

Members of White Sox Endeavored to Throw Games Says J. Collins

Star First Sacker States That Risberg, Felsch and Jackson "Laid" Down on Recent Eastern Trip; Risberg Formerly Played With Ogdan Club; Other Startling Disclosures Made at Investigation Hearings Now Being Staged by Grand Jury

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—Charges that some of the same players who are accused of "throwing" the world's series to Cincinnati last year have used their efforts to prevent the White Sox from becoming pennant winners this season, were made today by several members of the Chicago White Sox, who have not been mentioned in the grand jury testimony.

One player, who refused to allow his name to be used, made the following statement: "When we started on our last eastern trip we had every reason to believe we would win the pennant. Suddenly Williams and Cicotte seemed to go bad without any reason. Some of us talked it over and agreed it looked like they were grooving the ball."

Then Jackson, Felsch and Risberg began dumping the ball to the infield every time they came to bat when we had a chance to get runs.

"We thought at first they might be in a battling slump. But when some of us compared notes regarding the pitching and hitting we became more than suspicious."

"It may as well be stated that some of us believed ever since the last world's series that we were sold by Cicotte and others."

"Well, when the same men we suspected crossing us at that time began to go bad on the last eastern trip we decided there must have been another sell out. However we have never been able to prove this."

"Had we played anything like our regular games we would have come home with the pennant clinched. We all hope the grand jury will look into the end of the affair. If it fails to act we may take some action ourselves, if we can get hold of the players who we feel sure did the cheating."

John Collins, veteran first baseman of the White Sox said: "We are sorry in a way for the fellows who are caught in this jam, but we are glad everything is going to be shown up."

"We suspected some of them in the world series and we suspected them again because of the way they played on the last eastern trip," said Collins.

"Some of them not only didn't try, but acted as though they didn't want to win. I have no idea what influenced their actions."

SOMETHING WRONG
Red Faber, veteran pitcher, who carried his club to victory in the 1917 world series, said the playing of the Sox on the eastern trip was something that he believed something was crooked.

"It looks like we were double-crossed in the world series last year and in the pennant race this year, but we are not through yet."

"We will go to St. Louis with a ball team on which every man will be trying to do his best to get into the world series."

"If we land we will be sure of one thing—we will not have a Judas on the team when we go into the big series."

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Abe Attell former featherweight champion, who has been named as a ring leader in the baseball gambling scandal, said here tonight that he had retained a lawyer to take care of his interests and that in a day or two he would make a statement that would "shoot the lid sky high."

"You can say," he said, "that the story placing the responsibility upon me for passing the $100,000 to the White Sox is a lie. It looks to me that Arnold Rothstein is behind the stories and I am surprised at this because I have been a good friend of Rothstein."

"He is simply trying to pass the buck to me. It won't go."

"You can see that some one is trying to make it appear that I was responsible for the deal at the Astor. Well I can tell you that I was not responsible for it. Maharg's story of the fake telegrams and all the rest, as far as I am concerned is all bunk."

Following are the trying records of the eight players indicted by the grand jury:

Edward V. Cicotte, pitcher. Born in Detroit in 1884. Played his first professional baseball game when 20 years old with Sault Ste Marie. Sent to the Southern League, bought by Detroit and sent back to the minors. Bought by Boston Americans and sold to Chicago in 1912. Married. Lives in Detroit.

Claude Williams, pitcher. Born in 1893 in Aurora, Mo. Broke into professional baseball in 1912 with Nashville Southern League team. Given tryout by Detroit and sent to Salt Lake.

Purchased by Chicago in 1916. Married. Lives in Atlanta, Ga.

Charles A. Risberg, shortstop. Born in San Francisco in 1894. Played first professional baseball with Vernon Coast League club. Bought by the White Sox in 1916. Married. Lives in San Francisco.

George A. Weaver, third baseman. Born at Stowe, Pa. Twenty-nine years old. Started his baseball career at Northampton, Mass., in 1911. Was farmed to San Francisco and recalled in 1912. Married and lives in Chicago.

Fred McMullin, utility infielder. Twenty-nine years old, born in Scammon, Kan. Played with Seattle and later with Los Angeles, from which club he was obtained by the White Sox in 1912. Married and lives in Los Angeles.

Joseph Jackson, outfielder. Born in Greenville, S. C., in 1887. Started playing ball there and made his major league debut with Cleveland. After starring there for several years he was obtained by Chicago in 1915 for pitcher Klopfer. Outfielder Roth and Ahlborn. Married. Lives in Savannah, Ga.

Oscar Felsch, outfielder. Born in Milwaukee in 1891. Began playing ball professionally at Fond du Lac, Wis., in 1912. Then went to Milwaukee in the American association and was bought by Chicago in 1914. Home in Milwaukee. Married.

Arnold Gandil, first baseman. Born in St. Paul in 1889. Broke into professional baseball in Shreveport, La., in 1908. Played with Sacramento Coast League until bought by Washington in 1914, sold by Washington to Cleveland in 1916, and then sold to Chicago in 1919.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28.—Billy Maharg the former boxer, who last night made sensational disclosures regarding the "fixing" of world series in 1919, tonight accepted the invitation of Charles Comiskey, president of the Chicago White Sox, to testify at Chicago in a telegram addressed to Comiskey at Chicago, Maharg says.

"I accept your offer to tell what I know about the crooked world series of 1919 and will go to Chicago and testify," Maharg said. "I have a check for $10,000 with Harry Woodruff, sport editor of the Chicago Tribune to be turned over to me after I testify. Please answer."

CHAS. RAY INVENTS NON-SKID DEVICE IN 'HOMER COMES HOME'

But Youthful Star's Scheme Has Disastrous Try-out on His Boss's Machine

Charles Ray is again an amateur inventor in "Homer Comes Home," his latest lingo offering, which will be the feature attraction at the Alhambra theatre tomorrow, Friday and Saturday.

You remember how in "Greased Lightning" Charles evolved a home-made automobile that was the joke of the village, but which vindicated its owner in the pinch.

The latest invention has to do with motor cars too. But this time it is a non-skid arrangement that you fasten onto the back of your machine when it rains. Charlie, as a worker, in a small town garage, tries the invention out on his employer's car.

The boss, all togged out in his dress clothes and high hat, is on his way to a big party and Charlie is driving. It is raining pitchforks. All goes well until within a few feet of the score of the festivities—Zowie! The car spins around like a top, the boss's clothes are ruined, and Charlie is fired on the spot.

But that's just the start of the number of exciting and humorous adventures which Mr. Ray fills with his usual charm. "Homer Comes Home" was produced by Thomas H. Ince and directed by Jerome Storm for Paramount Artcraft release. Priscilla Bonner and Otto Hoffman are in the cast.

FREE TRADE OF WORLD IS URGED

International Financial Conference Told U. S. Will Not Aid Europe Further

BRUSSELS, Sept. 29.—Freedom of world trade is the most essential condition for the increase of production which must bring about economic restoration of the world, in the opinion of Kogme Mori, Japanese minister in London, whose views have been laid before the International Finance conference, in session here. This involves complete elimination of restrictions on both imports and exports, especially those applying to raw materials, he says.

GERMANY IMPROVING.
During yesterday's session, Herr Bergmann, representing Germany, summarized the official statement from Berlin which has been laid before the conference. He expressed the thanks of his government to the league of nations for having extended an invitation to be represented at the conference and concluded by saying:

"In spite of the present difficult situation, we do not consider the financial prospects of Germany desperate. The people there are gradually finding their way back to order, and willingness to work is reviving everywhere in the Empire."

AID FROM AMERICA.
Europe need expect no further help from the United States, the conference was informed by Roland W. Boyden, unofficial American representative, during a speech which rather startled the assembly. Jealousy and lack of harmony between European nations have resulted in a feeling that Europe cannot be considered a "good risk," he declared, adding that his hostility must be ended before American policy might be expected to change.

"I have been particularly cautioned with respect to expressions of opinion, and I want it to be understood I am giving my own personal views without in any way representing any government," asserted Mr. Boyden.

As to the possibility for further aid and credit from America to the European states, Mr. Boyden referred the delegates to a letter of former Secretary of the Treasury Glass on that subject, which is embodied in the American report to the conference. The letter, which was also read by the representative of President Wilson's view.

GIVES AMERICA'S VIEWS.
"The relations between the United States and Europe must be treated in an ordinary business way," he continued. "American justice and confidence in Europe in the same measure as they see Europe doing its best for itself. At the present time, it is declared, with emphasis, 'Americans find it impossible to look upon Europe as a good business risk.'"

The speaker referred to the jealousy and lack of harmony among the European states, and the possibility of their doing business together, and said:

"If Americans see an end to all this hostility we will see a change in the American policy toward Europe." President Ador thanked Mr. Boyden and said that the conference could not be considered international if the United States had not been represented.

MEN GO TO PRISON FIVE HOURS AFTER ATTEMPT ON BANK

EMPORIA, Kans., Sept. 29.—Five hours after they had attempted to hold up Thomas Kelly, cashier of the Neosho Rapids, Kans. state bank today, two men, who gave their names as "Jones" and "Smith," were on the way to the state penitentiary to serve indeterminate sentences of ten to twenty years each.

The attempted robbery took place at 7 a. m. when Cashier Kelly arrived at the bank. They were arrested at 9 o'clock, taken into court and sentenced at 11 o'clock and at noon started for the penitentiary.

"KING SPRUCE" WITH MITCHELL LEWIS AT OGDEN TOMORROW

As Tom Moore knew every nook and cranny of Ireland, so does Holman Day, the noted author, know Maine, the locale of most of his popular novels.

Though a resident of the city, Mr. Day is familiar with the backwoods country and the peculiar folk that inhabit it. It is they he visualized in the greatest of his novels, "King Spruce," the pictorialization of which starring Mitchell Lewis is the special attraction tomorrow at the Ogdan theatre.

The author has peeped his way into some of the quaintest characters ever seen on the screen, typified by the Maine lumber belt impersonated by artists, who make them appear lifelike in the picture session, and Mr. Day's hero, Dwight Wade, is a perfect fit for Mitchell Lewis, the peer of delineators of rugged types.

Besides "King Spruce" Mr. Day is the author of "The Ramrodder," "The Red Lane," "Squire Phin," "The Landlubber" and "Kavanaugh's Care." He is also sponsor for "Along Came Ruth," one of the outstanding dramatic successes of 1919.

PARLEY P. HAS BRIGHT HOPES

Predicts Farmer-Laborites Will Be Major Party in 1924 Campaign

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—The prediction that the Farmer-Labor party will win presidential elections in several states this year and that in 1924 it would be the major political party was made by Parley P. Christensen, the party's candidate for president in an address here.

"When I say that the Farmer-Labor party is a democratic movement to destroy class government," Mr. Christensen said, "some persons think it is a joke. But I assure you it is no joke to the farmers and miners in the middle west. The party is not a new idea. It represents a movement that is developing all over the world and known as industrial democracy. It has made great progress in Canada, Great Britain, New Zealand and Australia. When property rights and human rights clash, property rights must yield. This is not a Bolshevik movement. Here in America we do things the American way."

CLASH IN COLORADO.
DENVER, Colo., Sept. 29.—Several of the Farmer-Labor candidates were nominated on the Democratic ticket at the primary election two weeks ago. A number of them have announced that they will not accept the Farmer-Labor nomination. The slate named for governor, James Collins, who was nominated by the Democrats and who has announced he will not accept the Farmer-Labor nomination.

WAR ASSISTANT TERMED RADICAL JAP OWNERSHIP HELD A MENACE

Former Red Cross Agent and U. S. Employee Is Detained At Ellis Island

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Nicholas Ceglinsky, American Red Cross agent and an employee of the committee on public information during the war, is being held at Ellis Island pending investigation of his alleged connections with radical and communist elements in this country and Europe. Ceglinsky arrived Saturday on the Mauretania.

Ellis Island officials say Ceglinsky, in testimony given before a board of special inquiry, admitted that at one time he was a friend of Miroslav Ditchinsky, former editor of Robitnik, a radical publication in Cleveland. He is alleged also to have admitted that he was also an editor of Robitnik, but that he had quit the staff because he could not share the Bolshevik and radical tendencies of his associates.

He testified, officials said, that Ditchinsky killed Count Andros P. P. Salscia in 1908 and was convicted and sentenced to death but that the sentence was commuted to twenty years imprisonment and Ditchinsky later escaped, fleeing to this country. "He then became the editor of Robitnik a Socialist organ which turned Bolshevik," Ceglinsky testified, it was stated.

While an editor of Robitnik, Ceglinsky declared he never wrote an article defamatory of the constitution of the United States and offered to produce copies of the publication in proof of his assertions.

Ceglinsky said he is a member of the Ukrainian federation in the United States. He attributed his detention to his former associates declaring a $25,000 damage suit be filed against them for their utterances in pending in New Jersey courts.

SAYS T. R. DREW PLANS FOR LEAGUE OF NATIONS

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Sept. 29.—Francis J. Heney, of Santa Monica, Calif., in an address here last night on the league of nations, criticized United States Senator Hiram W. Johnson for opposing the league covenant, and declared the senator had made an appeal to the most selfish instincts of humanity.

Mr. Heney declared the plan of the covenant had first been outlined by Theodore Roosevelt in 1915. "So accurately that you would think he had sat in Versailles and drawn it."

NEWSPAPER WOMAN FORCED TO GIVE UP

So Run Down Los Angeles Woman Collapsed, But Is Now Back at Work; Los Angeles Has No Equal," Says Mrs. Ames.

"Among the many splendid endorsements that have been given Tanlac by the people of California, none is more interesting than the statement made by Mrs. H. F. Ames, 225 North Dixiel street, Los Angeles, who has been a valued employe of the Los Angeles Times for the past seven years.

"I consider Tanlac has been worth all of ten dollars a bottle to me," said Mrs. Ames, "and those wishing to know personally what I think of it may write me, and I'll be only too glad to tell them all about it."

"Early in 1913 my stomach began giving me trouble and since then I had been almost a constant sufferer. I always after meals I had a stuffed-up feeling and my heart beat so hard and fast at times that it alarmed me. About 18 months ago I just collapsed completely. I couldn't eat and got so weak I had fainting spells. I was unable even to walk to the car and finally had to give up my work. I was so nervous I just couldn't help crying at times for my back hurt me constantly and I could not get more than an hour's sleep at a time.

"I was so impressed by reading what others said about Tanlac that I bought a bottle and the second dose helped me. I am now on my fifth bottle and feel like a new person. I eat just anything I want and it agrees with me perfectly, for I do not have the slightest touch of indigestion. My nerves are calm and steady and I sleep every night like a baby. I have never felt better in my life, have gained eleven and a half pounds and I am perfectly happy because Tanlac has restored my health and I can attend to my duties in the office as well as I ever could."

Good Judgment After Eating

Giving the Stomach the Alkaline Effect by a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet is Worth Remembering.

You cannot, as a rule, say in advance that this, that or the other food will cause indigestion. Experience has taught most people that even minute pits are at times while at others a glass of milk raises holes with the stomach. One good rule to follow is the preventive measure of taking one or two Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals. You thus avoid gas, nervous stomach, heartburn and such distress due to indigestion or dyspepsia. These tablets also help to digest the food by giving the stomach the alkaline effect to offset acidity; they relieve the distress when the mucus in the food should be more than a match for your digestive powers. Get a 50 cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store and note how nicely they seem to calm the stomach when it feels all upset.—Advertisement.
