WAR NEWS.

The Richmond Whig of the 13th inst. contains the following:

"CHARLESTON, S. C., February 10 — A force of the enemy, believed to be from two to three thousand strong, landed at Grimball's, James Island, at 8 o'clock this morning, and drove in our pickets; some skirmishing took place, but no general engagement. Grimball's is on the Stono river, about two miles southwest of Charleston, the Ashley river, two thousand yards wide, intervening. The enemy are making active demonstrations at various points, but they are believed to be feints.

"A force attacked our troops on the Salkehatchie this morning, but were easily repulsed. They also advanced upon the Charleston road, near the Blue House, and opened with artillery, but made no impression on our lines. Intelligence from the road to day reports that the enemy crossed the Edisto at Bennaker's Bridge. The enemy are moving on Edisto."

"It will be remembered that on Friday, the 4th instant, Sherman crossed the Selkahaachie between Blackstone and River's Bridge, thereby completely outflanking our forces, and compelling them to fall back to Branchville.

"We have since learned that the Federals forded the river, through water waist deep, at Rivers' Bridge. A sharp engagement took place which lasted several hours, in which General Wheeler's cavalry inflicted severe injury upon the enemy. On the 8th a heavy column of his infantry struck the South Carolina railroad, at Gramsville, about eighteen miles west of Branchville, while Kilpatrick with a cavalry force, occupied Blackville, on the same road, about nine miles a little north west of Gramsville. A portion of Sherman's column, it was rumored yesterday, moved forward, crossing the South Edisto and flanking Branchville on the west and advanced to Orangeburg, on the Columbia and Branchville road, sixteen miles north of the latter point. Orangeburg is a beautiful village of about a thousand inhabitants, and has been a favorite retreat of refugees from Charleston. It was largely engaged in the manufacture of indigo before the war."

The Petersburg Express of Feb. 11th says, "that it has substantial grounds for the belief that Grant was reinforced last week by twelve thousand of Thomas's troops, and during all of Thursday, Friday and Saturday night last his trains were running from City Point to the Yellow Tavern. During Saturday the enemy's pickets confronting ours near the Baxter road taunted the Confederates with the remark that their time had come; and alleged for the assertion that 12,000 of Thomas' western men had reached Grant."

Admiral Porter reports that an expedition, consisting of fifty men, with four boats from the U. S. steamer Monticello, on the night of the 4th instant, proceeded eight miles up the Little River, S. C., and landed at the small town of All Saints' Parish, where they found and destroyed $15,000 worth of cotton, and captured some soldiers and arms. At the mouth of the harbor two flats, containing twenty three bales of cotton, were also captured and brought off.

The Confederates, according to the late Southern accounts, appear to apprehend an attack on Mobile and other points in Alabama, by Gen. Thomas's army.

Fifty-six steamers loaded with troops and army material arrived at Cairo from the Tennessee River a few days ago. On reaching Cairo the soldiers are said to have commenced a regular raid upon the stores of that place, taking whatever they could lay their hands upon. Many of the stores suffered heavily; some of them losing thousands of dollars worth of property. The fleet is reported to be bound down the Mississippi, and it was conjectured that its destination was Mobile.

Gen. J. M. Schofield, formerly connected with the army of Gen. Sherman, and lately commanding a corps in that of Gen. Thomas, has assumed command of the Department of North Carolina. This places him at the head of all military forces now operating in the vicinity of Wilmington. It is expected that Gen. Terry, will have command of a corps under General Schofield. Affairs remain quiet on Cape Fear river at the date of the latest dispatches.
