TYPHOID MARY WANTS LIBERTY

Woman Said to Breed Typhus Germs Gets Out Writ.

ISOLATED FOR TWO YEARS

Experts Say She is the Most Remarkable of the Fever Bacilli Carriers in Country and Will Have to Remain a Prisoner All Her Life Unless Court Frees Her.

New York, June 30.—After being kept a prisoner in quarantine on North Brother island for two years, though not committed by a court, Mary Mallon, a cook, was produced before Supreme Court Justice Giegerich on a writ of habeas corpus in the hope of regaining her liberty.

The woman, who is known to the health department as Typhoid Mary, declared through her lawyer that she was illegally deprived of her liberty.

In opposing her application the health department alleged that Mary had become a menace to every person with whom she came in contact, as, while herself immune, she had the power of communicating typhoid fever to others, involuntarily, however.

The cook stated that she had been treated on North Brother island like a leper and had been compelled to occupy a house by herself, her only companion being a dog.

Dr. William H. Parks, of the health department, says that Mary is one of more than two score persons in this country who are known as typhus bacilli carriers and that her case is the most remarkable of all.

The germs are supposed to lodge in the gall bladder and to be carried from there by the bile. Meanwhile new germs are taking the place of those that are carried away.

The expert declares that every effort has been made to cure Mary, who is a remarkably healthy looking woman, but according to Dr. Parks, without avail. He believes that, unless the court orders otherwise, she will have to remain on North Brother island all her life.

MRS. TUCKER DIVORCED

General Logan's Daughter Secures Decree on Grounds of Desertion. Chicago, June 30.—Mary Elizabeth (Dolly Logan) Tucker obtained a divorce from Colonel William F. Tucker,

MRS. MARY LOGAN TUCKER, U. S. A., retired, on grounds of desertion. Allimony was settled privately. Colonel Tucker did not contest. Mrs. Tucker was permitted to resume her maiden name. The only witnesses were Mrs. Tucker and her mother, widow of General John A. Logan.

CUT IN HALF BY TRAIN

Reading Brakeman Meets Horrible Death at Cressona.

Pottsville, Pa., June 30.—James Faust, a Philadelphia & Reading railway brakeman at Cressona, was literally cut in half when he attempted to cross over a moving freight train. He fell between the first car, and the locomotive and the wheels of the car passed over his body.

Whisky Kills Five-Year-Old Boy.

Reading, Pa., June 30.—While his mother thought he was playing in the yard, five-year-old Matthew Amorosa, son of Dennis Amorosa, of this city, explored the contents of a closet, in which he found a bottle of whisky. The little fellow drank the liquor and in a short time became ill. He opened a window in the rear of the house and fell out, landing on his head and fracturing his skull. He died before a hospital was reached.

To Exclude Negro Firemen by Law.

Atlanta, Ga., June 30.—A bill to exclude negroes from employment as firemen and trainmen in this state is being prepared by a committee representing the firemen and train of the Georgia railroad. The bill will be presented to the Georgia legislature, now in session.

A Counter-Irritant.
"It is odd how his friends treat a man when he gets in hot water with the police."
"How do they treat him?"
"They bail him out with cold cash."

COME AGAIN.

There is no cause to doubt it. The evidence is plain. In mercury and in feeling. The heat waves here again. Folks make frosts by predicting. But really they don't chime. With the sureness we have with us. The good old summer time.

But many things are coming. With the season most dislike. Which things we gladly welcome. That make with us a great strike. Such as strawberries and roses. Dollar shows had for a dime. Trolley rides, suburban picnics. With the good old summer time.

Then the bells of all the year-time. Soft of cheek and gold of curl. All fluffs and ruffs and frivols. Is the charming summer girl. And the moonlight scrolls of lovers. That with joy bells rapturous chime—Oh, there are compensations. In the good old summer time!

JUST WHAT HE THOUGHT.

Pat (referring to invalid wife)—Shure, and she's awful bad, doctor; I believe she's got—

Doctor (interrupting)—My dear man, she's got suffusion of the clavicle in the lachrymial gland of the glenoid fossa!

Pat—Begorra! You took the very words out of me mouth!

Howdy?
Juliana Louise Emma Marie Wilhelmina, say—
What do you think of Holland, and how do you feel to-day?

A Winner.
I'd like to say. Ere 'tis too late. All hail the sweet Girl graduate!

The Wretch.
"I saw Mrs. Jinx out buggy riding with a strange man yesterday."
"You did? I always had my doubts of that woman! I wonder who the man was?"
"Jinx; you told me no longer than yesterday that Jinx was certainly a strange man."

Some Charge.
"Roosevelt has got his nerve, all right."
"Nerve nothing."
"Were you ever charged by a rhinoceros?"
"No, but I've been charged by the gas company."

Easier.
"I'm going in for poetry."
"Indeed! Let me see some when you have it written."
"I'm not going to write any, you goose! This is a book store; I am going in to buy some."

A Common Complaint.
"It ain't my fault I stay poor."
"How do you make that out?"
"It's the fault of Nature. I was born with a bunch of darned expensive tastes, and without enough brains to keep up with 'em."

What's the Use?
"My husband wrote a poem roasting the new bee hive hats."
"But I see you wear one of them yourself!"
"Yes, I bought it with the money he got for the poem."

Accurate, But Misleading.
"How could you, with your morbid love of truth, tell the relative you did not want to travel with you, that you would not take the 10:30 train?"
"It was strictly true. The 10:30 train will take me."

Coming Events.
Bwana Tumbo, in addition to killing a huge bull rhinoceros, has captured alive an entirely new animal, which "looks like a cross between a giraffe and a zebra." Watch for the zebraffe in the next circus.

A New Reading.
"He is a man of steel."
"I hope that means well tempered."
