

PRES. GRANT IS OGDEN SPEAKER

Addresses Crowded Auditorium at Tri-State Leadership Session

President Heber J. Grant delivered an address to the largest attended session of the Tri-State Leadership Institute held in the Weber Normal college last night.

President Grant stated that the reason he had accepted the invitation to be present was because he wanted to lend his aid to all movements that are for the benefit of the young and old.

He also accepted the declaration of James that faith without works is like a body without spirit.

There are no people on earth who are keeping the first great commandment given to men, to be fruitful and replenish the earth.

Referring to the purpose of the institute President Grant said he believed in making leaders.

President Grant said that he studied the Book of Mormon when a boy of 14 years and while thus engaged became impressed with Nephi whom he declared to be one of the greatest characters that ever lived.

LAY WAGER ON SHOPLIFTERS

Merchant Thinks Place Properly Policed; Other Doubts It

One of the most unique wagers ever recorded in Ogden was made today between two local merchants who each posted $100 with a local bank to be collected by the winner when the bet has been decided.

The other merchant apparently believes that a clever man can enter stores in Ogden, and, despite the intense activities of these employed in the campaign, can still steal in safety and get away without detection.

The wager is said to have resulted from a debate between the two merchants over the employment of additional detectives in the campaign.

When questioned this morning the merchants at first were averse to giving out the information, but they admitted the wager had been posted.

The merchant who had posted his bet with the belief that a clever man could still steal and "get by" at first registered a hitch about letting out any information before the wager was decided.

The employed shoplifter will be trailed by watchers who will report his every move in the stores and in the street on him, it was said.

PLUM PUCKING NOT OPPORTUNE

Political Jobs Wait on Conference With Smoot and Mabey

Political plums in both federal and state positions which should come to Weber county as recognition for the services done during the recent campaign are still in the green stage and cannot be plucked until Senator Smoot and Governor-elect Mabey return to the state and confer with party leaders and committee members here, according to information given out yesterday.

INSIST ON PLACES. However, the delay will in no way detract from the insistence with which the Weber county committee will go after the places in both federal and state departments when the proper time arrives, it is said.

A few appointment seekers, apparently impatient over the delay in the making of recommendations, have decided to proceed alone and are circulating petitions among the committee members asking their support.

ENTITLED TO RECOGNITION. Arthur Woolley, chairman of the Weber county central committee, was asked today to make a statement regarding the situation. He said:

"It seems to be generally accepted that Weber county is entitled to substantial recognition in the distribution of places on the federal patronage, as well as in the organization of the state government, but until the return of Senator Smoot from California and Governor-elect Mabey from his visit to Idaho, I am unable to say just what course will be followed by them with reference to selections from this county."

Mr. Woolley said that it was not his intention to call a meeting of the county central committee until after Mr. Mabey and Senator Smoot had returned, and he had an opportunity to confer further with them as to what plan they wish to follow in regard to endorsements from Weber county.

Wright's Store Gets Comments on Singing

"Will you try it once?" he asked with a smile. "Well try anything once," we told him.

Frankly, we hesitated to tell the reason, fearing that many of them would not show up. They were all there, bright and early the following morning.

As the singing progressed I stood at the edge of the crowd watching the various individuals. There was the dignified president of the company, shyly joining in. There were the boys of the delivery department singing in strong voice.

When Harry Morrison of the Community Service came to the store and asked that we get together some morning for a song, we classed him at once as a visionary.
