

In June, 1862, a disturbance occurred in Rio de Janeiro between the officers of a British frigate and the Brazilian local authorities, which subsequently became a topic of international controversy between the Governments of Great Britain and Brazil. The question in dispute was referred to the King of Belgium for his arbitration, and that monarch has just rendered his decision in favor of the rightfulness of the conduct of the Brazilian authorities in the premises.

It is stated on doubtful authority that Gen. Ewell, the successor of Stonewall Jackson, died on Monday from wounds received at the battle of Gettysburg on Friday.

Capt. E. P. Fitch, depot quartermaster at Martinsburg, Virginia, arrived in Baltimore yesterday about one o'clock, with his train of horses, wagons, and Government stores, amounting to over one and a half millions.

The rain continued last night and to-day, and frequently, in heavy showers. It will have the effect of causing a rise in all the streams, and making the roads very muddy.

GREENBACKS FOR FODDER.—A most singular circumstance occurred in the town of Wright near Berlin, in Ottawa County, about ten miles from this city. Mr. Thos. G. Harris called at our office and narrated the following: He had been at work during the early part of the day on the highway, in that town, with his oxen, during which time a gentleman called to pay him $205, which he did in greenbacks except five. There were fifteen pieces of this money, varying from fifty to five dollars. They were carefully rolled up and a string tied around them, and as a matter of safety, placed in the bottom of his dinner pail and left in the wagon.—Having occasion to go a short distance away, he placed his oxen so as to feed from the wagon, and was absent from them a short time.—On his return he found his dinner and money gone. Diligent search was made for the money, but without success. There was but one conclusion left—one or other of the oxen had eaten both dinner and money. Here was a dilemma: which ox had eaten it, and how could it be restored? The peculiar ruminating quality of this institution made it very dangerous for the depositors.

Something must be done, and speedily, or else the chances to invest in 5 20's would be gone. A thought struck Mr. Harris. He resolved to kill both oxen and make a thorough search among the assets of the bank for evidence. He accordingly concluded to dispatch the master ox first, as he wisely concluded he would appropriate the lion's share to himself. This was immediately done, when much to his delight he found the wad of money, but little injured, in the stomach of the ox. [Grand Rapids Democrat.

ANOTHER BATTLE REPORTED.

NEW YORK, July 8.—The following is a special to the New York Herald:

HARRISBURG, July 7—Evening.—I have just received late and important intelligence from Williamsport.

The Confederates were drawn up along the line of the Potomac. They had no pontoon bridges, and were ferrying their wagons across, under great difficulty, in two scows.

The Federal army had already arrived at the scene, and at four o'clock this afternoon a furious battle was progressing.

HARRISBURG, July 7—10.20 p. m.—The latest report here is that the whole Confederate army is routed in utter panic. They are fleeing in all directions, throwing away arms, and abandoning guns, trains, and everything for life.

FROM THE WEST.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Headquarters 16th Army Corps, July 5, 1863—noon.—Maj. Gen. Halleck, General-in-Chief.—Prentiss was attacked in force by the forces under Holmes and Price, on yesterday. He estimates the force at fifteen thousand. I think nine thousand will cover their strength.

Prentiss sustained their attack until 3 p. m., from daylight, when the Confederates were repulsed at all points, leaving twelve hundred prisoners.

Their loss in killed and wounded is about from five to six hundred. Prentiss lost about sixty. He has already sent me eight hundred and sixty prisoners, which I send to Alton to-day on the "Silver Moon."

European Affairs.

The London Times looks on the present position of England in European affairs with uneasiness. "We are neither pledged to intervention, nor bound to an offensive or defensive alliance with France; yet we seem to have swerved somewhat from the wise and professed policy of keeping ourselves disentangled from the counsels of other States and guiding ourselves by the doctrine of non-intervention.—We have entered upon a career in which it is quite impossible to stop short; from which it may even be impossible to recede—a career which so long as it lasts, is not unattended with danger, and from which we may find it difficult to extricate ourselves without some degree of discredit."

The Times adds: "We confess to some of the uneasy and unsettled feelings which took possession of the minds of all reflecting men during the lowering and unsettled year which preceded the Crimean war. Our anchor is lifted, and we are drifting in a current which seems leading us to one of two disagreeable alternatives—war if we advance; loss of character if we retreat." The Times also says: "The Russians in Paris seem to be persuaded that war is all but certain."

PUBLIC SALE OF POTOMAC LANDS AND FISHERY.

By virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court for Prince George's County, sitting as a Court of Equity, the subscriber, as Trustee, appointed by the said decree, will expose to public sale, on Tuesday, the 14th day of July, 1863, at 12 o'clock M. (if fair, if not the next fair day thereafter,) at the Bellemonte House, on Broad Creek, in Prince George's County, Maryland, near the premises, all the right, title and interest of Rozier T. Daingerfield, of in and to a certain portion of the Bellemonte estate, containing THREE HUNDRED AND FIFTEEN ACRES, more or less, and known as the "INDIAN QUEEN." The above mentioned property, is situated in Prince George's County, Md., on the Potomac river, about three miles below Alexandria, Va., and eight miles from Washington, D. C., and between Rozier's Bluff and the mouth of Broad Creek. This land is of the highest quality of Potomac Bottom, and admirably suited to the growth of Tobacco and Garden Stuff, and is heavily timbered. There is also a FISHERY ON THE PREMISES, well known as the "Sandy Bar Fishery"—one of the best Shad Fisheries on the Upper Potomac. There are TENANTS' HOUSES, and BARNs for curing tobacco and storing grain, and other conveniences.

The fertility of the soil of this valuable estate, its proximity to market, and its excellent Fishery and timber, make it a most desirable investment.

The above most desirable property will be offered as a whole, without the Fishery, or the Land and Fishery together, or in two divisions—one division containing one hundred and seventeen, and the other one hundred and ninety-two acres, more or less—each having a river front—the Fishery to be included in one of the divisions or not, as may be desired.

Possession to be given on the first day of January, 1864.

TERMS OF SALE, AS PRESCRIBED BY THE DECREE, ARE:—"One thousand dollars in each on the day of sale, and the residue in equal instalments of one, two, three, four and five years from the day of sale—the whole to bear interest from the day of sale, and the payment thereof to be secured by the bonds of the purchaser, with a surty or surities, to be approved by the Trustee. The whole interest to be paid at the end of each and every year.
