SENATOR SMOOT TALKS AT PROVO MEETING

PROVO, Oct. 15.—Every inch of available room at the Armory was turned last night to hear Senator Reed Smoot and other speakers discuss the issues of the day.

E. O. Leatherwood, candidate for congress, second district, called attention to charges of inertia advanced by Congressman James H. Mays, against Senator Smoot. He read from the record to show that Congressman Mays had introduced eleven bills in congress. Of these, he said, ten died in committee and one, a bill to permit the removal of gravel from Fort Douglas, had become a law.

Professor Amos N. Merrill of Brigham Young University, praised the record of Senator Smoot, declaring that he not only represented Utah, but that he was Utah's contribution to represent one hundred and ten million people who are striving for justice under the government of the U. S. He predicted the reelection of Senator Smoot by a large majority.

Senator Smoot declared the United States is facing the greatest crisis in its history, in financial, school and labor problems, which the government must solve.

The war, he said, cost the United States $40,000,000,000—sum greater than the human mind can conceive. The senator said he had learned through personal investigation that the entire expenditure by the government of the United States in the war had been thirty billions of dollars—ten billion less than the cost of the war alone.

The complaint in the case was that the rooming house had been conducted in an unlawful manner.
