

WAR NEWS.

A despatch received last night from Washington states that cavalry operations have had an important result in unmasking the movements of Gen. Lee. He is believed to be advancing upon the Army of the Potomac in three columns. His right, under Gen. Hill, by way of Occoquan; his centre under Gen. Ewell, by way of Thoroughfare Gap, and his left, under Gen. Longstreet, by way of Leesburg. It is asserted that such a disposition has been made of his forces by Gen. Hooker, that no surprise can possibly take place.

Gen. Breckinridge was said to be at Jackson. The statement comes by way of Memphis that Louisiana, opposite Vicksburg, is full of Confederates, that Gen. Pemberton was reinforced by troops being sent at night across the Mississippi from De Soto, and that supplies were taken to his army by that route.

It is believed at Murfreesboro' that Gen. Bragg has just been reinforced by three brigades and now has eighteen brigades, in all; also that he is to take the offensive, in co-operation with Gen. Buckner, at Knoxville, and invade Kentucky. There is some apprehension in Western Kentucky that the Confederates are going to attack Columbus and Hickman. Farmers all over Kentucky are so apprehensive of an invasion that they are turning their cattle into the wheat fields to keep the grain from the Confederates. The body of Confederate cavalry which recently made the raid into Maysville, numbering one hundred, were captured near Triplett's Bridge.

It is reported that Gen. Lee, with the main portion of his army, is within a few miles of Centreville, and Gen. Hooker is before him. If this be so, it is expected a battle cannot much longer be postponed.

Everything valuable had been removed from Aquia Creek, and the last of the Federal troops left there about five o'clock on Wednesday morning. A number of gunboats, however, are lying off the Creek, and command it. On Wednesday afternoon four boat's crews, numbering about forty men, were sent on shore to reconnoiter, and proceeded a short distance out on the railroad, when they fell in with a squad of about twenty-five Confederate cavalry. The cavalry made a dash at them, firing as they charged, and the tars retreated towards the boats, firing as they fell back, and succeeded in getting off safely.—The cavalry stopped near the wharf, and were examining the storehouses, when the gunboats opened on them with shell, causing them to leave.

Yesterday there was some excitement at Laurel Factory, on the Baltimore and Washington road, from the suspicious appearance and conduct of some strangers in that part of the country, who were believed to be Confederate officers.

From Fortress Monroe we learn that Gen. Wise's forces had left the Peninsula, and had fallen back beyond the Chickahominy. A part of Gen. Keyes's forces occupied New Kent Court House on the 15th inst. There had been a sharp skirmish near the Chickahominy, but the loss had been slight.

The Northern Central Railroad Company have removed their rolling stock and such other property as could be damaged, from York and vicinity. The banks too, have removed their funds to Philadelphia. All the sick soldiers in York, (of which there was a large number, a hospital having been some time ago established there,) and all Government property, have been removed east of the Susquehanna, by order of Government. The funds of the bank at Columbia, in Lancaster county, have also been removed to Philadelphia.

Correspondents of the Northern papers writing from North Carolina report that the Unionists in that state are organizing, that the Confederate citizens are urging Gov. Vance for force for protection, which he cannot send, &c.

A gentleman from Hagerstown, Md., informs the Baltimore American that the Confederates in and about Hagerstown "are returning to their owners the runaway slaves which they found in Pennsylvania;—that their officers pay $4 per day, in Confederate money for board at the hotels; that horses and other property belonging to citizens of Maryland have been returned to them; and that every effort is being made to make their stay as little offensive to the people as possible."

The Manchester (N. H.) Print Works Company has declared a dividend of twenty per cent. for the last six months, payable on demand. The ladies can see what profit they are paying the manufacturers for their calicoes.—Forty per cent. per annum is not hard to take, even in war times.

The Philadelphia Press says that Judge Woodward, nominated as the Democratic candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, "is a strong State Rights' man, and has been Southern in his sympathies." He is said to be a man of the highest personal character.
