ARMORY DRIVE IS PROGRESSING

Favorable Responses Being Made By Businessmen Of City

The $10,000 fund which will bring to Ogdan a magnificent armory building, is assured if the present drive continues as satisfactorily as during the past week, according to Mayor Frank Pratt. Business men of the city have shown keen desire to bring the building to Ogdan, Mayor Pratt said, and so far every man approached has contributed the amount set opposite his name on the list.

Practically one-half of the entire amount has now been pledged, it was said this morning, and still many prospects remain, who have not been visited by the drive committee members. Assurance that the $10,000 total will be gained within the week, providing the business men continue to contribute as during the past few days, was had today, it was said.

Mayor Francis stated that the men of the city are beginning to realize and understand the value of such a structure to the city and are now determined to put the drive through to success.

The proposed armory will be constructed by the state at a total cost of more than $100,000. When the structure is completed, the government will equip and furnish the building with expenditures approximating $250,000. In future years the government will maintain the structure and equipment wholly with government funds, and it is believed that the money now being contributed by merchants will be returned within a few years.

An auditorium which will seat 2,000 persons will be included in the armory building and will be at the disposal of the city or any organizations for meeting purposes. A swimming pool and gymnasium will also be maintained for members of the national guard.

In order to bring the building to Ogdan it is but necessary that the building site be provided and this amount is now being raised. The ground will cost $10,000 and is situated on Twenty-third street, just east of Washington avenue.

The petition was discussed by the chamber and it was decided to refer it to Manager A. F. Merrill of the power company.

A copy of the petition follows: Chamber of Commerce, Ogdan, Utah, Gentlemen:

We, the undersigned officers and members of the Ogdan Civic League, respectfully represent that we were authorized as a committee of the Ogdan Civic League to solicit the cooperation of your organization in the matter of taking some action in requesting the Utah Power & Light company to furnish gas to the patrons in Ogdan City of a better quality and with sufficient pressure to render reasonable adequate service to consumers.

FEAR GAMBLERS IN COMING SERIES

Reports That Superbas Were Approached With Bribes Is Being Probed

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—District Attorney Lewis of King's county, announced today he would start an immediate investigation of a report that a clique of gamblers plan to bribe members of the Brooklyn Nations purports to lose games to their American league opponents in the coming world's series.

In a telegram to State's Attorney Maclay Hoyle, of Chicago, where a grand jury investigating charges that the 1919 series was fixed, has indicted eight White Sox players. Mr. Lewis said he was acting on the following statement appearing in a New York evening paper yesterday:

"Information which has been gathered by officials tended to indicate that the same clique of gamblers which is alleged to have fixed the 1919 series have made plans to have Brooklyn 'throw' the coming series to the Cleveland Indians."

After sending his telegram to Chicago, Mr. Lewis telephoned Charles L. Ebbetts, president of the Brooklyn club, to have all members of the team call at his office in order that he might question each personally.

While it was stated that club officials had no direct evidence of attempts to bribe Brooklyn players, Mr. Ebbetts told the district attorney that if any were concerned he would suspend them at once.

More Physical Training Needed

WASHINGTON—E. Dana Callins, who is manager of the National Physical Education Service, declares that neither the league nor the dry law are the big issues now—that the main issue is the House-Clapp bill providing for an appropriation of $10,000,000 to help the states give every child a fair chance for health and normal physical development. His job is to help public officials provide for adequate physical education, play grounds and recreation centers.

TELLS OF BOYS' TRAINING WORK

Thomas Horn, Former Ogdanite, Talks to Rotarians on Chehalis Institution

Thomas Horn, former Ogdan High school football player and later a teacher in the Ogdan high school, is visiting friends and relatives in Ogdan after an absence of ten years.

"The training school at Chehalis, Wash., is a reformatory in being forgotten in Washington for the older boys. We take care of the smaller boys at Chehalis."

"Our policy is to conduct the institution as though it were a regular educational institution. The idea that it is a reformatory is being forgotten. This policy is bringing fine results. Formerly a boy endeavored to hide from the world that he had come from our institution. Recently I have had half a dozen of our former boys refer prospective employers to the institution and to myself as references when applying for work."

Mr. Horn is head of a training school for boys at Chehalis, Wash., and declares he is very well pleased with his opportunity to work in a movement in which he is greatly interested.

The training school at Chehalis is an institution similar to the industrial school in Ogdan," he said. "There is a reformatory in Washington for the older boys. We take care of the smaller boys at Chehalis."

know how after that first ball. But I lost because I was hit, not because I was throwing the game."

JACKSON AFRAID. Joe Jackson described his confession to the grand jury as follows: "I heard I had been indicted. I decided these men could not put anything on me. I called up Judge McDonald and told him I was an honest man. He said, 'I know you are not,' and hung up the receiver. "I figured somebody had squawked on me and that the place for me was the ground floor. I went over to tell him what I knew. I got in there and said I got $5000 and told them I had been promised $25,000. Lefty Williams gave it to me in a dirty envelope. I told this to Judge McDonald."

He said that he did not care what he got for what I ought to get for crapping the game of the kids. I wouldn't be telling him my story. I don't think the judge likes me."

RIBBEG THREATENS. "Before we broke up, I climbed Gandil and McMullin and Ribbeg about it. They said you poor simp, you got beat and squawk. We'll all say you're a liar. You're out of luck. Some of the boys were promised more than you and didn't get as much."

"And I'm giving you a tip. A lot of these sporting writers have been saying the third game of the series was on the square. The eight of us annual reunion of the Thirty-fifth division closed here last night with the street carnival, parade and patriotic celebration in which citizens joined with the veterans."

The 1921 convention will be held me when I went to the shipyards, but I don't care what happens now. I'm not going to get far from my protectors until this blows over."

Exclusion of Japanese Is Urged by Vets

Other outstanding features of the report adopted were:

Urging a congressional study of labor needs of Hawaii in view of the need for adequate supply with Japanese immigration cut off.

Commending the work of the department and demanding that citizen labor on federal work.

Urging that colleges give entrance credit for work in American history and civil government and that these subjects be taught in elementary and high schools and required for graduation.

Senator Reed had declared the Armenians were more brutal than the Turks — "when they got the upper hand."

Captain W. P. MacLean, a veteran, and now head of the Kansas Industrial School for Boys, attempted to intercept the man and in the struggle that ensued when the captain attempted to put him off the grounds, struck the stranger in the face. The man ran, the captain pursuing and kicking him for a distance of two blocks.
