A PRAYER ANSWERED

(By Mrs. G. A. Schmelz.)

PART I.
Down the mountain side a rider was slowly wending his way. His horse wearily stumbled along the bridge path but his uneven gait was unheeded by his rider, who sat gazing intently before him into the valley below.

The smoke of many furnaces and mining plants dimmed the clear atmosphere, and told of the ceaseless activity there.

"How I wish," he thought sadly, "that the people of Eastern Virginia could see this country in all its aspects, as it lies before me. Italians, Swedes, Hungarians—indeed, people of almost every nation, dwelling in this little valley. No church bell, with its sweet, homelike charm calling the people to come and worship the Creator echoes over hill and valley, and Sunday is only a name."

The sluggish creek ran on and down the valley and fording its depths, rider and horse turned into the principal street of the settlement. Yesterday had been pay day, and the Sabbath was full of unholy sounds. The very air was foul with oaths of coarsest nature, and the ribald jest, followed by drunken laughter, was heard on all sides.

The young man unwittingly threw his hands to his ears, as something more dreadful yet, a drunken quarrel, sounded out along the street. The loud defiant language was quickly followed by an ominous sound, and in an instant an unnatural quiet reigned within. Not the peace of the Sabbath, but rather the quiet of horror, for a life lay ebbing away on the floor.

The young man lifted his eyes to heaven. "Did Jesus die for these poor sin-ridden people? Does he pity their ignorance and superstitions?"

Startled by his own thoughts, he groaned, "Oh Lord! forgive me, I know it is not Thy will that these should perish. Lord open Thou the eyes and hearts of Thy people."

PART II.
The peaceful Sabbath stillness was over land and sea, and church going Christians thronged the streets of our Capital City.

The congregations gradually filled the spacious edifice, and the minister rose to give his text: "And ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and in Samaria and unto the uttermost parts of the earth." He told with burning words how Jesus had committed to us this great trust. He spoke of the very valley of which we have been reading; of the thousands of Christless souls, slowly passing into eternity.

His words settled into the heart of one listener, probing deeper and deeper, and bringing up the refrain, "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these, ye did it unto Me." "God forgive me," he pleaded; on my side of the account for last month, an automobile, fine clothes, jewels for my wife and luxuries untold; on Jesus' side, my usual church dues—hush—conscience money." Raising his hands, he called out brokenly, "Stop, Pastor, Stop! Do not burn the iron into my very soul, but let me lay upon God's altar for State Missions, the salary of one missionary to tell these people about Christ."

A strange hush fell upon the audience, and as the deacons passed the baskets, such a collection poured in as had never been dreamed of.

Who shall say that the prayer back on the mountain side was not answered? Have you answered it too?

SWEAR/HE SAW GUNS THAT HAD BEEN USED

Lieut. Lawrason Gives Startling Testimony in Brownsville Investigation.

(By Associated Press.)
SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, Feb. 23.—In the Penrose courtmartial Lieut. George W. Lawrason, testified today under cross examination that when he inspected the guns on the morning after the "shooting up" of Brownsville, he found seven men with guns that had evidently been in use.

"At an order from Maj. Penrose, who just then came up," said Lieut. Lawrason, "I went off on another duty, leaving those seven men and guns to Penrose and Captain Lyon for further inspection."

The cross examination which was conducted by Colonel Glenn, was very minute. Court adjourned with Lieut. Lawrason still on the stand.

Figs and Dates.

It is a good plan to wash figs and dates before giving them to children, or, for that matter, to any one. Their sweetness attracts insects, and their stickiness makes them a perfect home for dust and its undesirable germs. Yet most people seem never to think of this at all. Washing will not impair the flavor. On the contrary, it makes them more agreeable to the sight and touch as well as to the taste.

Versatile.

"It was as much as I could do to keep from laughing when Miss Gusch remarked that her fiance was 'so versatile.'"

"Meaning Dumley? Well, he is rather versatile."

"Nonsense! He's a regular idiot."

"Yes, but he's so many different kinds of an idiot."—Philadelphia Press.

Mr. Herbert Jones has returned from Norfolk where he went to attend the funeral of his sister.

Died at Her Home "Heartsease."

Mrs. Hattie Mit Sugg, brother of Mr. Herbert Jones, of Hampton died last Wednesday at her home "Heartsease," Tazewell, N. C. Mrs. Sugg was the wife of William Caswell Sugg and the youngest daughter of the late Rev. Richard H. Jones, of Norfolk. She is survived by one sister and three brothers—Miss Isabella H. Jones and Messrs. A. M. and B. R. Jones, of Norfolk, and Mr. Herbert Jones of Hampton. The body was brought to Norfolk Thursday and funeral services were conducted from the residence of Mr. A. M. Jones, 127 College Place, by Rev. J. W. Morris, D. D., of Christ's Episcopal church. The body was interred at Elmwood cemetery, the pallbearers being as follows: Hunter Rogers, Edward Roby, T. D. Savage, B. C. Smith, A. C. Anspaugh, Paul Taylor, R. A. Smith and C. E. Chandler. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful.

Birthday Party.

The Misses Lanesky gave a very delightful party in compliment to their brother, A. Lanesky, Friday night. It was the birthday anniversary of the brother.

Funeral of Elias Todd.

The funeral of the late Mr. Elias Todd, the well known old citizen of Little Bethel who died Friday at his home, will take place this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the residence. Services will be conducted by Rev. W. R. Webb, of Mulberry Island, assisted by Rev. W. R. Keefe, of Riverview. The body will be interred at Big Bethel cemetery.

LOST SCHOONER WAS THE THOMAS WINSMORE

Report Says That the Vessel Sailed From Hampton Roads the Day Before Storm.

(By Associated Press.)

NORFOLK, VA., Feb. 23.—It was announced here today that it is now practically certain the three masted schooner which recently went to pieces off Cape Hatteras with all hands on board, was the Thomas Winsmore of Philadelphia, Captain Johnson, long overdue and now given up for lost.

The Winsmore sailed from Philadelphia, January 22 for Jacksonville, Fla., with hard coal, and put into Hampton Roads for harbor January 25. She went out later but again returned, and after putting ashore her mate who was ill, started South the day before the ill-fated vessel lost off Hatteras struck on Diamond Shoals.
