

ALLEGED MUTINY.—The Fortress Monroe correspondent of the New York Herald, under date of 29th ult., furnishes the following information: "Information having been sent yesterday to Maj. Gen. Dix that a mutiny had broken out on the Eastern Shore of Virginia, he immediately ordered the army gunboat Westend, commanded by Capt. J. C. Lee, of the 99th regiment N. Y. volunteers, to proceed there to quell the same, peaceably if he could, forcibly if he must. It appears from the facts, as obtained from Gen. Dix, that Col. Wilkins' Maryland regiment, numbering about six hundred men, had been organized for the express purpose of doing duty in its own State, and ever since its organization has been guarding the railroads and such other service within the State as was ordered. Gen. Wool, however, ordered the regiment to proceed to Eastville, on the Eastern Shore, against the wishes of the officers and men, and contrary to the agreement of the organization of the corps. Two of the companies refused to land, and openly mutinied against the government; hence the measures adopted by Gen. Dix. As the Westend has not yet returned, I cannot state any result thus far." It will be remembered that some days, we published the fact that some seventy-five members of this regiment had been sent to Fort McHenry, charged with insubordination, in refusing to leave the State.

The Washington Republican publishes a letter from Gen. Grant's army, dated October 27, which says that "Price's army is reorganizing, and his advance guard is within eighteen miles of Bolivar. Notwithstanding his losses, he must have 30,000 men, 8,000 of whom are exchanged prisoners. From Saulsbury he threatens equally Bolivar and Corinth, and if he moves may move on either point."

The army dispatch from the headquarters of the army of the Potomac, published in the newspapers, cautions the publishers of newspapers against giving information with regard to the location of divisions of the U. S. army, and the movements of corps.

The Washington Republican has an article advocating the overthrow of slavery in the South, especially Texas and Florida, so as to open the country to the "unrestricted enterprise and emigration of the Northern people."

The Wilmington Journal announces the arrival there of seven regiments of negroes, to garrison the town and fortifications during the sickly season. They have been in a camp of instruction under white officers for three months.

We learn through the New York Times that "our military authorities are considering the subject of establishing a corps of reserve in the vicinity of the Capital, to be held in hand for such service as the emergency may require."

Albert Horn, a merchant of the city of New York, was convicted in the Federal Court on Wednesday of fitting out a slaver at that port.

One hundred and twenty-five marriage licenses were issued by the Clerk of the Circuit Court in Washington during the month just passed.

The paper trade is beginning to experience the effects of the war. Stocks on hand are running low, and an increase of prices equal to 25 to 30 per cent. has been established during the week past.

It is understood that the commission of generals, engineers, &c., that are to decide upon a system of defenses for the capital are to go beyond the mere work of constructing forts or field works in addition to those now in the immediate vicinity of Washington, and will suggest what is necessary to be done upon the Chesapeake and the Patapsco, and what additional railroad facilities to the interior are required.

The officers of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company received positive information from Cumberland, by telegraph, on Thursday night, that the Confederates had, on the day previous, completed the destruction of the railroad bridge called Black Creek Bridge. The bridge was situated between Martinsburg and Cumberland, about ten miles west of Martinsburg, and twenty-five miles northwest from Hagerstown. The same advices also state that the work was executed by 1,200 Confederate cavalry, who, at the time the information was sent, were at Hedgeville.

At St. Louis, James R. Lockland, a prominent lawyer, has been arrested and committed to a military prison, by order of the provost marshal general, in consequence of a speech delivered at a democratic meeting in which he is said to have used "treasonable language."

The Congressional elections next Tuesday in New York, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Delaware and Missouri will probably decide the political character of the next Congress.

The commissioner of internal revenue has decided that, under the new tax law, hucksters who buy up produce through the country and sell in towns or cities from their wagons, must take out a pedlar's license. If they haul their produce to the city or town and sell thence from stalls or tables, they are required to take out a dealer's license, providing their sales reach a thousand dollars annually.

The Washington papers say that during the disturbance raised in Alexandria a few days ago, by a number of soldiers belonging to the Second Fire Zouaves, heretofore referred to, the Provost Guard being attacked, killed one of the rioters, another died of his wounds, and another was severely wounded. Gen. Stough complimented the guard for the faithful performance of their duty.

A dispatch says:—An aid to Gen. Longstreet, who was paying a visit to Fairfax, was taken prisoner to-day."

AMUSEMENTS.—The Circus yesterday afternoon and last night was crowded to the full capacity of the tent, and all were more than satisfied with the entertainment. The equestrian performance elicited great applause.—The acrobatic feats were truly wonderful, and the clowns made capital fools of themselves, though they said some very smart things.—Commodore Nutt, and Gen. Thumb, rendered themselves very entertaining and attractive.—To-night there will be a rush, so those who want a good seat had better go early.

The Canterbury Company, at Liberty Hall, are presenting several new and attractive features in their bills, and Dick Parker and his associates continue to draw large audiences, notwithstanding the Circus.

Appleton Oaksmith, of filibuster and slave-trade notoriety, who escaped from jail in Boston some time since, where he was under sentence to serve a term in the state prison for engaging in the African slave trade, arrived at Havana on a sailing vessel a few days ago, and has gone to a plantation to recruit his health which seems to have suffered from his long confinement.
