

DANVILLE FAILS TO SPOD TIGERS

Three Straights for Roanoke Keeps Champs Safely in Last Place.

Danville, Va., August 9.—Roanoke made it three straights from the made it three straights from the afternoon from the locals, 5 to 4, pushing two men across in the ninth inning. The locals made a hard try in their half of the ninth, but the best they could do was one run. It was Perryman against Hall, and the former lost the game, owing to bases on balls.

Danville started off like a winner scoring two runs in the first, but dropped behind in the fourth and fifth, when Roanoke made three runs, and the was never able to overcome the lead though the Sox tied the score in the sixth. The locals did not play with the vim that Roanoke did, and thereby hangs the tale.

Pertinent Comment

By GUS MALBERT.

Back home to-day after our near-triumphal march upon Lynchburg. Though thwarted in our desire to get rid of at least four games in the series—there were just that number played—we nevertheless hold our heads high, for we are secure in the knowledge that we did the best we could. We won a game, but why blame us for that. Slattern-jawed Philanthropic Stark is the one at fault. He made us a present; out of the goodness of his heart, and it was as much a surprise to us as it was to any one else. But we are home again—home to carry on the warfare, and if luck be with us and the Gobbers bruckmillerize enough of the games, and the Red Sox quit being so peevish about their honored position where they can get a most excellent view of the procession as it passes by, we will yet achieve the glorious and which is our goal.

Two games were played in Lynchburg, and the first came our way by virtue of the graciousness of the S. P. Starke referred to above. He was guilty of a wild heave or two, which more than offset the surplus number of bingles which Dutch Revelle allowed S. P.'s fellow-players. Dutch horseshoed his way through so nicely in the first that Manager Cowan thought he might have something in his hip pocket, a rabbit's foot or something equally as potent, and sent him back to bring home the last. By this time, however, the Shoemakers had been fully advised of all that Dutch had in the shop and really anticipated what he was going to serve, while Bruck allowed the Colts to eke out the thing which the doughnut surrounds.

There was nothing of peculiar interest in either of the games. Aside from the surprising announcement that Richmond won a game, the wire's buzzing was as monotonous as of yore. Hanks or Hogue will probably start against Bruck, and he will doubtless use Hamilton or Hanafan.

An ingenious young person who had much time on his hands managed to saw off the following chunk working up an appetite for breakfast. With reservations we commend it to your tender mercy. This is how it jerks: The Fans' Lament.

We that go out, day by day, Read the dope and watch the play, Raise our pipes in this sad song, Something's rotten, something's wrong.

And the universe is gone to smash. What's the use of going out, If we cannot get the clout, If we sit and watch them down, Three men on and one man down, And the universe all gone to smash.

Take the men and stack them up, Fit to win a challenge cup! Martin, Dobson, Priest and all, Play the game and play good ball, But the universe still goes to smash.

Mac and Mattis in the garden, Need of no man ask a pardon, Then there's Scrap Iron, on whose brow Weight of worlds is brooding now, But the universe still goes to smash.

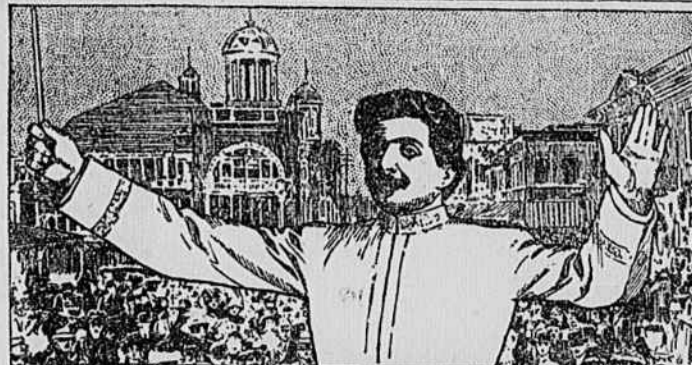

Wallace still can catch a fly, Still has got his batting eye, But each day it looks the same, If we play, we lose the game, And the universe still goes to smash.

Mr. Bradley, hear our plea, Give us baseball fit to see, Ere the last fond fan's disgusted, Ere the management is busted, And the universe clean gone to smash!

Pittsburg is now in the lead in the National League. Despite the fact that the Pirates are going strong, no less a person than Edward Lyon, just returned from looking them over, declares that the Cubs will be first; under the wire, and he is backed in his opinion by no less a person than Ernest J. Lannigan, than whom no man is better qualified to judge. Universally the Mackmen are selected for first honors in the American, especially in view of the fact that the Tigers are now playing minus their captain, Moriarity being out of the game because of a spike wound. Cobb is known to be sick, and should he collapse in the near future, it will not be surprising to see Detroit drop even lower than second place.

Robert Fannington, or Farmington, or Farrington—his chirography is not good—declares that he wants to meet any 150-pound mat artist in the State of Virginia. He has several victories to his credit, and can be found at 8012 Taylor Street.

A meeting of the Cardinals team in the Central League, has been called for to-night at 8:30 o'clock. The meeting is to be held at 200 West Broad Street, and all of the members of the team are requested to attend, as several matters of importance will be considered.

Oreste Vessella and his Italian Band, whose concerts on the Steel Pier at Atlantic City delight thousands of pleasure-seekers, can be heard in your own home with as much enjoyment as though you were at the popular seaside resort.

And beside this noted organization you can hear on the Victor such famous bands as Sousa's, Pryor's, U. S. Marine Band, Kryl's Bohemian and other of the greatest military bands on earth.

SHOW HORSES GIVE JUDGES MUCH WORK

Classes Well Filled and Animals Perform Uniformly Good—Darkness Comes Before Decisions Reached—Jullian Morris Scores Heavily in General Classes.

Charlotteville, Va., August 9.—The first day of the eleventh annual exhibition of the Albemarle Horse Show Association brought out some of the best horses ever seen in a Virginia show ring, according to competent judges. Twenty-three classes were shown, and competition was so close that it was dark when the ribbons were pinned on the winners in the final event.

There were twenty contestants in the Youthian class, and six clean performances. First money went to Algoma, a winner at Madison Square Garden last fall, and conceded to be the best hunter in America. Another Blenheim Farm entry to capture a blue was Paradox, in the class for thoroughbred hunters.

The silver plate presented by J. Anderson Chisholm, president of the Albemarle Association to the lady's best harness horse, was captured by Alexandria, a fine type of harness horse, full of class and manners. Garzone, a superb type of ladies' mare, was second in this event. Miss Amy E. Dupont, of Wilmington, had another consistent performance in the Cemblo, who won the blue in the novice harness class and that for harness horses 15-1-2 hands or over.

Julian Morris scored heavily with David Gray and Keswick, winners at Olympic show, in London, while his bay gelding, Confidante, won blue in the combination saddle and harness and gentleman's park hack classes.

The half-dozen cavalry-horses from Fort Meyer, exhibited at Olympia, London, were not at their best to-day. The chestnut gelding, Poppy, ridden by Lieutenant Adna Chaffee, carried off the blue in the class for green hunters.

Mrs. Allen Potts won first money in sporting tandem class, with Pretty Boy at the wheel. David Gray and Mate were second.

The two entries in the four-in-hand class gave such a superb performance that the judges divided the purse, and gave each a blue ribbon.

Lee Hechinger's team was conceded to be the best park four-in-hand, and R. L. Thomas's a splendid road four-in-hand.

Intense heat cut down the attendance. The judges were Dr. E. Lester Jones, of Culpeper; Charles R. Hooff, of Laurel, Md., and Harry W. Spratley, of Elberon, Va.
