Age Woman Killed By Street Car; Body Dragged Fifty Feet

Struck by streetcar No. 74 last night shortly before 8 o'clock at Madison avenue and Twenty-third street, Mrs. Isabelle Foulger, 55 years of age, wife of Fred Foulger, 124 Twenty-fourth street, was instantly killed. Mrs. Foulger was thrown, or dragged, for a distance of fifty feet witnesses said, and her skull and chest were badly crushed. She was dead when Motorman B. LeFevre and four passengers of the street car reached her.

MRS. ISABELLE FOULGER.

Mrs. Foulger was said to have been on her way home when killed. She was crossing the street under the shadows of some trees, according to Motorman LeFevre, when the car struck her. Motorman LeFevre appeared in a high state of excitement following the accident, and said he had not seen the woman until the car hit her. He said he was peering into the darkness looking for passengers at the dark corner when the impact came, and he then applied the brakes.

Passengers on the streetcar told the police that the car struck 100 feet after striking the woman, before it could be stopped. They said they had not actually witnessed the accident, but felt the impact of the woman's body against the car.

POLICE INVESTIGATE. Immediately following the accident, Detective Everett Noble and Sergeant A. H. Stephens went to the scene. They then summoned Judge D. R. Roberts, ex-officio coroner, who gave orders for the removal of the body, which was taken to the Larkin undertaking parlors.

Motorman LeFevre was questioned by both the police and Judge Roberts, but he could not give a connected report. A search is being made for witnesses other than those who were on the streetcar, but at noon today none had been found. As far as is known no one actually saw the accident from the street.

MAKING INVESTIGATION. Judge Roberts said today that an investigation is being made to determine whether there is necessity of holding an inquest. A search is being made for witnesses other than those who were on the streetcar, but at noon today none had been found. As far as is known no one actually saw the accident from the street.

BIOGRAPHICAL. Isabelle Burton Foulger was born in Kaysville, Davis county, Utah, Feb. 26th, 1856, daughter of William W. and Rachel Fielding Burton. She moved with her parents to Ogden about the year 1863, where she resided until 1875, when she married Foulger and moved to Salt Lake City.

She remained three years in Salt Lake and then moved back to Ogden where they have since resided. She is the mother of seven sons and one daughter, all but one of whom are living. The children are Lottie Foulger Smith, Joseph B., Herbert B., David B., Albert B., and Charles B. Franklin J. Foulger, all of Ogden. She has twenty-three grandchildren.

Besides her children, she is survived by her husband, Fred Foulger, four sisters and five brothers, as follows: Hanna B. Foulger of Ogden, Rachel E. Ballantyne of Rigby, Idaho, Sarah E. B. Foulger, Martha B. Cooley of Ogden, Jos. F. Burton of Salt Lake City, Wm. F. Burton, James F. Burton both of Ogden, Christopher F. Burton of Alton, Wyoming, and Robert I. Burton of Ogden.

PROMINENT IN CHURCH. She was an earnest worker and held many prominent positions in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. In 1889 she was called to act as president of the Y. L. M. I. A. of the Ogden Fourth ward, which position she held for about ten years. Later, April 29th, 1907, she accepted the position of treasurer of the Fourth ward Relief Society. In September, 1908, she was sustained of the Ogden Stake Relief Society, president of the Ogden Stake Relief Society, Nov. 30th, 1913, she was called to fill the vacancy, which position she occupied until her death.

Mrs. Foulger was one of the most influential and highly esteemed ladies of Ogden. Not alone has she been active in the numerous church positions, but she has devoted a very great amount of time to other public service, especially along social welfare and charitable purposes. During the recent war activities, she donated money, clothing and other necessities for the European stricken districts. It was through her persistent labors and the united efforts of the Ogden Stake Relief Society board that the first box of supplies from the United States was sent over seas by them. For this work Mrs. Foulger received, not only the commendation of the church authorities, but also that of the United States officials and grateful expressions from Europe.

PAYS TRIBUTE. One of the Ogden stake officials this morning paid this beautiful tribute to the life of Mrs. Foulger: "She was one of the most devoted and faithful workers in the stake. Never had she been called upon for any service that she was not performed and with deep sympathy and that not alone would the family mourn her demise, but the entire stake. In fact, all citizens of Ogden, who knew her, will bow their heads in grief. Her entire life has been truly unselfish and has been spent in blessing others."

The body may be viewed at the family residence, 738 Twenty-fourth street, Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning until 1:00 p. m. Funeral services will be held in the Ogden Tabernacle 2 p. m. Sunday.

Divorce Granted on Non-Support Charge

Decree of divorce has been granted by Judge A. E. Pratt in the district court to Edith L. Leatham from Ernest A. Leatham upon grounds of non-support. Mrs. Leatham testified that for the past seven months her husband has failed to provide her with funds and she was compelled to support herself and minor children through her own efforts. The couple was married in Ogden, May 21, 1911. The court awarded Mrs. Leatham the custody of the children.

Former Ogdenite Held For Wife Desertion

Upon advice of the sheriff's office here, Benjamin Jones, formerly of Ogden, has been arrested at Oakland, Cal., upon a charge of refusing to provide for his wife and minor child and is being held there awaiting the arrival of a Weber county officer to bring him back to Ogden. Mrs. Jones is said to be in Ogden and her husband was arrested upon a complaint signed by her.

SUTHERLAND IS OGDEN SPEAKER

Former Senator Declares Hardinn's Election Will Mean Association of Nations

"Despite what you may hear from certain sources, Senator Warren Harding is not opposing a league of nations or an international association which will insure peace and leave the sovereignty of America in our own hands, but he does oppose a military alliance of five great powers with every line of that alliance filled with war and death. This is what the league of nations is, as it stands today." This was the declaration last night of former Senator George Sutherland until a few days ago his personal advisor to Senator Harding, and who has been with the presidential candidate practically every day since the opening of the campaign. Senator Sutherland delivered his address before a crowd which filled the Orpheum theatre. The final portion of his talk was devoted to the dangers which lurk beneath the surface of the present covenant. He was frequently interrupted by lengthy applause and cheering when he brought out many points opposing the pact without reservations.

HARDING HAS PLAN. Senator Sutherland declared that Senator Harding has stood and now stands for a league or association of nations which may insure peace in the world. He intimated that Senator Harding has some definite plan for this association, but declared the presidential candidate was going to decide and would make no attempt to carry it through as a one-man program.

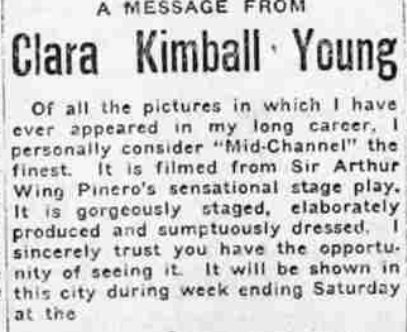

"Senator Harding would be foolish at this time to commit himself to the details of any plan he has," President Wilson had not come to Europe and exercised his personal opinion and then intimated that his opinion be strictly endorsed by the American people, we would have a league of nations today which would not harbor clauses which would drag us into war.

"When we are in power after election," the speaker declared, "we are going to disclose all the facts. This is the plan of the Republican party, Senator Harding has said that he is for an association of nations for the preservation of world peace, but it must be such an agreement that will leave the sovereignty of the United States in our own hands."

WONT RULE ALONE. "Senator Harding is not going to try to run the United States alone. Senator Harding is not going to try to run the world alone. He does not even intend to confine his move for world peace to the Republican party, or even to men. He also wants to confer with the women and before he will ask the world to accept any agreement he will first confer with the best available men and women in the United States."

A MESSAGE FROM Clara Kimball Young

Of all the pictures in which I have ever appeared in my long career, I personally consider "Mid-Channel" the finest. It is filmed from Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's sensational stage play. It is gorgeously staged, elaborately produced and sumptuously dressed. I sincerely trust you have the opportunity of seeing it. It will be shown in this city during week ending Saturday at the
