

TUESDAY POOR DAY FOR NEWS, EX-KING SAYS

Constantine Doesn't Expect Invitation From Athens Until Wednesday

LUCEINE, Switzerland, Dec. 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—Former King Constantine, whose return to the Greek throne was voted for by the Greek people in Sunday's plebiscite, said today he was expecting that the government would notify him to return to Greece as a result of the vote, but that he did not expect the notification to come today because of the Greek superstition that Tuesday is an unlucky day.

"It is like your Friday," he remarked to the correspondent. "No matter what happens they will not telegraph today."

WOMEN DEMONSTRATE

ATHENS, Dec. 7.—Invitation will be extended former King Constantine to return to Greece. Following the announcement of the result of Sunday's plebiscite, which is expected to be made tomorrow, plans contemplate an escort of two battle cruisers for Constantine who is expected to sail from Smyrna on board the liner Paris. Three days of rejoicing will follow his arrival here.

The Greeks are maintaining a most friendly attitude toward foreigners, although women conducted a demonstration before the French embassy on Sunday.

GETS HEAVY VOTE

PARIS, Dec. 7.—Ex-King Constantine received 94 per cent of the votes cast in Sunday's plebiscite on the question of his return to the throne of Greece, it is announced in an Athens dispatch dated Monday, received by the Greek legation here today.

The voters, it is added, numbered 500,000 more than the total taking part in the recent parliamentary election.

ALASKA IS GOOD PLACE FOR WORK

Opportunities for Savings Are Better, Governor Says in His Annual Report

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—An appeal for greater co-ordination in the policies of the federal government and for "the greatest possible need of self-government" runs through a series of recommendations for governing the territory of Alaska submitted in the annual report of Thomas Riggs, Jr., the territorial governor, made public today.

"Sentimentalists have done and are doing more damage to Alaska," Governor Riggs declared, "than can ever be undone unless a broad policy of development is undertaken which recognizes the rights of invested capital and the welfare of the individual. Laws should govern instead of revocable regulations; but where there must be regulations, such regulations should be promulgated by authority located within the territory, and not 4,000 miles away. In the interest of good citizenship, to promote self-reliance and to strengthen the desire for public welfare, the greatest possible need of self-government should be allowed the residents of the territory."

OPTIMISM POLICY

The Alaska governor urges the definition of some sort of a colonial policy, asserting that absence of such a policy has caused capital supposedly headed for Alaska, to turn to British Columbia, to the loss of Alaska. This causes him to remark that "in Canada the founder of a new industry gets knighted; in Alaska very often indicted."

Honest and energetic attempts, he adds, have been made by the Washington government to open up Alaska through construction of government railroads, but little attention has been paid to the development of the territory's natural resources, and little encouragement in the way of legislation has been provided to get any one to settle along the railroad now under construction. As a remedy for this condition, he submits as his chief recommendation the enactment by congress of the pending Alaska development board bill. This measure, he asserts, will do more for Alaska than any other piece of legislation, and seemingly, he adds, is opposed only by the government bureau at Washington.

COULD BRING RELIEF

The prediction is made by Governor Riggs that should the development board bill and other recommendations be adopted, a reduction for Alaska can be cut below similar amounts appropriated for any state and the territory "instead of simply being the greatest per capita burden for the national revenues will in addition, soon become self-supporting and self-sustaining."

Governor Riggs submits figures showing the total commerce of Alaska with the United States the last calendar year to have amounted to $105,586,085 a decrease of $17,550,306 over 1918, due largely to after effects of the war, to a smaller run of salmon, and to lessened copper mining resulting from the slump in the copper market.

The governor says the condition of the laboring man in Alaska was better than in the states, while the opportunities for saving were there was not the same temptation to spend on amusements or "billed shirts, silk stockings and high heeled shoes."

The governor places the value of Alaska's mineral products in 1919 at $19,829,913. The mines of Alaska since 1880 are estimated as having produced $438,161,069 worth of minerals.

HERE IS TEXT OF EXECUTIVE MESSAGE TO 68TH CONGRESS

Immediate consideration of the revision of our tax laws. Simplification of the income and profits taxes has become an immediate necessity. These taxes performed an indispensable service during the war. The need for their simplification, however, is very great in order to save the taxpayers inconvenience and expense and in order to make his liability more certain and definite. I have more detailed recommendations with regard to taxes will no doubt be laid before you by the secretary of the treasury and the commissioner of internal revenue.

"It is my privilege to draw to the attention of congress for very sympathetic consideration the problem of providing adequate facilities for the care and treatment of former members of the military and naval forces who are sick or disabled as the result of their participation in the war. These heroic men can never be paid in money for the service they patriotically rendered the nation. Their reward will be the realization of the fact that they vindicated the rights of their country and aided in safeguarding civilization.

SOLDIERS AND SAILORS

The nation gratitude must be effectively revealed to them by the most ample provision for their medical care and treatment as well as for their vocational training. The time has come when a more complete program can be formulated and more satisfactorily administered for their treatment and training, and I earnestly urge that the congress give the matter its early consideration. The secretary of the treasury and the board for vocational education will outline in their annual reports proposals covering medical care and rehabilitation which I am sure will engage your earnest study and command your most generous support.

FOR BETTER BUSINESS

Permit me to emphasize once more the need for action upon certain matters upon which I dwell at some length in my message to the second session of the sixty-sixth congress. The necessity, for example, of encouraging the manufacture of dyestuffs and related chemicals; the importance of doing everything possible to promote agricultural production along economic lines; to improve agricultural marketing and to make rural life more attractive and healthful; the need for a law regulating cold storage in such a way as to limit the time during which goods may be kept in storage; prescribing the method of disposing of them if kept beyond the permitted period, and requiring goods released

PRICES ON CASE

"It would also be most serviceable if it were provided that all goods released from cold storage for interstate shipment should have plainly marked upon each package the selling or market price at which they went into storage, in order that the purchaser might be able to test whether his estimate of the value of the goods is in line with the wholesale dealer. Indeed, it would be very serviceable to the public if all goods destined for interstate commerce were made to carry upon every package case whose form made it possible a plain statement of the price at which they left the hands of the producer. I respectfully call your attention, also to the recommendation of the message referred to with regard to a federal license for all corporations engaged in interstate commerce. In brief, the immediate legislative need of the time is the removal of all obstacles to the realization of the best ambitions of our people in their several classes of employment and the strengthening of all instrumentalities by which difficulties are to be met and removed and justice dealt out, whether by law or by some form of mediation and conciliation. I do not feel it to be my privilege at present to suggest the detailed and particular methods by which these objects may be attained but I have faith that the inquiries of your several committees will discover the way and the method."

LOAN FOR ARMENIA

"In response to what I believe to be the impulse of sympathy and opinion throughout the United States, I earnestly suggest that the congress authorize the treasury of the United States to make to the struggling government of Armenia such a loan as was made to several of the allied governments during the war, and I would also suggest that it would be desirable to provide in the legislation itself that the expenditure of the money thus loaned should be under the supervision of a commission, or at least a commissioner from the United States in order that revolutionary tendencies within Armenia itself might not be afforded by the loan a further tempting opportunity.

PHILIPPINE INDEPENDENCE

"Allow me to call your attention to the fact that the people of the Philippine Islands have succeeded in maintaining a stable government since the last action of congress in their behalf and have thus fulfilled the condition set by the congress as precedent to a consideration of granting independence to the islands. I respectfully submit that this condition precedent having been fulfilled, it is now our liberty and our duty to keep our promise to the people of those islands by granting them the independence which they so honorably have earned."

WILSON VALENTINO

"I have not so much laid before you a series of recommendations, gentlemen, as sought to utter a confession of faith, of the faith in which I was bred and which it is my solemn purpose to stand by until my last fighting day. I believe this to be the faith of America, the faith of the future, and of all the victories which await national action in the days to come, whether in America or elsewhere."

HENDERSON ASKS IRISH ARMISTICE

Great Labor Leader Holds Opportunity Is Open to Effect Settlement

LONDON, Dec. 7.—Arthur Henderson who returned from Ireland Monday after taking part in the investigations of the English labor commission said that after surveying the entire situation, he believed the present moment offered exceptional opportunity for a settlement. Men of every class were tired of the existing strife and unrest and were only anxious for peace.

Mr. Henderson thinks the government policy of insisting that negotiations are impossible until the present reign of terror is broken is a mistaken policy and that it will be regarded as a deliberate attempt to break the spirit of the Irish people.

In the view of the labor leader, a definite effort should be made officially to arrange an armistice in violent and provocative acts, both official and unofficial and that a conference should be called representing both sides.

"If these suggestions are acted upon," continued Mr. Henderson, "I have reason to know that the full weight of the heads of the Catholic
