

FARMER-LABOR PARTY HOPEFUL

Press Committee Reports Outlook Promising; Old Parties Help, Claim

Through F. H. Mullin of the publicity committee, the Farmer-Labor party of Ogden issues the following statement on the situation with relation to the party:

Reports from various parts of the United States are very encouraging for the Farmer-Labor party. While the two old parties are fighting each other, and each day presenting facts to the public which show beyond any doubt that both are playing the same old game, and that big business is financing the two candidates, the Farmer-Labor party is forging ahead. The people need only to investigate the conditions which now exist and which have existed for many years under those who have directed the government to know where the fault lies. We are getting no relief from any source, unless keep working. Promises are being made, as usual, at election time. But can we soon forget the comebacks that were staged at Chicago and San Francisco conventions? Read the Democratic and Republican platforms.

ABOUT PROHIBITION.

Was the small business man, farmer or laborer given any recognition? Was anything said about prohibition? Was any relief offered, or any way shown to abolish profiteering? I would like for all men to read the platform offered by Democrat, Republican and Farmer-Labor parties and use their own judgment as to which party is for the people. Why listen to verbal promises from the nominees? If they cared not write them in their platform, will they keep such promises? The Farmer-Labor party will present names of all candidates in the near future, and I am sure that all will agree that we have selected clean-cut, progressive Americans to represent this locality. We earnestly invite all persons to attend our meetings, to investigate what we stand for. And if we don't meet with your absolute approval, tell us so. We are as a party trying to relieve present conditions, and we ask all to cooperate with us in this move. Don't stand back and criticize, line up and help make this a political party for yourself and all who wish clean, honorable, representative government. You will know your misrepresentation in congress, senate and state offices are playing for big business when they allow present conditions to exist. The economic conditions are to blame for present unrest among the workers, farmers and small business men.

ESSENTIALS OF LIFE.

The four essentials of life are food, fuel, clothing and shelter. Since 1915 the advances in these four essentials have been: Clothing, 294.43 per cent; food, 119.6 per cent; fuel and light, 72.72 per cent; housing, 48.03 per cent.

Before the war, a standard all-wool ready-made man's suit cost $25.00; today the same suit is $45.00. Here are past and present figures:

Cloth, 3 1/2 yards	$ 4.78
Trimming	2.77
Labor	2.50
Factory expense	1.12
Total factory cost	$12.41
Selling and general expense	4.11
Factory profit	1.07
Wholesale price, net	$15.89
Retail price	$25.00
Profit to retailer	9.61

Today's figures for same suit are:

Cloth	$13.00
Trimming	8.58
Labor	8.88
Factory expense	2.80
Total factory cost	$33.35
Selling and general expense	4.32
Factory profit	3.70
Wholesale price net	$41.88
Retail price	$65.00
Profit to retailer	$23.12

Cost of raw wool before the war in $85.00 suit, 57 cents.

Cost of raw wool today in $65.00 suit, $1.64.

Beginning with wool grower until suit is on purchaser's back, labor cost on $65.00 suit is $12.81. Material and overhead costs, $24.44, and the profits, $27.75.

Profit more than double entire labor cost. Since 1915 increased wages have added to cost of suit 19.7 per cent; material and overhead expense $7.8 per cent; profit 42.7 per cent.

Can you beat it?

United States Circuit Judge Julian W. Mack dismissed the indictment against President Wood and the trust, Judge Mack contended that because cloth was not wearing apparel no offense had been committed. He said the Lever act mitigated profiteering to the clothes and not cloths. If such is the case why don't Mr. Palmer, our Democratic president or Republican and Democratic senators stop the profiteering on clothes? This is just one illustration. Read the platforms of all and decide where you can best help yourself.

TROOPS AT MORGAN BUILDING

NEW YORK.—Troops were rushed into the financial district and placed on guard immediately after the blast in Wall street, which damaged the J. P. Morgan company building and the United States subtreasury, killed upwards of 30 persons and injured hundreds. Some of the troops are shown here arriving in Wall street and Broad street. The Morgan building is shown in the background.

BOX ELDER GIRL SEVERELY HURT

Gash From Knee to Neck Received When Auto Runs Into Fence

(Special Dispatch.)

BRIGHAM, Sept. 23.—Riding on the running board of her grandfather's automobile, Mary Neely, 12-year-old Honesville girl, was severely cut by a barbed wire when the car was driven into a fence. The gash extended from her knee to her neck.

Miss Neely, who is the daughter of Ira J. Neely, stayed overnight at the home of a friend. The next morning she started for her home about a half mile distant. G. C. Loveland, her grandfather, happened by in his automobile and stopped for her. The girl mounted the running board but met with difficulty in getting the door of the car open.

Meanwhile her grandfather started the machine. Turning, he saw the girl working with the door and with one hand free tried to help her. He lost control of the automobile and it ran into the fence. The barbed wire tore through the girl's flesh, cutting a gash that extended from her knee to just beneath her chin. Two yards of "gut" were required for the 200 stitches required to close the wound.

Miss Neely was in the Brigham hospital, where she is resting.

Cold Weather Causes Change in Elks' Dance

Owing to the fact that the breath of Old Winter was felt to a marked extent today and to the fact that it might be much cooler this evening, the entertainment committee of 92nd lodge No. 719, B. P. O. Elks, announced today that the dance scheduled for Lorin Farr park tonight will be held in the club rooms on Grant avenue instead.

SET UP TRAFFIC SIGNALS HERE

City Officials Preparing for Enforcing of Ordinance Effective Sunday

With the installation of new traffic safety signals in the business district on Washington avenue, turning of automobiles will be restricted to intersections and at the center of blocks where the new signals are also being placed, according to J. Jay Ward, commissioner of public safety.

The stop sign urges "safety." The new signals are signs placed upon an iron standard which is permanently placed at the intersections and upon them is printed, "Keep to the right." The stop sign urges "safety."

The new signals are being placed in the block centers and on the intersections of Washington avenue in the business district. Motorists are urged to turn their machines around only where the signs are installed. In business sections of the city other than on Washington avenue, motorists are urged to turn their cars only at intersections.

TURN ONLY AT SIGNS.

The new signals will be placed when the new traffic ordinance goes into effect next Sunday, and after that date motorists who turn their cars around at points other than the signals will be arrested and prosecuted, it was said today.

Commissioner Ward issued a warning to motorists that all lights should be tested before Sunday in order that they may get within the law when the ordinance goes into official effect on Sunday. The tests are being made each evening at the station, where a system is in effect which allows hundreds of car owners to go through the tests hourly. With the ordinance in effect Sunday, traffic policemen will watch carefully all motor vehicles which pass through the city streets at night and those who are found to be in violation of the ordinance will be arrested.

The tests will be carried on after Sunday, however, in order that purchase of new cars may determine whether or not their lights are properly focused, and drivers who propose to pass the tests before, but since have had their light re-focused, may again be put to the test.

HARVEY'S MINSTRELS AN EXCELLENT SHOW PLAYING FOR $1

With Frank Kirk, "Slim Jim" Austin, Irvy Richardson, Harry Fiddler and Leland Colman, the comedy end of the Harvey Greater Minstrels, would be superior to other minstrel shows, which are playing in Ogden next Sunday and Monday nights.

After all, there cannot be too much comedy in a minstrel, provided, of course, it is clean cut and of an irresistible kind.

Manager Harvey is justly proud of all talent he has secured, and although it is expensive to pay high salaries to so many clever people, yet, it is a lot of satisfaction to the manager to feel assured that no matter where the Harvey Greater Minstrels play, it is going to please the patrons.

However, none of the above caterers of experts are funnier than Frank Kirk as he is playing the banjo and singing with a lighted cigar in his lips, that he apparently swallows the cigar and continues to sing as smoke pours forth from his mouth-like lava from a volcano.

Kirk's performance is clever, but likewise is the work of Alonzo Moore, the man of mystery, the four old and dancing, and wonderful work of Edwards and Edwards on the wire.

No Trace Found of Stolen Automobile

No trace of the new touring car which was stolen from the garage of the Pacific Nash Motor company early Wednesday morning has yet been found, although officers in all parts of the state have been notified to join in the hunt for the thieves, officials of the automobile company said today.

The theft was discovered by the watchman about 5:30 o'clock yesterday morning and it is believed that the car had been taken not more than one hour before that time.

The car was new and had been run but a few miles for demonstrating purposes. It had been newly equipped with five cord tires, spotlight and motorometer. A number plate carried the dealer number 159.

MOTHER WOLF'S DUTY.

CODY, Wyo., Sept. 21.—A mother wolf's duty to her offspring is to teach them as soon as they are old enough the art of hamstringing cattle, according to Luther Zing, a Clearmont rancher.

Zing recently surprised a wolf teaching eight half-grown pups how to get fresh meat for food. Zing roped two of the pups. Several head of cattle had been bitten. The wolf's den was found but the she-wolf had removed her young to another place.

Most of the coal used in Argentina is required for the railways and industrial establishments.

CARLISLE DOES NEEDLEWORK

RAWLINS, Wyo., Sept. 21.—Artistic embroidery work as an occupation for his chest, robber may sound unusual, but it is bringing to William L. Carlisle, whose exploits following his robbery of a Union Pacific train filled the columns of newspapers for days, an income which allows him to pursue studies in prison.

Carlisle still suffers from a wound in his chest, received at the time of his capture and is unable to do heavy manual work.

Democrats About Ready To Quit Cold Through Lack of Funds, Is Claim

By MARK SULLIVAN

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The financial condition of the Democratic National headquarters here could be described in terms that would be sensational if one chose to treat it in that way. It is a fact that within the past two weeks at a full meeting of the National Finance committee a proposal was seriously considered to close the doors of the Democratic National headquarters and quit.

The same proposal has been repeated within the past few days and is still advocated by some among the party managers who are most astute and have the best political sense.

There is much to commend the idea, it would serve notice on those who believe in the league of nations that if they wish their cause to have anything like a decent show in the coming election it is up to them to do the necessary work. Such a move would throw the responsibility of the campaign on Professor Irving Fisher's recently organized league of independent voters and on similar organizations. If the friends of the league of nations were made aware that the responsibility is on them they might do something at least. As things are now substantially nothing is being done. As things stand today, substantially the whole burden of the Democratic campaign and of the league of nations rests squarely on the shoulders of one man.

That man is Governor Cox. What comes out of his mouth is practically the whole of what is being done, to elect him. It would be an exaggeration of course to say that the campaign for the Democratic party and the league of nations is limited by the distance Governor Cox can throw his voice, for the newspaper campaign at least a few of his words throughout the country. But it is true that Governor Cox's brain and personality and voice constitutes practically all there is of the Democratic campaign.

From any point of view, that is a pity. I don't know any one even the most hardened Republicans who doesn't feel that Governor Cox is making a gallant personal campaign. Even those who most deplore some of the things that Governor Cox under the pressure of carrying the whole burden of the campaign has said and done nevertheless have a sportsman-like feeling that the candidate is entitled to the help that in past campaigns has always been given to the candidates by the party organization.

MUCH RECRIMINATION

Whenever a condition like this exists there are a multitude of explanations and they always include a good deal of recrimination. There is recrimination now. So far as this recrimination is directed at individuals in the Democratic National headquarters it is nearly all unjust. Chairman George White is an able man and his voice is a man of exceptional character and political sense. Chairman White is every bit as able as Vance McCormick who ran the 1916 campaign or William F. McCormack who ran the 1912 campaign. If things happen to be going as well now as they were in 1916 and 1912 every body would be saying that Chairman White is a wonder. Chairman White has all the ability that is called for except the ability to carry money out of empty pockets. The National committee has good plans. I am familiar with them and know them to be good but they can't be carried out effectively because there is no money. There are men here in New York, who are ready to go to work and go because they have no money to pay their railroad fare. If one were free to tell some of the things that are happening because of the lack of money they would sound sensational.

What is the reason for the emptiness of the Democratic treasury? It isn't because there are not plenty of Democrats and plenty of willingness to give in reasonable proportion to their means. But the national committee has no mechanism for collecting the money. At least it has no machinery for collecting small sums over a wide spread area. There was such a mechanism but it was discontinued. A good deal of the difficulty is due to the change in the personnel of the party organization that attended Cox's nomination. When the forces that nominated Cox came east from the San Francisco convention they were a little too much in the flush of victory. They wanted to make a clean sweep of headquarters and put their own men in charge. They got it partly done before Cox became aware of it and put a stop to it.

COX WAS TOO LATE

Cox tried to save the ex-Chairman.

Homer S. Cummings just as he was being deposited but it was too late. Cox did save some of the minor officials but a rift was created by the aggressiveness of the man who named Cox which has never healed. It was too late for the new crowd to build up an effective mechanism for collecting small contributions. The time was too short. Then when they turned to getting large contributions from a few rich Democrats they found that many of these Democrats while willing to give within reason were not disposed to go to the limits that they went for Wilson in 1916 and 1912. Wilson was their man. Cox is the other crowd's man. Undoubtedly, prejudice against Murphy, Nugent and some of the other anti-Wilson bosses who had a hand in naming Cox has chilled these Democrats who are friends of Wilson and McAdoo. McAdoo personally played the game as a loyal party man. He has given a thousand dollars in money. He has written to every delegate who voted for him at San Francisco asking each of them to do his best for Cox. He has presided at a Cox meeting in New York, and he has offered to do three weeks of campaigning. But the friends of Wilson and of McAdoo aren't behind the present campaign in the same way they were behind the campaign of 1916. They can't be expected to be. Wilson's friends provided the energy and enthusiasm for his campaign. Cox's friends must be expected to provide the energy and enthusiasm for this one.
