WAR NEWS.—An arrival from New Orleans brings dates to the 25th ult. It is stated that the cause of the failure of Gen. Banks to attack Port Hudson, was that Admiral Farragut started some hours before the time agreed upon, thus preventing the land forces from getting their artillery in position to draw the Confederates from their entrenchments. No report of Gen. Dudley's expedition, opposite Port Hudson, had been received. A plan of operations is about being carried into effect to cause the withdrawal of the Confederates from the Atchafalaya and Red rivers. It is reported that the Confederates have strong fortifications at Bute La Reas, and that the ram Queen of the West is stationed there.

Gen. Gilman, in one dispatch, estimates the Confederate loss in the fight at Somerset, Ky., at 300, and in another at 500, including prisoners. The Federal loss in killed, wounded and missing does not exceed 30. The reports of the numbers of the Confederates who invaded the State were greatly exaggerated. It is believed that all have left, or are about to leave, for Tennessee.

A body of one hundred Federal troops attacked the Confederate guerillas near Moscow, Tenn., on Monday last, and dispersed them.—Subsequently five hundred Confederates attacked the Federal troops, but were repulsed, with a loss of thirty-five killed and a large number wounded and taken prisoners. The Federal loss was six killed and thirty-four wounded. The Confederate account of the late fight at Port Hudson states that the battle lasted just two hours and ten minutes. The Confederate loss in the affair is said to have been only one officer slightly and one private severely wounded.

The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia North American telegraphs the following: "The administration, it is said, confidently anticipates that news will be received before the close of the present week of important successes by the fleet in the rear of Charleston, arrangements having been perfected for the commencement of the attack on the 26th or 27th inst. If the batteries at Stono can be taken, it is believed that the troops can be landed and the city reached without assaulting Sumter and Moultrie at all."

In her passage up the Mississippi, the Confederate rams attempted to stop the Hartford, but Admiral Farragut drove them off with heavy broadsides.

The South Carolina correspondent of the Boston Journal, writing under date of Hilton Head, on the 27th ult., says: "The troops which were recently sent to Jacksonville, are on their return. The object which was had in view by the occupation of that town has been accomplished in part, and there is no further need of keeping them there. If the force sent to Jacksonville had been doubled at the outset the result undoubtedly would have been exceedingly gratifying; but for some reason only a handful of troops were sent, and the opportunity for securing several thousand negroes for the service of the U. S. was lost."

The Union league of the State of Maryland suggests to the various Union leagues and Union clubs throughout the country, the holding of a convention of all the leagues and clubs, in the city of Washington, some time during the month of June next—say on Wednesday, the 17th day of that month—for the purpose of consultation.

A grand demonstration of the Union leagues of the country is to take place at New York, on the 11th inst., the anniversary of the attack on Fort Sumter.

The Boston Transcript understands that several of the banks in that city have under consideration the subject of reorganizing under the national banking law.

It is said that the prize steamer Peterhoff will probably be released.
