Parties other than those having ledger accounts with the paper, civic societies and military organizations, are required to pay for transient advertisements in advance. An increase of 33 1-3 per cent. will be charged for transient advertisements not paid for in advance and no transient advertisement will be booked for less space than one inch. To illustrate: one-half inch is 50 cents, one inch 75 cents for one time, when paid in advance; but they will be $1.00 if charged. Transient advertisers will save money by remembering this notice, which applies in all cases, irrespective of financial responsibility.

Advertising rates furnished on application. Contractors are not allowed to exceed their space or advertise other than their legitimate business, except by paying especially for the same. Advertisements discontinued before the expiration of contract will be charged for at transient rates for the time inserted.

AS TO CRITICISM.

Surgeon General Sternberg rises to remark that there "is an evident craze to criticise." Inasmuch as freedom of speech is one of the most valuable prerogatives bequeathed to the American freeman, it is by no means likely that he will relinquish it even if his opinions do happen to reflect upon the ability of bureaucrats who fondly imagine that their positions place them upon a lofty pedestal that lifts them above the criticism of the "lowly herd."

While no intelligent person can have either patience or tolerance for chronic fault-finding, it is well to remember that legitimate criticism has been productive of more reforms than any other one power that has been exerted for the benefit of humanity. If men were too cowardly to criticize the conduct of affairs in the war between Spain and the United States, it would be impossible to profit by any of the costly lessons accentuated by the untimely death of so many brave young soldiers.

There can be no doubt that there is something wrong in methods which permit such conditions to exist as have been reported both from the front and from the points of mobilization in this country.

If we close our eyes to the truth and loyally exclaim, "The king can do no harm! great is the king!" there is no hope of getting at the truth of the matter and of remedying the defects in our system of handling troops.

Undoubtedly there is a craze to criticise, but if there is nothing worthy of indemnation we fail to see why our War Department friends are worrying either truth nor justice has ever suffered by being placed beneath the rays of critical analysis.

We are pained to note the announcement that the esteemed Duke of Manchester and Miss Joan Wilson have found it necessary to break their engagement. There would naturally be no reason for grief if either of the accomplished young persons to the contract had come to the conclusion that a mistake had been made in entering into the compact. This, however, is not the case and the engagement is broken only on account of sordid, disenchanting financial considerations. So far as we know, the "two hearts still beat as one," but the conclusion has been reached that their combined incomes are insufficient to accomplish the laudable task of supporting a family. This is by no means surprising when we are informed that the Duke's fortune is not extensive, while Miss Wilson only has a mere bagatelle of $150,000 a year. Of course, the parents of the young people objected to their starting housekeeping on any such prospects as these. While we know little about the expenses incident to married life in other cities we feel sure that if the Duke and Miss Wilson would only come to Newport News they could manage, on their income, to keep the wolf from the door by being real economical. Of Course, the Duchesse might find it necessary to do her own housework and cooking, but that would be a small matter if she really loved the Duke. Then, too, he might manage to get a job in the shipyard at wages which would swell the income to such an extent as to justify the employment of a house girl in time. By making every edge cut we feel sure they could make their modest little income of say $250.00 a year cover all of their absolute necessities. It is sad to think that these two loving hearts should be divided when there are so many places in which their limited fortune would permit them to live in comfort if they were only willing to make a few sacrifices.

Fighting Joe Wheeler's long distance political home member seems to be one of the very "warmest things" that ever occurred.

Is the War Over?

Well we hope it is, but we know that summer and hot weather will be with us for some time to come and if you have not already availed yourself of the chance to get a good Detroit Jewel Gas Range you have missed one of your best friends and more, you have missed the comfort that can only be had from the use of gas fuel, which brings delight and happiness wherever it is in use. Talk is cheap you may say and a gas man must "gas," and who can blame him. He knows a good thing—he wants to push it along, and he is willing that his friends should share in the procession. Generous soul that he is, he gives his advice free. It is no trouble to sing the praises of gas for fuel and as for light, its beauty shines so he who runs may be impressed. Gas for fuel at $1.00 is the cheapest fuel if it is economically used. Are you economical? You are prudent and wise. Therefore get a gas range. We will tell you something next week about heating that will surprise you. Call No. 34 on either phone if you can not call. But come if you can.
