ARCANUMITES DISCUSS INSURANCE PREMIUMS

Grand Council of the Order Meets in Annual Session at the Hotel Chamberlin.

100 DELEGATES ARE PRESENT

Visitors Are Welcomed to the State and Community by C. M. Bickers and S. H. Sayre—Convention Will Last For One Week, as Much Business is Before Body.

The Grand Council of the Royal Arcanum of the United States, convened in its twenty-ninth annual convention in Hotel Chamberlin yesterday afternoon. About 100 delegates are in attendance and many of them are accompanied by ladies. It is expected that the grand council will finish its work next Wednesday.

When the grand council met yesterday afternoon, Mr. G. M. Bickers, grand regent of Virginia, made the address of welcome on behalf of the Virginia Arcanumites. Past Regent S. H. Sayre, of Wythe county, spoke of the pleasure the local members of the order felt in having the grand body here, and Mr. Harry Kemp, grand squire of Virginia, was a orator to welcome the visitors. Mr. Howard C. Vignans, the grand regent, responded.

After these preliminaries the grand council invited all but members of the grand council to vacate, and the body immediately took up its work. The proceedings of the convention are secret. The work of organization was the main feature of the opening session—such as the appointment of committees and the mapping out of the program.

At 1 o'clock the grand council took adjournment until this morning at 1 o'clock.

The most important matter to be taken up by the order is insurance rates. Recently new rates were put into effect, which brought on much opposition and one council objected to the rates as being unfair and illegal. The case is now before the United States Supreme Court, having been taken there by a council in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Charles Hawkins, colored, was arrested last night on the charge of drawing a revolver on a white boy. He will answer to the charge in the police court this morning.

Franklin the Citizen.

Franklin was particular about the way of doing business. He was particular about the way in which he made his money. When he first started his newspaper in Philadelphia his rival was Bradford, who in addition to publishing a paper was postmaster general of the colonies. Bradford used his authority as postmaster general to practically exclude Franklin's papers from the mail by forbidding the post riders to carry them. Franklin shortly after succeeded Bradford as postmaster general. Here was the opportunity to build a monopoly and crush his old rival, but the thought never seems to have entered his head that the newspaper business of the colonies belonged to him. He says of Bradford in his attempt to crush Franklin's newspaper, "I thought so meanly of him for it that when I afterward came into his situation I took care never to imitate him."—American Illustrated Magazine.

Mr. John A. Curtis, of Richmond, a former Hamptonian, was among the out-of-town folks attending the meeting of the State board of fisheries.

The Japanese Language.
 The Japanese language has some features which puzzle beginners in its use. In English when one has learned the name for rice that ends it. Not so in Japan. Begin with cooked rice, meshi. When eaten by a child it is called mama. In speaking to another person of eating rice you call it gozen. As a merchant sells it, uncooked, it is koma and as it grows in the field it is ine. St a carpenter's foot, or shaku, is about twelve inches, but a tailor's is fifteen. A kin or pound of beef is fourteen ounces, of flour twenty-one, of sugar over thirty. The ri, or mile, varies in different provinces, and on the Fusuyama ascent half a ri is marked a ri because it's so much harder work going uphill.

Dr. Johnson's Kiss.
 On the eve of leaving London for Canada Mrs. Brooke, who wrote "The History of Emily Montague," the first novel written in Canada, gave a farewell party, Hannah More, Johnson and Boswell being in the company. Dr. Johnson was obliged to leave early and apparently departed after wishing his hostess health and happiness. Shortly after a servant whispered to Mrs. Brooke that a gentleman was waiting below to speak to her. Running downstairs, the fair novelist found the venerable lexicographer. "Madam," said he ponderously, "I sent for you downstairs that I might kiss you, which I did not choose to do before so many company."
