

Clarence Seward, another son of the Secretary of State, and inflicted upon him several serious wounds.

The assassin then rushed out, mounted a bay horse, with light mane, and rode off, not at a gallop, but at what is called a "pace."

Doctors Barnes, Norris, and Nutson were soon in attendance, and did all in their power for the sufferers.

Secretary Seward was able to speak and swallow, but both caused him much pain, though none of the arteries of the throat were cut.

The person who attempted to assassinate Secretary Seward left behind him a slouched hat and an old, rusty navy revolver. The chambers were broken loose from the barrel, as if done by striking. The loads were drawn from the chambers, one being but a rough piece of lead, and the others balls smaller than the chambers,—wrapped in paper, as if to keep them from falling out.

RESTORATION.—The Norfolk Old Dominion of the 12th inst., says:—"Gov. Pierpoint has left Norfolk for Richmond, to look after gubernatorial interests. The proposition of President Lincoln, as stated in the Richmond Whig, to reassemble the Virginia Legislature at Richmond, for the purpose of authorizing a convention to take back the state into the bonds of the Union, interferes with the re-organized government of this State. It was thought that Governor Pierpoint would effect the removal of the capital from Alexandria to Richmond, together with its entire working organization, but the interest of President Lincoln in the Virginia (Rebel) Legislature at Richmond, will somewhat interfere with that object."

The Executive Chair of the U. S. will, at once, be filled by Vice President Johnston, who will, at the proper time, take the oath of office, as President.

LOCAL NEWS.

THE PROCESSION here, yesterday, in honor of the re-hoisting of the U. S. flag on Fort Sumter, was one of the largest displays of the kind ever seen in this place. The military were out in full force, accompanied by line bands of music, and these were followed by various Associations with appropriate emblems. The line extended fourteen squares, and took just half an hour in passing any point. The Fire Department had their apparatus ornamented and drawn by horses; there was a miniature Monitor on wheels manned and equipped—a blacksmith's forge—a printing press in operation—barouches filled with little girls handsomely attired, representing the States—a long line of carriages with citizens, the Sons of Temperance, and a Lodge of Colored Freemasons dressed in their regalia. The procession passed through the principal streets, and was dismissed without accident or disorder about 5 o'clock, p. m. Many of the houses and stores on the line of march were decorated with flags, banners and devices. The streets were thronged all the afternoon with crowds of people, who cheered the procession during its march, and the bells were rung at intervals.

ACCIDENT.—The only accident that we have heard of, connected with the celebration, yesterday, took place last night. Two wagons filled with fire works, were at the intersection of King and Washington streets, when the persons having them in charge fired off one or two, which bursting near the remainder, and setting fire to them, the whole exploded, burning and wounding some three or four persons, one of them severely, but none of them we learn, dangerously. Great excitement prevailed for some time; but upon hearing that there was no loss of life the crowd dispersed.

ILLUMINATION.—Last night several bonfires were lighted on King street, and other parts of the city. The Commissary Quarters on the corner of Prince and Water streets, was brilliantly illuminated, as was Mr. Harrison's restaurant on Prince street, and various houses and dwellings in different directions.

THE MARKET.—There is no change to notice in the prices in market this morning in either meats or vegetables. Butter (fresh print) 50 to 55 cts. Eggs 35 cts. Fish unchanged. The market was not well supplied.

Upon the receipt of the news of the death of the PRESIDENT of the United States, the bells in this place were tolled, and the flags draped in mourning. Business was entirely suspended. The stores and shops were all closed, and, for the most part, draped in mourning, and a funeral silence soon reigned in the streets.

All communication between this place and Washington was immediately closed, this morning, upon the receipt of the news of the dreadful outrage in Washington. Neither the steamboats nor the railroads were in operation.

Several military arrests were made in this place to day, and the parties held for examination.

CAPTURE OF J. WILKES BOOTH!

SEC. SEWARD AND HIS SON STILL ALIVE.

WASHINGTON, 2.35 P. M., April 15.—J. Wilkes Booth, the murderer of President Lincoln, was this forenoon captured in this city.

It seems that after committing the murder last night, he started out Seventh street at a fearful pace, was thrown from his horse, and very badly injured. He was carried into a house near by, where he was to day found and arrested.

Major Seward is not expected to live over night, though he has not been heard from for some hours. It seems that he was seriously injured by a stroke on the head in addition to the other wounds inflicted.

No perceptible change has taken place in the condition of Secretary Seward up the last report, some hours since. Owing to his previous feeble condition his friends hardly look for his recovery.

Inauguration of Andrew Johnson As President of the United States.

Andrew Johnson was to-day at 11 o'clock, a. m. inaugurated as President of the United States at the Kirkwood House in Washington. The oath was administered by Chief Justice Chase in presence of many dignitaries.

Mr. Johnson made a brief speech, in which he said:

The duties of the office are mine: I will perform them—the consequences are with God.

THE FUNERAL.

It is expected, though nothing has been definitely determined upon, that the funeral of the late President Lincoln will take place on or about Thursday next. It is supposed his remains will be temporarily deposited in the Congressional Cemetery.
