HALIFAX SHAFT IN FORTY FEET QUARTZ

Deep Work at Tonopah Is Reaching Logical Point for Good Results.

The Halifax-Tonopah Mining company's main working shaft has reached a depth of over 1300 feet and is now forty feet in the big body of quartz that was entered last week, says the Tonopah Miner...

It would seem a miracle if the shaft had dropped into a big ore shoot, that it has reached the great vein at the great depth of nearly a quarter of a mile is sufficiently remarkable, and while highly payable, the value of the spots encountered, the history of the Tonopah veins gives every reason for the belief that an ore shoot will be encountered, if not in the shaft on the footwall, at least by drifting and crosscutting the vein.

Two days ago a resident of a Nevada mining camp to us a money order for $1.50, together with a sealed package of papers. He said that he wished to rent a box in which his papers could be stowed away in a safe place.

We selected a box for him, put his package in it, and gave him the keys. He will be able to secure his papers by whenever he wishes them, and in the meantime he will have to worry about them.
