

A RUMORED RAID.—The Philadelphia Inquirer of this morning says:—"The citizens of Western Pennsylvania and Western Virginia have again been greatly alarmed by the reported advance of a large body of Confederates.—A number of refugees from Morgantown and vicinity, and from the southwestern tier of counties of Pennsylvania, hastened northward on Thursday morning, and the funds and books of the Morgantown and Uniontown Banks were removed to Pittsburg for safety. On Wednesday night the raiders were reported to be at Kingwood, in Preston county, about twenty miles from Morgantown, with a view of striking the National road at Farmington, eleven miles from Uniontown. Subsequent intelligence, however, proved the whole matter to have been based on mischievous rumors. The Pittsburg journals of yesterday morning state that the rumors was probably occasioned by the sudden appearance in that vicinity of a company of Union cavalry, as bodies of troops have been constantly employed in scouting through the country, and that the line of the Baltimore Railroad is being strongly guarded by blockhouses at all assailable points, while a despatch from Pittsburg, yesterday noon, reports that the excitement at Morgantown had abated, and that the reported raid was considered a canard.

ARMY OF THE CUMBERLAND.

NASHVILLE, June 5.—The news from Franklin up to 2 p. m. to-day is that Baird was attacked by twelve hundred Confederate cavalry yesterday, which drove his forces back into their entrenchments. They rallied, however, and repulsed the enemy with heavy loss. Simultaneously an attack was made upon the forces at Triune. They were repulsed with the loss of two hundred men and four hundred horses, and a lot of camp and garrison equipage. Six hundred and seventy-nine Federal soldiers arrived in this city this morning, representing one hundred and fourteen different regiments. They will be sent to their respective commands.

The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer says:—Fernando Wood arrived here last night, and this morning visited the Secretary of War and the President. He was with both for some time, and took the opportunity to disavow his late speech in New York, as reported in the papers. What can be his object in so doing is difficult to explain, but that he did so we have undoubted assurance.

It was reported in Cincinnati, yesterday, that General Johnson is marching upon Memphis, instead of attempting to relieve Pemberton at Vicksburg. The rumors came through divers sources, and obtained some credence.

The New York Express says:—"The Washington Star says, as if by Washington authority Gen. Hunter's recent letter was "not sent" meaning, but not saying, thereby, "it was not genuine." The Star is right, but nevertheless, the letter was not only genuine, but bears the Hunter-idiosyncratic stamp of being "genuine." It may not have been "sent," but it was published first under Gen. Hunter's own eye, at Beaufort, in "The Free South," and from there copied into the Northern Press."

S. gunboats steamed up the Reppahannock to the town of Tappahannock, where there was a strong cavalry picket, which was shelled out, and some of the Federals were landed, and they destroyed about 20,000 bushels of grain which was stored there. A party was sent ashore one night near Urbana, and came off with a quantity of goods. They brought off also a couple of flags as trophies.
