

National League President to Be Starred on Stand

Heydler States That President Johnson* of American League Was Informed of Supposed "Throwing" of Games After First Game of World Series Was Played Last Season; to Resume Hearings Tuesday

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—President John Heydler of the National League today made public evidence he has gathered in a private investigation of alleged baseball gambling and "game throwing" and at the same time declared that President Comiskey of the Chicago Americans, and Manager Gleason were convinced after the first world series game last year that the series had been "fixed" and sought his aid in making an investigation.

Heydler brought the name of Jean Dubuc, former Detroit American pitcher, into the scandal for the first time and also gave hitherto unrecorded details of the Hal Chase and Lee Magee cases.

Heydler said all of his evidence had been placed at the disposal of President Johnson, but that he did not know whether the latter was making any use of it.

Mr. Heydler quoted J. C. (Rube) Benton, New York National pitcher, as saying that Dubuc was the man who resolved telegrams from Bill Barnum, former major league pitcher, (tippler) fixed that the world series had been fixed and that Benton had received his information from this telegram.

Benton told Heydler he had seen Hal Chase make one bet of $100 on the series, Heydler said.

Discussing the Magee case, Mr. Heydler said he and William Veec, president of the Chicago National League club, had obtained Magee's confession that he had attempted to throw a game and that Magee had shown them a check sent him by Hal Chase but Mr. Heydler refused to say for what amount.

Zimmerman accused, Heydler said, but he would neither confirm nor deny reports that Zimmerman was released by the New York Nationals for this reason. Reports that Zimmerman was suspended a year ago for trying to throw a game and for breaking training as was announced, were not denied by Mr. Heydler.

SOME DIXIE BLOSSOMS

Three Indians, Cuban and 'Bing' Help Give the 'Tabasco Kid' His First Pennant

By DEAN SNYDER
What a long road it has been for the "Tabasco Kid."

Norman Elberfeld has proven that if one wants a thing bad enough to keep trying the ace card eventually shows and you take the trick. He has been in baseball for twenty-eight years, including service as both player and manager of big league and minor league clubs, and he is on his first championship team this fall.

The Little Rock Travelers came across and helped him realize his ambition to boast of championship surlines. Back in 1902 and 1920 he was a crackerjack shortstop for the Detroit club. Then he went up to the New York Americans, where he served both as player and pilot.

He has always been of a fighting temperament. That's how he kept the spy name of the "Tabasco Kid." Elberfeld has been fined more money and spent more time out of the game for infraction of rules—mostly fighting umpires—than any ball player or manager ever in the minors.

For this reason he is always a good drawing card, for fans know they will either see his fight or some nifty umpire baiting if the Kid is on the job. This year he played only a few games when he was pinched for substitutes. Up to this season he has worked regularly.

DEVELOPS PLAYERS
But, for all that, the "Tabasco Kid" is a great developer of ball players, particularly infielders and pitchers. The past year has added a court battle to his long list of baseball pugilism. He fought tooth and nail in the courts to get the services of the two Pacific coast outlaws, Seaton and Smith, but lost. His opinion was that the pair had not gotten a square deal on the coast.

His 1920 pennant winners are made up of players of many nationalities. Among them are a trio of Indians and a Cuban. But they played pennant ball. That's what suited the "Kid."

"BING'S" CASE
He turned out one "Babe Ruth" slugger in "Bing" Miller. They used to say "Bing" had some Indian blood in his veins, but he denies it. It looks like Miller was going to be the subject of one of those winter court melodramas.

Clark Griffith of the Washington Americans made a deal for him, trading a pair of players in the bargain, but it didn't pan out.

Look who helped win the first pennant Norman Elberfeld ever set eyes on and could call his own after 23 years in baseball! Moses Yellowhorse and Chief Wano are Oklahoma Indians. Calvo is a Cuban. They used to call "Bing" Miller an Indian, but he isn't. "Bing" looks like one, though. And, oh, how he can sock! He uses the same English one he has that mad "B-be" Ruth a Broadway star. The picture of the "Tabasco Kid" himself was taken when the little scrapper was taking an enforced vacation in the grandstand after a bout with the umpires.

The Pittsburgh Pirates took a hand and paid a reported price of $100,000 for the Little Rock slugger. Griffith has announced his intentions of going to court over the possession of the Dixie star.

ANOTHER BENDER
The three Indians are Moses Yellowhorse, Tony Brotten and Chief Wano, Yellowhorse, star pitcher of the Dixie circuit, has also been gobbled up by the Pirates. Gibson sees in him another Chief Bender. Yellowhorse is a full-blooded Pawnee Indian. He won twenty-one games and lost but 7, and this is his first year in professional baseball.

Wano came to the Travelers as a first baseman out of him and did a good job of it. He is also an Oklahoma Indian. The big chief is a trick base-runner and very fast on his feet. Brotten, the third redskin, is a catcher. The Pirates have annexed him to pair with Yellowhorse.

The Cuban, Calvo, is an outfielder. He can hit and has a reputation of being one of the fastest men on bases in the league. They're a great bunch—these pennant-winning Travelers—with their many nationalities. But they had the stride to come in under the wire in a hot finish. And the "Tabasco Kid" supplied the wisdom and the old ginger that made them hit on all cylinders.

TEAMS ENTER IN FINAL HEATS OF GONFALON RACES
NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The last week of the major league pennant races began today with Cleveland and Chicago running almost neck and neck in the American League while Brooklyn's victory over New York today makes it necessary for the Superbas to win only one more game to assure their first place.

The Cleveland Americans retained their half game advantage over Chicago when both teams won today. The Indians have seven games to play, three with the St. Louis and four with Detroit while the White Sox have only four contests, one with Detroit and three with St. Louis. To keep in first place, Cleveland must win one more game than Chicago does. The Yankees are three games behind Cleveland.

In the National League Brooklyn increased its lead to five games and has only to win one of its three games with New York or the game with Boston next Sunday. One defeat will put the Giants out of the race. The Cincinnati world's champions were eliminated last week as a contender for first place.

PRIZE BULLDOG USED TO GUARD STILL PROVES 'N. G.'

(By International News Service)
FUEBLO, Colo.—Because his bulldog had the reputation of being a first-class "guard" for his owner, Max Green is under arrest here charged with violating the prohibition law.

Green formerly lived in Denver, where he and the bulldog were well known to the police and enforcement officers.

"Whoever Green's dog is there's a still," was the word passed around in official circles in Denver. Special Agent John H. Smith, of the Denver enforcement squad, was on business here. Passing a house in the residential section he noticed the famous bulldog in the yard. Without hesitation he secured a search warrant for the premises and was rewarded by the discovery of a still of the latest design, numerous testing instruments, 100 pounds of sugar, 500 gallons of "mash," and fifteen gallons of high proof whisky.

HERE'S ONE REASON.
CINCINNATI—Sherry Magee, of last year's world champion Reds, says that the team is not fighting like it was last season. He says that he and Jimmy Smith used to sit on the bench and make the players so mad they could play good baseball.

HE'S INDEPENDENT.
SEATTLE, Wash.—Last year Clyde Wares sought the job of managing the Seattle ball club. He'll let the job rest for this year. Wares' success with the Siwash has been phenomenal.

Look Out for Rheumatism as Winter Approaches

If you have had the disease for any length of time, you have doubtless resorted to the misleading treatment of liniments and lotions, in an effort to get relief from its torturing pains. But you want more than mere temporary relief. You want to be freed from the shackles of a disease that will bind you hand and foot.

So many cases of Rheumatism come from a tiny disease germ that infests the blood, that physicians are beginning to realize that this source of the disease is becoming quite prevalent. Of course a disease that has its source in the blood cannot be reached by local remedies applied to the surface.
