

CHINESE FAMINE APPEAL IS MADE

President Points to Millions Threatened by Hunger and Asks Relief

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—President Wilson today called on the American people to contribute to their funds to relieve "the appalling" distress in China resulting from famine in several of the provinces.

Thomas W. Lamont, of the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co., was designated as chairman of the committee, and Acting Secretary Davis of the state department, as treasurer.

MILLIONS IMPERILED.
"A famine, alarming in its proportions, today holds in its grip several important provinces in China," said the president.
"The crop failure is complete and the present distress which is great is likely, before winter has run its course, to become appalling. In fact, our diplomatic and consular agents in China inform me that the loss resulting from death in distressing form may run into millions of souls. It is certain that the local government and established organizations of relief are unable to cope with the magnitude of disaster which faces them."

"Under the circumstances, relief to be effective should be granted quickly. Once more an opportunity is offered to the American people to show that prompt and generous response with which they have invariably met the call of their brother nations in distress. The case of China I regard as especially worthy of the attention of our citizens. To an unusual degree the Chinese people look to us for counsel and for effective friendship. Our churches, through their religious and medical missionaries, their schools and colleges and our philanthropic organizations have rendered China an incalculable benefit which her people recognize with gratitude and devotion to the United States. Therefore, not only in the name of humanity, but in that of the friendliness which we feel for a great people in distress, I venture to ask that our citizens shall, even though the task of giving is not today a light one, respond as they can to this distant but appealing cry for help."

CONFIDENT OF ANSWER.
"In order to be of any use, the orderly collection of such donations, large or small, which may be offered, I have invited a nationwide committee, whose names are attached thereto, to lend their aid to this matter. I have designated Mr. Thomas W. Lamont of New York City, to act as chairman of this committee, and Mr. Norman Davis, under-secretary of state, to act as treasurer."

"I realize that this call, added to those for the underfed children of eastern Europe and the afflicted people of the Near East, and to the needs of our country, makes heavy demand upon the bounty of the nation. I am confident, however, that all these pleas will be answered in generous spirit."

NAMES ON COMMITTEE

The committee appointed by the president numbers 120 including 22 women. Besides Mr. Lamont and Under-Secretary Davis it includes Secretary of the treasury department, Governor Harding of the federal reserve board, President Taft, Cleveland H. Dodge, James H. Farrell, Paul S. Reinsch, Senator Hitchcock, Nebraska, Senator Capper, of Kansas, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Dean Shailer Mathews, University of Chicago, Adolph S. Ochs, George M. CLOSEUP OF CUBA'S NEW PRESIDENT

By GEORGE B. WATERS, N. E. A. Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Cuba has just elected a real president, probably the little republic's greatest and most far-seeing statesman, and certainly one of the most pre-eminent figures in Cuban public life.

The new president of Cuba is Dr. Alfredo Zayas, the W. J. Bryan of the West Indies. The dyed-in-the-wool Liberal leader, the father of the seat and the founder of the Liberal creed in Cuba.

But the funny part about Zayas' election, he didn't run on the Liberal party ticket, the party he founded, but was the national league party's candidate. Jose Miguel Gomez, who today headed a revolution against the established Cuban government, ran on the Liberal ticket. Dr. Zayas had been defeated on it in 1912 and 1916.

THE YAZAS IS KING.
Mario Menocal, now president, feared Gomez would be elected, so he selected Zayas, whom he beat for the office four years ago, to run against Gomez. Many of the Liberals followed Dr. Zayas into the Conservative ranks, forming a coalition party, which was called the National League.

He is a noted orator and writer. He is also a poet, and has published many books, including a history of Cuba. When independence was declared, Dr. Zayas was named lieutenant-mayor of Havana. He was elected delegate to the constitutional convention in 1901, later became senator from Havana and served as president of senate and for two years prior to 1911 he was vice president of the republic. He was elected to run for president in 1917.

Dr. Zayas has been married twice and has four children. Major General Francisco Carrillo, has been elected vice president.

DR. ALFREDO ZAYAS

Expert Discusses What to Plant Between Trees in Orchard, Topic Hagenbarth of Utah and Wilson of Wyoming Appear Before Committee

By GRANVILLE OLSON, (Written for the Ogden Standard-Examiner)

Success or failure may depend directly on the crop grown in the orchard during the first four or five years. Too often we see a young orchard either killed outright or severely stunted by the unwise selection of a companion crop. Yet a suitable companion crop may prove a distinct advantage to the trees as well as a source of immediate profit to the grower. There are a few important factors to be considered in making choice of such a crop.

First, it must be profitable, otherwise nothing would be gained by cropping the orchard. The product might be marketed direct or fed to livestock. It is here that the general farmer who keeps stock has an advantage over the exclusive orchardist.

Second, it should be a crop that requires thorough cultivation. This will not only keep the weed pests under control, but all noxious insects and diseases will be kept in check. It is here that the general farmer who keeps stock has an advantage over the exclusive orchardist.

Third, it should be a crop that does not require late cultivation. If the crop is planted late in the spring the trees will make a good growth during the period of cultivation. Then late in the summer, when cultivation ceases, and the companion crop is making a vigorous growth, the trees have an opportunity to ripen up their new growth, preparatory for winter.

With the factors in mind, the orchardist may be assured a profitable return from his land during the years that the trees themselves are not producing without jeopardizing the future success of his orchard.

STATE RESTS CASE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 9.—The state rested its case in the trial of Oscar Bowers for murder here today. Bowers and three others were charged with having shot and killed McCullough Grayson in a quarrel over the rent of a cottage.

The defense utilized its case briefly and announced that it would probably complete its evidence by tomorrow afternoon, permitting the case to go to the jury later in the day.

Bowers is the second of the four defendants to be tried. Mrs. Maybelle Roe was first, a jury disagreeing in her case. Edward F. Doane and Julia Deane, his wife, are the remaining defendants, but the state has announced that it will try Mrs. Roe again before the Doanes are brought to the bar.

INEZ RULES IN HARDING KITCHEN

(By International News Service.) WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 9.—Inez, the now famous colored cook of the Harding family, who won laurels both at the Harding home in Marion and at the senator's town house in Wyoming avenue here, will come to Washington on March 4 and enter upon her duties as commander-in-chief of the White House kitchen.

So runs the gossip in Washington social circles, and the report is likewise current in political quarters where Inez is particularly popular because of the skill with which she catered to the physical needs of the small army of political leaders who found their way to Marion at various times during the recent campaign.

Incidentally, the coming of Inez will thwart the ambitions of numerous other colored artists with aspirations to be chief cook at the executive mansion during the regime of the Harding family. It appears that since the election the president-elect and Mrs. Harding have been the recipients of many applications from "chefs," ordinary cooks, butlers and the like, all anxious to wield the marshal's baton over the White House range.

Though a few of these applicants have been white, the majority were negro, for the fame achieved by Inez following Senator Harding's nomination kept its sails in. The senatorial reserve officers, 193 officers holding temporary appointments and 79 former pharmacists, commissioned as temporary assistants to surgeons. As the authorized strength is 1,225, the existing vacancies number 570.

The dental corps likewise suffered losses from its ranks, members of the corps being unwilling to refuse alluring prospects of greater remuneration in private life. As a result, the corps finished the year with only two-thirds of its authorized strength.

A shortage of specialists in the navy has caused the establishment of a special series of studies which the officers are enabled to attend. The surgeon general, however, saw no immediate hope of bringing the staff of specialists to the point he believed the navy required because of the constant resignation. He urged, therefore, that action be taken to make the professional work of the service more attractive.
