Marquard Wins World's Record; Washington Loses After Winning 17

Giants' Pitcher Wins One More Than Chesbro and Big Ed Reulbach.

By International News Service.

BOSTON, June 19.—Rube Marquard, the tall southpaw of the New York Giants, tonight holds the world's record for successive pitching victories, the defeat of Boston by the Giants today putting the string of contests Marquard has won at fifteen—one more than the record previously held by Chesbro and Reulbach. The coveted honor came to Rube after pitching only two innings of today's game, which went to the Giants by a score of 6 to 5.

In these two innings he allowed but one hit and it did no damage. After Boston had tied the score in the eighth, Ames was taken out by McGraw when two were out and Marquard was sent in. Miller, who came to bat for O'Rourke, hit a fly to Murray and that ended the eighth.

Devlin, at the opening of the ninth, went to short in place of O'Rourke. With everybody on their toes, Hess quickly disposed of the New Yorks, and Boston was again at bat, only to be retired in short order. Rariden hit one of Marquard's twisters for a pop fly; Hess, the next man up, struck out and McDonald sent up a fly. Rube had stopped the hitting. In the tenth, Murray fled; Becker singled and Herzog followed with a triple to the fence, sending Becker across with the winning run. Meyers flied to Kirke, who made a beautiful throw, doubling up Herzog at the plate. Campbell, the first man up for Boston in the last half of the tenth, struck out. Max Sweeney, however, hit for a three-bagger, but it was useless, as Kirke lifted a pop fly and Jackson fanned.

Baker and His Mighty Bat Prove Too Much for Valiant Senators.

By International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, June 19.—After winning seventeen straight games, the Washington team lost both games of a double-header with the Athletics today, the first 2 to 1 and the second 4 to 3. Baker's terrific hitting broke up both the games for the Athletics, who in both contests won in the final inning. Coombs pitched great ball. The first game was a pitchers' battle between Coombs and Hughes. It looked like a sure Washington victory until the ninth, when with two out, Baker rapped the ball over the right field fence for a home run, tying the score. Washington's long winning streak came to an end in the tenth when Barry's single and Lapp's double gave the champions the winning run.
