillsides, bringing much loose dirt with them.

Railroad officials here said that if the train was not sliding today, workmen will start clearing the track at once, but that at least a week or ten days will be required to complete the task.
