

TRADE UNION SCHOOLS OPEN

Organized Workers Study Possibilities of Central Labor College

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Organized laborers' interest in educational facilities of their own, illustrated by the authorization of a committee by the American Federation of Labor to study the possibilities of a central labor university, is evidenced in the formation of "trade union colleges" in a number of the large cities of the country and elsewhere in other educational enterprises, according to Chas. B. Stillman, president of the American Federation of Teachers.

Among the trade union colleges established are those at Boston, Washington, Philadelphia and Seattle, Mr. Stillman said.

In New York City, he said, the Ladies' garment workers union has secured the cooperation of the board of education in providing school rooms and teachers and has supplied a number of lecturers of their own. More recently he added, various unions there have united in developing this educational work on a larger scale.

In Chicago the schools committee of the Chicago Federation of Labor and the educational committee of the Women's Trade Union League are cooperating with the board of education holding classes once a week in the rooms of the offices of the Women's Trade Union League. The board of education supplies the teachers, with the exception of the public speaking teacher, who is a university of Chicago professor and not on the public school payroll. Besides public speaking, parliamentary law, essentials in English, and short stories constitute the material offered.

"The increasing interest in the establishment of labor colleges is a very hopeful sign in this reconstruction period," Mr. Stillman said. "There is the most urgent need for trained civic and industrial intelligentsia. Organized labor has always recognized this, as is shown by its vigorous part in the creation and development of our public school system."

"But hundreds of thousands of workers have been prevented by economic reasons from continuing their education as far as they desired. This night school classes of the public schools partially meet the situation for large numbers, but often the special subject and character of instruction needed, can be provided only by workers themselves, in co-operation with members of public school, college and university faculties.

"Courses in English, literature, public speaking, history, civics and industrial civics and citizenship, labor legislation, history of the labor movement, economics, mathematics, sanitation and social hygiene, have proved most in demand.

"The movement has already demonstrated not only that labor will expand this educational work under its own auspices, but that the public schools will broaden their educational facilities for adults to help meet this growing demand."

MEASURE WOULD BAR OUT ALIENS

Johnson's Bill Calls for Halt on Immigration for Two Years

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Immigration would practically be suspended for two years under a bill submitted to the House immigration committee today by its chairman, Representative Johnson, of Washington. The measure would permit the admission only of blood relatives of citizens of the United States, and of "otherwise admissible" aliens from Canada, New Zealand, Cuba and Mexico.

The bill, Mr. Johnson explained, is a tentative draft which will be the basis of a committee discussion. Changes suggested by other members of the committee, he said, might be incorporated in the measure. Naturalization is not dealt with in the bill, Chairman Johnson explaining that the phase of the alien question is taken care of by a bill pending before the house.

TAKES PICTURE THROUGH GOLD

MAE RASENS

By EDWARD M. THIERRY, N. E. A. Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—Did you ever see a sheet of gold so thin that it costs a dollar in labor to make it thin, yet worth only one cent as gold—a sheet of gold so thin that you can take a look at it?

Gene Coir, the Chicago photographer, who takes movies for Kinograph, convinced us of this when he took a picture of Miss Mae Rasens through gold. He put a sheet of it over his camera lens and snapped this picture of Miss Mae Rasens. Take a look at it.

It's the gold leaf, the kind you see on unincorporated stationery, on book edges, on signs and domes of buildings. The man who pounded the gold so

Three Large Machines Made Ready and Routes Are Planned

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 27.—The next great flying operation to engage the attention of the world is the crossing of the Pacific ocean, according to a report in a news letter, a war department publication of the information group of the army air service, issued to keep the personnel of the air service informed.

Discussing the project, the Air Service news letter says:

"Looked at from any point of view, it will be the most difficult feat of air navigation yet attempted. The man who succeeds in the undertaking will have won the highest place in the annals of aeronautics.

"As early as March 1920, the Manufacturers Aircraft association announced that the United States navy had in preparation two boats of triple engine power designed especially for trans-Pacific flying.

"Of the two routes proposed for crossing the great expanse of water, one stretches from the San Francisco bay to Hongkong, China, a distance of 7,815 nautical miles. Stops could be made at Honolulu, Wake Island, Guam and Manila. These jumps measure approximately as follows: San Francisco to Honolulu 2,099 miles; Honolulu to Wake Island to Guam 1,320; Guam to Manila 1,320; Manila to Hongkong, 675.

SHORTEST ROUTE

"The shortest route possible, however, would follow somewhat closely the Great Circle steamship route, and would cut the distance to approximately 5,500 or 5,700 nautical miles. Supporting the flyer to hop off from Victoria, his first jump would bring him to the Aleutians, the next to the Aleutians and so to Yokohama.

"While the more northerly route offers the advantage in point of distance so long as we are in the present experimental state of knowledge as regards aeronautics, other questions suggest themselves that must be taken into consideration before a choice could be determined. The fog familiar to the Great Circle route would add to the airmen's difficulties provided they extend to a very great altitude into the air lanes. It is probable, however, that fairly good visibility would extend, say to 20,000 feet above sea-level from December to February during which period the fogs are less apparent.

"In this region, also, high winds, another factor to be reckoned within the airmen's calculations, come, broadly speaking from two main sources and operate in two different directions. A strong southeasterly wind from southern Japan sweeps across the Pacific to the Aleutians, while from South America a gale sweeps up the coast in a north-westerly direction.

FLIGHT FROM SYDNEY

"While plans are being considered on this side for the trans-Pacific flight from England, a similar project that an airplane is being built for a flight from Sydney, Australia to San Francisco. From Sydney to the Fiji island the jump would be 4,748; to Honolulu 2,736; thence to San Francisco 2,090.

"In participation of this event and of its logical results, a schedule of trans-oceanic flights might be made out reading somewhat as follows: Halifax to Ireland in two days; New York to Liverpool, two and a half days; San Francisco to Sydney, three days; Vancouver to Yokohama, three and a half

CHILDREN HIDE FOOD FOR HOME

Misery of Little Ones in Austria Revealed by Soup Kitchen Scene

PARIS, Nov. 10.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—The misery of Austria's hungry children is told by Pierre Hamp, writing in a Paris weekly. He watched the localities before the soup kitchen where American relief agencies are feeding all those under 14 years of age.

At the door each child must show a card and when they leave they are searched, says M. Hamp.

Because there is not enough for all the hungry to be fed, the children may not carry away food. Yet the keen intelligence of the young sometimes outwits the watchfulness of their elders.

"To be sure," one of the managers told him, "we should have to undress the children. One little girl put her sliver of bread in her stockings. The next week she came with a rag over her cheek, saying she had the toothache. Under the cloth she had a lump of bread."

Pointing to two little girls, she said: "Often I must force them to eat. Grief, at the thought that their mother has nothing kills their appetite. Unless I watch them the bread they leave on the table is taken by others."

Another little girl, wearing men's shoes in which her feet were lost tried to crowd in ahead of her friend. Sent back in the line, she cried. "Asked why, the child explained she was wearing the only shoes in the family. She wanted to hurry back so her brother might have the shoes and come in his turn, while there still was food."

"They are people," said the manager, "whose pride is not yet dead. They would not let their children be seen in the street barefooted."

As the children pass in line and have their bowls filled with cocoa they begin a once to drink and to eat the white bread. They are too hungry to wait until seated.

Sometimes as the children leave, they are compelled to raise their arms, during which time they are searched for hidden bread in their armpits; and sometimes they are searched for many would, if they could, conceal food for the hungry mother at home.

The total gross debt on November 30 was $24,175,156,214 as compared with $24,062,509,672 on October 31. The issuance of $232,000,000 in treasury certificates on November 15 was responsible for the increase in the debt, according to treasury officials, who explained that the certificates maturing during the month are, on net, only $94,000,000. Officials declared, however, the continuation of the quarterly decrease in the public debt was in no way halted because decreases were only possible when the quarterly tax receipts made available further reductions.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—MacGregor Ross, known to immigration officials from coast to coast as "a man without a country," and whose nationality has been a conundrum for the last two years, will be given temporary liberty on an order granted by Federal Judge Grubb. The court granted a petition of Miss Rose Weiss, his attorney, to release the man, who is almost 70 years old, from Ellis Island, pending an appeal against deportation. A bond of $1,000 will be filed.

Ross was brought across the continent two years ago from Seattle, where he had been arrested in a raid by federal officials as an I. W. W. agitator. He was ordered deported, but was released by order from the federal court here and he returned to Seattle. Last February he was brought to New York again for deportation, this time charged with disseminating I. W. W. literature. His native land could not be determined and the immigration officials were puzzled where to send him. Ross claims United States citizenship, but is unable to prove it.
